"Henceforth a Series of new time began,
The mighty Years in long Procession ran."

• • • •

• • • •

Somebody should hasten to inform Chairman Raskob that he adds nothing to the cause of tolerance by denouncing Bishop Cannon as a bigot. Let the Bishop speak for himself.

• • • •

With Pierre S. du Pont coming out for Al, little Delaware is beginning to feel all puffed up like a pivotal State.

• • • •

The first batch of Andy Mellon's new coolidgeconomy paper money is inspected at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. It is understood that the Bureau of Standards loaned the microscope.

• • • •

There is a feeling that the Kellogg treaties to abolish all wars until the next one "may be given undue importance and presented to the various peoples as a real or even superior move in the direction of world peace," but is there any grave danger of this on the part of anybody but Republican campaign spellbinders?

• • • •

Although he is a fair-haired boy with the Antisaloon League by always voting dry, Representative Zihlman, in reply to his snooty opponent, coyly admits, "I may take a drink," and adds, without enumerating them, that there are "lots of ways a dry ember of Congress may take a drink."

• • • •

We can think of at least half a dozen ways in which a dry member of Congress may take a drink.

1. Strike up an acquaintance with George Holden Tinkham, of Massachusetts.

2. Carefully observe where the House Office Building official bootlegger caches his stock.

3. Obtain a temporary appointment as a dry snooper with a night club expense account.

4. Make an appointment with your bootlegger to meet you in the crypt at midnight.

5. Take a bottle of gin to the top of the dome and while adding the ginger ale hide behind the Goddess of Liberty.

6. Borrow diver's suit from the Navy Department—if it has one—and throw a quart of smuggled Scotch with a brick tied to it from the Star-Spangled Key Bridge, put on the suit, wade out into deep water and sit on the channel bank until the liquor is consumed.

• • • •

• • • •

The very idea of a Yankee heiress worth $40,000,000 marrying a perfect specimen of American manhood when she might just as easily have copped a broken-down Italian Count with a mortgaged palace! What's this country coming to, anyhow?

• • • •

It comes as something of a shock to learn that Secretary Hoover has a dress rehearsal of his speech of acceptance, as we had always been led to believe that he invariably did everything 100 per cent perfect the first time.

• • • •

• • • •

With vastly more Democrats than Republicans voting in the primary Mr. Hoover's sole consolation as to Missouri lies in the reflection that this State once elected the late Joe Folk Governor in the midst of a general Roosevelt landslide.

• • • •

Stricken Florida sustains another heavy blow.

• • • •

If you will search The Post today,
You'll find, in every part,
Some stories that will make you gay;
But some will touch your heart!
Joy and pain in a single breath,
Death as the pay of strife,
Yet if mankind did not have death,
Neither should we have life.

• • • •

It's true about Gen Tunney retiring from the ring because the public wouldn't applaud him as a great champ—all the time what he wanted was a Lauder.

• • • •

President Coolidge is dealing death and destruction to the Brule trout again, his Indian guide having recovered from a sprained back obtained by cranking his auto.

Lo the poor Indian, who has sunk so far
He's now the owner of a motor car;
No thought of going off the reservation

FLORIDA HURRICANE HITS A DOZEN MORE CITRUS AREA TOWNS

FLOOD ADDS DANGER AROUND EVERGLADES

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—More than a dozen new towns and cities—all in the rich citrus section of south central Florida—were added to the storm area tonight as the tropical disturbance swept across the peninsula toward the Gulf of Mexico.

A wide section was isolated and estimates of damage were lacking but meager reports indicated that the winds were somewhat less severe than those which whipped the middle east coast last night, resulting in several million dollars damage to property and groves.

The new storm front was approximately 40 miles wide, extending from below Winter Haven to above Orlando, with outposts throughout the back country from east coast cities affected by last night's blow. Wind velocities ranging from 40 to 75 miles an hour were reported, but wire communications were so disrupted that little definite news came out.

Flood Is Added Menace.

The menace of flood waters was added to the condition in towns bordering on the Everglades and Lake Okeechobee, where torrential rains inundated wide areas of the poorly drained flats.

Most of the towns were in darkness because of broken power lines, while in other places within the area electric company officials were compelled to cut off the power because of trouble with transmission or falling wires. Orlando had light in a part of the city. A 50-mile gale was blowing and hundreds of anxious citizens besieged the newspaper offices for news of the progress of the storm.

Buildings were reported unroofed or otherwise damaged in Kissimmee, Lake Wales and smaller places, but definite word of wind damage in several places, including Winter Haven and Haines City, waited for reestablishment of communications.

Secret Plane to Try To Stay Up 80 Hours

Special Cable Dispatch.

London, Aug. 8.—A new British attack on the air duration record with a machine which, it is hoped, will remain aloft 80 hours without refueling, will be made shortly, it was learned tonight.

The attempt to pull down the record will be entrusted to a Fairey-Napier monoplane constructed outside London under utmost secrecy. Similar mystery will obtain when the plane is transported at night in sections to the Nottholt airdrome in Middlesex for tests. The chief secret is said to be the gasoline consumption of the engine, which, it is claimed, will be reduced considerably.

East Coast in Darkness Since Electric Cable Snapped on Tuesday; Roofs Ripped Off by 110-Mile-an-Hour Gale.

Editor's note—Edward A. Menninger, editor of the Stuart (Fla.) Daily News, drove 140 miles in an automobile through a driving rain and over almost impassable roads to reach the nearest telephone and give to the outside world through the Associated Press first direct reports of the destruction wrought by the tropical hurricane in his city and the nearby ones of Fort Pierce and Vero Beach. He has written the following account of the storm and his tortuous journey for the Associated Press.

By EDWARD A. MENNINGER.

Although less destructive than Miami's big blow of two years ago, today's storm was violent enough to strip green fruit and leaves from 50,000 orange and grapefruit trees, smash windows, unroof houses by the hundreds, tear up 50-year-old palm trees by the roots, tie knots in telephone and telegraph wires and drench the populations of nearly a dozen cities with from 5 to 8 inches of rain.

MECHANIC ALSO IS DEAD

Paris, Thursday, Aug. 9 (A.P.).—Maurice Drouhin, French pilot who was injured in the crash of his trimotor plane, the Rainbow, at Orly Airdrome, Wednesday, died at 2:15 this morning. Ingenieur Gionolle's condition was said to be grave.

Orly, France, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Another attempt to fly from Paris to New York ended in disaster today before it had even begun. The giant trimotored Arc-en-Ciel (Rainbow) crashed on the landing field at Orly Airdrome late this afternoon, killing the mechanic, Lannet; seriously injuring the pilot, Maurice Drouhin, noted French flier, and injuring two others, Gionolle and Manuel.

The big plane, designed by Rene Couzinet, and built entirely of wood, so constructed that all of its essential machinery would be accessible during flight, was a complete wreck, parts of the wings, fuselage and wires being strewn for 1,600 yards along the field.

The Rainbow was being put through its final test preparatory to a start across the Atlantic next week. Tonight Drouhin, his plans cut short, was in a hospital, one leg broken and al-

3 Children Drowned; 4 Perish in Flames

Covington, Ky., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Three children and their father were drowned in the Licking River here today while the mother, with a baby in her arms, looked on. The dead are Rollie Yelton, 38, Cold Springs, Ky., the husband; Esther and Clifford Yelton, both 12, and Evelyn, 7. The tragedy occurred when Yelton and the elder children tried to save Evelyn.

Bakersville, N. C., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Four of the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Gaither Sparks were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home. The children ranged in ages from 3 to 12. Mrs. Sparks escaped with the baby and an 8-year-old son. The latter dashed back into the burning house to save the other three and died with them.

GOV. SMITH IS DEFENDED BY STRATON TRUSTEE

GOVERNOR AWAITS REPLY

Atlanta, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The chairman of the board of trustees of Calvary Baptist Church in New York City, Justice William Harlan Black, said here today that he was with the pastor of his church, Dr. John Roach Straton, "in everything but his attitude toward Gov. Smith."

Justice Black, who is visiting in Atlanta, said "I know that I would not be so profoundly interested in Gov Smith's success if I had not known him intimately for 35 years, and if I did not know that he is the cleanest, most loyal man in politics today. His is easily the most progressive record before the American electorate. On every subject he has been far in advance of his party."

Mr. Black made this statement in taking sharp issue with Dr. Straton who had attacked Gov. Smith as the "deadliest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom."

"Dr. Straton's attack on Gov. Smith does not represent a great many of the Baptists in the United States," the statement said. "No members of any church have the individuality that Baptists have because they are not governed by church conventions or rules, except as each church makes for itself. Every Baptist in his individual preferences of every kind is a law unto himself and every individual Baptist Church is independent of every other Baptist Church.

"It is not surprising, therefore, that Baptists feel free to express themselves on every public subject and in doing so Dr. Straton is well within his rights. He is the ablest orator, in my opinion, in the Baptist Church and knows more about the Bible in a minute than I will

POLICEMAN SHOOTS AND KILLS AUTOIST

Bullet Stops Driver, Who Had Left Car and Fled Into Woods.

Louis Spencer Smith, colored, 28 years old, of Lanham, Md., was shot to death early this morning by Mortorcycle Policeman Ernest Spaulding, of the Twelfth Precinct, who pursued him on foot into the woods east of Bladensburg road northeast, after chasing his car more than a mile.

Spaulding, who was suspended from the force and held at the Twelfth Precinct station pending an inquest, told his captain, C. L. Plemmons, that he started chasing the car when it came over the District line into the city. The car, he said, was going about 55 miles an hour. When they reached the wooded portion about the National Training School for Boys, he said the man stopped his car and ran across the road into the woods. Spaulding said he thought he saw him reach for a gun so he fired. The only shot fired hit him in the breast and severed his spinal column, killing him instantly.

No weapons were found on the dead man. Nothing was found in the abandoned car. An opened pocket-knife was found in the grass beside the car, which bore Maryland dealer tags. Police are tracing the ownership of the automobile.

Fall on Milk Bottle Causes Woman's Death

Knocked down by an automobile while carrying a bottle of milk, Mrs. Jennis was killed when the bottle broke and fragments of glass cut a deep gash in her neck.

JAPAN THREATENS CHINA IF NANKING JOINS MANCHURIA

Note Asserts "Suitable Measures" Will Be Result of Step.

MUST CHANGE STAND TOWARD JAPANESE

U. S. Minister Also Warns the Nationalists They Have Not Kept Promises.

Tokyo, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Alarmed by reports that Manchuria was about to be joined to the Chinese Nationalist government at Nanking, Japan today warned the province not to take that step and told Nanking that "suitable measures" would be initiated unless the Nationalists recede from their attitude toward the special rights of Japanese citizens in China.

Baron Tamaka, prime minister, told today's cabinet meeting that he had reliable information that Chang Hsueh-Liang, military governor of Manchuria and Chiang Kai-Shek, nationalist military commander in chief, have worked out the draft of an agreement to extend the Nanking sway into Manchuria.

Japan understands that this agreement grants complete autonomy to Manchuria in its domestic affairs, but gives Nanking control of foreign relations of the province. It is this latter aspect which has aroused Tokyo to action, Nanking having already notified Japan of its abrogation of commercial treaties granting extraterritorial rights to Japanese. Japan's claim that this abrogation is illegal has been ignored by Nanking.

Fears Cut of Supplies.

Without the protection afforded by the present treaties, Japan fears that its supplies of raw industrial materials from Manchuria will be cut off, and the property and lives of its citizens there and in other parts of China will be endangered.

The tentative agreement also is understood to provide that political committees of the Kuomintang, the political organization of the Nationalist movement, will be excluded from Manchuria, but that Chang Hsuen-Liang will accept the political principles of Sun Yat Sen and that the Nationalist flag will be hoisted in Mukden, capital of the province.

Belief that the agreement is near, even if it has not already been consummated, is strengthened by reports that the Nationalists have canceled all troop movements against Mukden and that Chang is preparing to withdraw his fighting Mukdenites from the Shanhaikwan front.

The note to the Nanking government states that unless the Nationalists

REBELS KILL MARINE, WOUND 3 IN BATTLE

Americans Inflict Loss of 10 Dead and 3 Injured on Insurgent Band.

Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—One American Marine was killed and three wounded in an encounter with rebels 60 miles from Bocay, on the Coco River, Tuesday. Ten insurgents were killed and three wounded.

Myer Stengle, of Hartford, Conn., was the Marine killed.

The wounded men were brought to Puerto Cabezas by plane for medical treatment. It was stated that they would recover unless complications developed. They were: Thomas Paine, Roxbury, Mass.; Russell Schoenberger, South Charleston, W. Va.; Melvin Mosier, Topeka, Kans.

The men were members of a patrol of 50 operating under Capt. Edson, of Burlington, Vt.

Capt. E. Howard, who is in command of the Marines here, said that Capt. Edson was pursuing the rebels by means of airplanes. Edson left Puerto Cabezas to assist Maj. Utley, commanding the Marines on the east coast, who is at Bocay.

Disabled Dollar Ship Being Towed to China

Seattle, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—American Mail Line officials in Seattle announced today that the freighter Stanley Dollar had been taken in tow by the freighter Stuart Dollar Sunday, explaining that the Stanley Dollar had been disabled by defective boilers. They denied that the vessel's boilers had exploded.

The Stuart Dollar is towing its sister ship to Shanghai, the destination of both vessels, which are American mail line freighters.

FIGURES IN BUTCHER BOY ROMANCE

FINGERPRINTS IN BLOOD ARE NOT BUTCHER BOY'S

OTHERS ARE SUMMONED

Los Angeles, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The slaying of Mrs. Myrtle L. Mellus here last Sunday became today a murder mystery of the first magnitude when police announced that bloody fingerprints found in the bathroom of the palatial Mellus home in the Wilshire district, where she was found dead, were not those of Leo ("Pat") Kelly, handsome "butcher boy," accused of the crime.

Kelly, who, according to evidence and police findings, was for five years the woman's sweetheart and companion at many drinking parties, stoutly maintains his innocence. He has admitted he was at the Mellus home on the afternoon Mrs. Mellus was found dead, and that he was in love with the woman and had been drinking with her on the day of her death.

Despite his denials Kelly was indicted by the county grand jury today on a murder charge, and his trial date was expected to be set for August 20.

Meanwhile, following the discovery of fingerprints other than Kelly's, police worked on the theory that some one else may have knowledge of the killing and summoned for examination several persons who knew Mrs Mellus well, including her husband, Frank, prominent in sports and fraternal circles. Fingerprints will be taken of all persons summoned.

The fingerprint discovery was made by Police Sergt. H. L. Barlow, who through fingerprint records, identified William E. Hickman as the slayer of little Marian Parker some months ago.

The demand yesterday of H. H. Hahn, attorney for Kelly, that Mellus explain why it was that he found the body of his wife "when he came home at 3:30 p. m." Sunday and did not report it to the police until 5:36 p. m. was met today by nine affidavits from persons who said they saw Mellus leave a fishing barge at 4:30 p. m. Mellus said he returned home at 5 p. m. and telephoned the police as soon as he could recover from the shock of finding his wife's unclad body, badly mutilated, lying across a bed. Kelly was found hiding in a closet.

A negro maid in the home testified at the inquest that she had served coffee and liquor to Mrs. Mellus and Kelly for breakfast that morning, after Mellus left.

Polise testified that Kelly told them he had quarreled with Mrs. Mellus the previous Thursday night because she had gone out with Mrs. Mae Switzer, wife of a merchant. Mrs. Switzer was named as a woman who had attended "wild parties" participated in by Kelly and Mrs. Mellus. Mrs. Switzer still was being sought by police today, as were two other women whose names police declined to reveal.

ENGINEER, NEARLY KILLED, CONTINUES AT THROTTLE

CONDITION NOW SERIOUS

Although almost scalped when his head struck a low bridge near Laurel, Md., yesterday afternoon, Edward R. Gosnell, 45 years old, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad engineer, stuck to the throttle of the long freight train he was piloting to this city and refused to leave his post until the train reached Hyattsville, Md., almost 10 miles from the scene of the accident.

In Hyattsville, Gosnell's fireman persuaded him to stop the train and allow a motorist to take him to the hospital. Drs. J. Rogers Young and S. Wondolowski, of the Casualty Hospital staff, said Gosnell is suffering from a possible fractured skull. His condition is serious.

According to the report made railroa fficials, Gosnell had climbed on top of the locomotive to examine a water gauge. When his head struck the low overhead bridge he was knocked back into the control car. Gosnell told physicians that he does not remember what happened after he was struck, but blood streaming fro... the wound on his his fireman reported that Gosnell, with tinued to drive the train.

Pleadings of the train crew finally convinced Gosnell that the wound should be treated so he consented to stop the train at Hyattsville. A motorist waiting at the grade-crossing gates at Hyattsville brought him to this city. Gosnell lives in Baltimore.

Gang With Gas Bombs Loots an Armored Car

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Four bandits in two automobiles held up an armored money car here early today, hurled gas bombs into the interior, disabling the guards and escaped with $20,000.

The armored car, operated by a private detective agency, was carrying pay rolls for packing plants. Six men in the armored car were overcome by the gas bombs which the bandits injected into the machine through the loopholes after forcing the money car to the curb.

Under the menace of the bandits' guns, the occupants of the armored car were forced to open the doors.

Masked Man Shoots Prosecutor on Links

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 8 (A.P.) Shot through the groin by a masked assailant while playing on the McGregor golf links here today, County Attorney Edward E. Eddy, 45, was taken to Saratoga Hospital.

He was believed to be in a serious condition.

MYSTERY IS SOLVED, AUTHORITIES CLAIM

Writ Charges First-Degree Murder; Defense May Ask Change of Venue.

Samuel T. Robertson, 38 years old, Bethesda contractor, yesterday was indicted for the murder of Edward L. Mills, prominent dairyman, by the Montgomery County grand jury called in special session at Rockville by Judge Robert B. Peter, of the Circuit Court.

Mills was shot to death July 7, 1927, by a man with a black moustache in plain view of Clarence Miles, 19-year-old employe of Mills. The killing remained a mystery despite the efforts of Montgomery County police and Baltimore detectives. A typewritten note which charged Mills with interfering with the slayer's wife was practically the only clew.

First Degree Charged.

Robertson was arrested following a fight with Wilson Trout, in which Trout charges Robertson attempted to kill him. Robertson was arrested April 18, and his arrest kept secret for several days while Rockville authorities and Baltimore police quizzed him in the Baltimore jail.

The grand jury indictment charges that Robertson did "feloniously, willfully and of deliberately premeditated aforethought, kill and murder," Mills, July 7, 1927.

Among the witnesses who testified before the grand jury were Dr. W. T. Pratt, county health officer, who was first to inspect the body of Mills; W. R. Pumphrey, Rockville undertaker, who prepared the body for burial; Paul Mills, son of the murdered man; Clarence Miles, Mrs. Bertha Mills, widow of the dead man; Andrew J. Baughman, a neighbor who talked with Robertson the day of the murder; Wilson Trout and his wife; Mrs. Sadie Touhen, George W. Bodkin, in whose name the pistol alleged to have been used was bought; James Manning, Roy Bodler, county policeman; Calvin Goddard, firearms expert from New York; Asbury Case, county policeman, and Alvie A. Moxley, chief of the Rockville police.

Trial to Start Soon.

Robertson was given a preliminary hearing May 3 before Police Judge Samuel Riggs, of Rockville. Joseph H. Cissell, former State's attorney, was named special prosecutor, assisted by Robert Peter, jr., State's attorney. Robertson was represented by Stedman Prescott. Judge Riggs held Robertson for the grand jury.

It was learned from authoritative sources yesterday that Robertson's trial will begin shortly, at least some time before the November term of circuit court. Persistent rumors allege that Prescott, Robertson's attorney, will ask for a change of venue for the trial.

Two Witnessed Killing.

The Mills farm, where the slaying occurred, is at Hunting Hill, Md., a few miles north of Rockville. In a pasture within a stone's throw of the barn where Paul Mills and Clarence Miles, a farm hand, were at work, Mills was approached by the black-garbed man with whom he was seen by Miles to engage in several minutes' conversation.

The early morning visitor suddenly whipped out a pistol and fired five shots into Mills' body at close range. He then stooped over the prostrate form of his victim and pinned to Mills' shirt the accusation of an illicit love affair with an unnamed woman, which was typewritten in unprintable language.

It was presumed at the time that the slayer intended to force Mills to sign the note before the shooting. The space reserved for signature, however, was blank.

Paul Mills and Miles ran to the elder Mills' side as the slayer fled into

Mrs. Lauder Says Tunney And Daughter Are Engaged

JAMES (GENE) J. TUNNEY.

South Bristol, Me., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Formal announcement of the engagement of Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, to Miss Josephine Lauder, of Greenwich, Conn., was made here today by Mrs. George Lauder, jr., mother of the girl.

The formal announcement followed rumors of the engagement that have been prevalent since the title holder defeated Tom Heeney, New Zealand challenger, July 26, and a few days later announced his retirement. Tunney is visiting at the summer home of the Lauder family here.

The formal statement of the announcement of the engagement was as follows:

Typewriter and Guns Evidence.

Police were notified, and arrived on the scene within an hour after the tragedy. A posse was organized and the nearby territory scoured for the slayer, but without result.

More than ten months later came the arrest of Robertson. The contractor, police said, figured in an altercation with Wilson Trout, of Potomac, Md., and a gun was discharged in the course of a struggle. Robertson surrendered an automatic pistol to the police, which he said he had taken from Trout, and another, which he said was his own. Experts connected their guns with the killing. A typewriter found at Robertson's home was of the type on which the note pinned to Mills was written. Records, however, disclosed that Robertson obtained it after the crime.

Hoover-Smith Debate On Waterways Asked

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Edward C. Carrington, chairman of the Great Lakes-Hudson Waterways Association, today telegraphed Gov. Smith, asking him to debate the waterways question with Herbert Hoover, if such a meeting could be arranged.

"Hoover is unqualifiedly supporting the St. Lawrence waterways which you have characterized as visionary, absurd and impractical," Carrington said in his wire. "Will you debate this with Hoover or Henry J. Allen at Madison Square Garden, New York, or at the Coliseum, Chicago, under the auspices of our association? Can probably arrange a full radio hookup."

District Artillery Making High Score

Marked efficiency is credited to the 260th Coast Artillery of the District National Guard, members of which are hard at work at Fort Monroe, Va., as the second week of the encampment is drawing to a close. The firing drill yesterday by Batteries B and C brought out a high percentage of "hits" by gunners on airplane-towed targets, reports stated.

Yesterday was "Soldier's Day," after the noon mess, but Battery A, which was scheduled for searchlight drill Tuesday night, when rain caused a postponement, held the drill last night.

200-Hour Dancing Marathon Is Halted

Crystal Beach, Ontario, Aug. 8 (A.P.). Ending a grind that had been going on more than 200 hours, the provisional government today stopped a dance marathon in Crystal Beach pavilion promoted by Milton D. Crandall.

Four Crystal Beach police officers ordered the promoter to stop the dance under a clause of the provincial criminal code which regards as nuisances a contest tending to endanger the health of the public or individuals. The order was issued by Attorney General Price.

French Seek Opinion On Blackmer Request

Paris, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Documents concerning the recent American request for the extradition of Henry M. Blackmer have been sent by the French foreign office to the ministry of justice for a legal opinion. This may be forthcoming in about ten days.

The length of time which has elapsed since the act for which Blackmer was indicted and the comparatively mild character of the offense in the eyes of French law are regarded in legal circles as most likely to turn the balance against extradition.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Secretary of State Kellogg yesterday took cognizance of the attacks and criticisms of his antiwar pacts which are emanating from British and French newspaper sources and he is also aware of the fact that failure to include Russia among the fifteen signatory powers has inspired some pointed criticism in the United States. A clarification of Mr. Kellogg's position was accordingly given, with respect to certain features of the treaties, although Mr. Kellogg declined to discuss the Russian angle and likewise to be drawn into any detailed discussion of mistaken impressions which he may believe exist in certain quarters abroad.

Whether the criticisms now coming over the cables are part of an inspired campaign to belittle the importance of the Kellogg pacts before the Secretary himself reaches Paris to sign them later this month is admittedly a matter which can only be a subject of speculation. There are known to be prominent statesmen in Paris and London who regard the treaties as a mere empty gesture and regret that the United States has sought to bring about a substitute for the antiwar provisions of the League of Nations.

No one pretends that the league provisions will be affected by the Kellogg treaties, but there has been a persistent opinion that the Kellogg pacts may be given undue importance and presented to the various peoples as a real or even superior move in the direction of world peace. It may be expected that a campaign to minimize the importance of the antiwar pacts will be in full swing during Mr Kellogg's sojourn in Paris.

Permit War for Defense.

Th British newspaper, the Manchester Guardian, is already taking the lead in belittling the importance of the Kellogg treaties and it is being aided by several of the most influential French newspapers. The chief complaint of these papers is that Mr. Kellogg has accepted British and French reservations which permit these powers to at any time wage a "war of defense." This makes the treaties worse than useless, it is contended by extremists in British and French circles, because it puts preservation of world peace back to the old prewar basis, especially as there is no provision to punish a nation which resorts to war for any purpose and calls it a war of defense.

Germany, it is pointed out by these critics, entered the World War on the ground that she was waging a war of defense. Germany, it is added, invaded Belgium as part of her war of defense. Any and every nation calls war a war of defense, it is added. The League of Nations, it is further said, signals out the nation which violates the territorial integrity of political independence of another nation—irrespective of the reason or excuse offered—and calls for combined action by the powers against the violator of the covenant or aggressor state.

Not Part of General Treaty.

But attention is called here to the fact that the British and French reservations are not part of the treaty which the fifteen powers are to sign. The British and French have simply given an interpretation of how they believe the pact should be construed. The crux of the Kellogg treaty is contained in the following three brief provisions:

"Article 1: The high contracting parties solemnly declare in the names of their respective peoples that they condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies, and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another.

"Article 2. The high contracting parties agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin they may be, which may arise between them, shall never be sought except by pacific means.

"Article 3. The present treaty shall be ratified by the high contracting parties named in the preamble in accordance with their respective constitutional requirements, and shall take effect as between them as soon as all their several instruments of ratification shall be deposited.

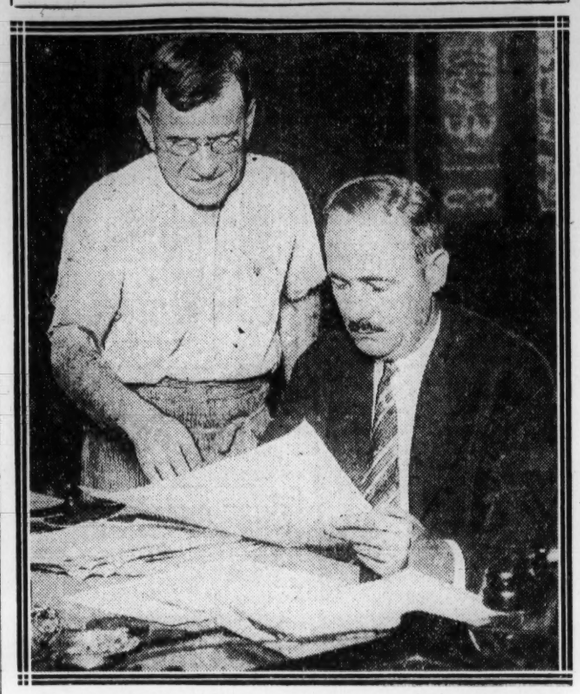

"This treaty shall, when it has come into effect as prescribed in the preceding paragraph, remain open as long as may be necessary for adherence by all the other powers of the world."

Russian Appearance Embarrassing.

This last provision is admittedly of interest in connection with Russia's desire to sign or adhere to the treaty. There is every indication that Mr. Kellogg will not endorse any plan to invite Tchicherin, Russian Foreign Minister, to be among the signatories at Paris, despite the expressed desire of Tchicherin to be one of the original signers. But as all the powers of the world are invited to adhere and thereby make a solemn treaty with the United States and the other powers, the question arises as to whether Mr. Kellogg could exclude Russia, on the theory that to negotiate a treaty with Russia would imply recognition of the Soviet government by the Government of the United States.

It is conceded to be axiomatic in international law that a nation can not enter into solemn treaty relations with a nation which it does not recognize as existing insofar as official diplomatic relations are concerned. Thus Russian adherence, if and when it brings about solemn treaty relations between Russia and the United States with respect to renunciation of war, will be construed by every foreign office to mean resumption of political relations between the United States and the Soviet regime.

INSPECT NEW DOLLAR BILLS

SEVEN FELLED BY HEAT; MERCURY CLIMBS AGAIN

VETERAN AMONG VICTIMS

Fulfilling the forecast of the Weather Bureau that the relief afforded by Tuesday's severe electrical storm was but a temporary break in Washington's heat wave, the mercury climbed to the nineties again yesterday afternoon, prostrated seven persons, after a fairly comfortable morning.

From a low temperature of 72 degrees at the Pennsylvania avenue kiosk at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, the mercury rose slowly and gradually, beneath partly cloudy skies, to 76 degrees at 10 o'clock, 81 a noon, and its peak of 92½ degrees at 4 o'clock, when the skies had fully cleared.

The highest temperature recorded by the shaded thermometer at the Weather Bureau was 89 degrees, shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Walter B. Cooper, believed to be a shell-shocked veteran, but whose address could not be ascertained, was prostrated by the heat at Fifteenth and H streets northwest during the hottest part of the day and removed to Emergency Hospital. He was treated there by Dr. Leon Gordon, and his condition last night was undetermined.

Russell Blanchard, 80 years old, of 507 S street northwest, was overcome by the heat at 609 New York avenue northwest, and likewise removed to Emergency.

William Smith, colored, 56 years old, of 1242 Duncan street northeast, an employe of the District Street Department, was prostrated from the heat last night at Fifth and G streets northwest. He was treated at Emergency Hospital.

The patrol wagon of No. 4 police precinct took a colored woman by the name of Holmes, who was overcome by the heat on the street, to Emergency Hospital, which she left without the consent of physicians after receiving treatment.

Casualty Hospital reported that it had responded to calls in three heat prostration cases, but in none of them were patients brought to the hospital after receiving treatment on the scene.

Today will be mostly fair, with gentle east shifting to west winds, and not much change in temperature, according to the early forecast of the Weather Bureau.

Chicago, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Four deaths were attributed to the heat here today, which prevailed until midafternoon, when an electrical storm brought cooling breezes.

Considerable property damage resulted from the elecirical storm. A bolt of lightning tore a hole in the roof of the Chicago Motor Club, but all employes escaped injury.

SOME DRINKING IS LEGAL, ZIHLMAN'S CONTENTION

ANSWERS HIS OPPONENT

There are "lots of ways" a dry member of Congress may take a drink without violating the Volstead act, Representative Frederick N. Zihlman (Republican), of Maryland, declared yesterday.

The day before, David J. Lewis, a Cumberland Democrat, who seeks Zihlman's seat in the House, insinuated that the latter had been in the habit of breaking the prohibition law "at pleasure," although always voting dry.

Questioned about Lewis' statement in Cumberland yesterday, Representative Zihlman said:

"I don't hold my personal habits up as a model. I may take a drink. There are lots of ways a man may take a drink without violating the Volstead act."

Lewis has turned over to the Rev. F. Berry Plummer, a militant dry of Hagerstown, a prepared prohibition questionnaire and has asked him to transmit it to Zihlman. Until Zihlman replies, Lewis said, he would not reveal his own stand on modification of the prohibition law.

"Have you, Mr. Zihlman," says Lewis' question, "given faithful obedience to the Volstead act for which you voted; or is it true, as generally stated, that you have been violating the act at pleasure since its passage?"

Zihlman said yesterday that he would stack his personal habits up against those of Lewis at any time, and he added that he was going to stand on his record of 12 years in Congress in the coming campaign.

"Everything a man does in public life is greatly exaggerated," Zihlman said. "I'm going to a picnic tomorrow. Somebody there may offer me a drink. What would you do about it? If I'm seen taking a drink it is very easy—and quite possible—for the word to get around that 'Zihlman was drunk.' It's the same way with every man in public life."

Zihlman did not enumerate the "lot of ways" that a member of Congress could take a drink and yet not break the law.

France Would Publish Details of Naval Treaty

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Paris, Aug. 8.—In an effort to appease the doubts apparently existing in other countries, especially in the United States, the French foreign ministry has taken up with England the question of immediate publication of the text of the naval compromise between the two countries. It was said today that the suggestion of the advisability of publishing the text as soon as possible has been made to the foreign office in London and that probably the text will be given to the newspapers here and in London within the next two or three days.

The compromise is said to be a brief document, written in fairly general terms, and the French claim its publication will show it much less dangerous than some persons in Washington, according to cable dispatches, seem to think.

As copies have been sent to Washington and other capitals, the document will presumably be published simultaneously everywhere, although that is a technicality the French are leaving to London.

While France was first to admit that the United States was likely to take exception to some phases of the compromise there has been great surprise here at the extent of the criticism.

It is reported the compromise specifically limits the construction of 10,000-ton cruisers and larger submarines, specifying their guns and deals in general terms with all other classes of naval warcraft. No one here denies that regardless of its worded content it represents a settlement of differences of long standing between France and England.

HONOR GUARD KEPT OVER THE 27 VICTIMS

Funeral Services to Be Held in Presence of Representative of King.

Pola, Italy, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The Italian submarine F-14 gave up its dead today after being towed to a dock at a navy yard here.

There, supported by the pontoon which aided in its lifting, its stern was covered with flowers by army and navy representatives of Trieste and this port. The hatches were then opened and recovery of the bodies begun. This proved a severe task, lasting several hours, the presence of the chlorine gas which caused the death of its crew making operations most difficult.

A total of 27 bodies were taken from the submarine and laid out on a floating pontoon, which took them to land when they were borne to the Navy Hospital. Tonight a guard of honor composed of naval officers and sailors was guarding the dead. Funeral services will be held Friday with representatives of King Victor Emmanuel and Admiral Sirriani participating in the ceremonies.

Men Died as Heroes.

Rome, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The entire Italian nation mourned today a new catastrophe—the sinking of the submarine F-14, and the death at their posts of its crew of 2 officers and 25 men.

Coming as it did on the heels of the dirigible Italia's disaster, the F-14 tragedy has made a deep impression on Italy. The only comfort is that, the sinking having occurred, every effort humanly possible was made to save those inside the submarine, and that when recovered, the bodies of the crew indicated they had died a serene and honorable death in the line of duty.

With the arrival of the boat at Pola some complete details of the rescue work which raised the submarine to the surface when only 34 hours had elapsed since its sinking became known.

Within 95 minutes of the sinking, Gen. Bernardis, naval engineer, and Italy's submarine expert, had been dispatched from Rome by airplane and had arrived at the scene. From that moment the rescue proceeded with wonderful rapidity; four admirals and men from a dozen warships participated.

The divers after emerging from inspection of the sunken submarine said that the F-14 looked like an enormous spear stuck with one end in the mud, while the other end slowly swayed with the motion of the sea.

When the first acoustic communications were exchanged efforts of the rescuers were redoubled and it was not until the signals suddenly ceased that tragedy appeared really imminent.

Call Follows Call.

Nobody would admit failure even then.

"Call them," was ordered. But there was no answer.

"Call them again." No answer.

And a third time, "Call them." But the submarine was silent.

When finally it was raised, Capt. Guerrini, medical officer of the flagship Brandisi, put on a gas mask and descended into its conning tower. Within a few minutes he had to be pulled out by ropes and it seemed that he had fainted. Another doctor revived him from semiasphyxiation, and he gave his report—that none were left alive on the F-14.

Further investigation showed that death had apparently been quick and had caught the crew almost unawares, occurring when sea water reached the storage batteries and generated chlorine gas. When found, the men were at their posts, indicating the ship's discipline had been maintained to the last moment.

New Chicago School Head Demotes Many

Chicago, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The personnel of the city school system was given a violent shakeup today by the new superintendent of schools, William J. Bogan. Four assistant superintendents were removed and replaced, the former cabinet members becoming principals of schools. Three vacancies were filled, a new office was created and one position is yet to be filled.

A wide sweep was made in transfers of principals in high and grade schools and a number of new principals were suggested by Bogan to the board of education, which affirmed his actions.

Wife of Ashurst's Stepson Gets Divorce

Reno, Nev., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. Margaret Hill Renoe was granted a divorce here today from John Russell Renoe, a stepson of Senator Ashurst, of Arizona. Mrs. Renoe testified the senator's wife, Mrs. Henry Fountain Ashurst, interfered in her son's domestic life by trying to make Renoe a politician and to influence him to "simulate the life of the poorer class."

The Renoes were married in Washington in 1918 and have two children, custody of whom was awarded to Mrs. Renoe.

HOOVER REHEARSES NOTIFICATION RITES IN STANFORD BOWL

PLEASED BY MISSOURI DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

Glad Dry Is Nominated, but Frowns at the Small G. O. P. Vote.

Stanford University, Calif., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—A dress rehearsal of the Republican notification ceremonies, with Herbert Hoover in the star role, was held today in the university stadium. Although some of the props were missing, the action moved with precision, and it was announced that everything was in readiness for the start at 3:30 p. m. Saturday.

Accompanied by officials of the university, the Republican nominee went to the bowl early in the day and spent more than an hour looking over the ground and testing out his voice on the loud speakers which have been installed on a high platform directly above the speaker's platform.

After talking through the microphones and listening from the far end of the stadium to others speaking, the nominee pronounced the broadcast arrangement satisfactory. He said the new system of loud speakers, tested out here for the first time, made it certain that not only all of those in the stadium itself could hear the speakers Saturday but also any who might have to be satisfied with a place outside the concrete walls.

Pleased by Missouri Vote.

Returning to his home before luncheon, Hoover scanned the latest returns from the Missouri senatorial primaries, and he and his advisers apparently derived satisfaction out of the figures which indicated the nomination of a dry senatorial candidate to run with Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the November elections.

The only aspect of the returns which served to lessen enthusiasm in Republican quarters was the relative size of the Republican and Democratic votes, returns from two-thirds of the State showing that more Democrats than Republicans had gone to the polls.

Membership in another organization was conferred upon the Republican nominee during the day, that in the Associated Sportsmen of America. The invitation had been arranged for before Hoover again demonstrated his skill as a fisherman yesterday by catching the legal limit of trout in a lake some 50 miles south of here.

Rowell Is Luncheon Guest.

Chester H. Rowell, a publicist of San Francisco, was a luncheon guest and in the afternoon the Commerce Secretary conferred with W. K. Newel, of Portland, food administrator for Oregon under Hoover during the war and also with Mark L. Requa, who is arranging details for the visit of the candidate to Southern California after he leaves here for Washington.

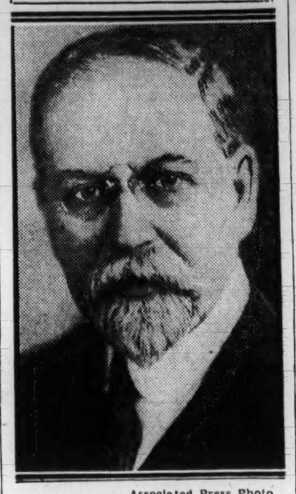

Present plans are to defer the departure until a week from tomorrow or Friday as the Republican standard bearer is not due at his birthplace at West Branch, Iowa, until August 21.

Hoover to Be Guest of Press.

Hoover has invited E. P. Leavitt, acting park superintendent of Yosemite National Park, to visit him here before the end of the week to discuss plans for a possible trip into the Sierras early next week. The nominee's personal desire is to visit the Tuolumne Meadows district of the Sierras rather than the Yosemite Valley, as he regards that district the most beautiful in the mountains.

Hoover today accepted an invitation of the newspaper correspondents who accompanied him across the continent from Washington to be their guest at a dinner Friday night in honor of the fifty-fourth anniversary of his birth. The dinner will be at the Cardinal Hotel in Palo Alto and the guests will include friends of the Secretary who accompanied him on his recent motor trip to northern California.

OFFICIALS PLEDGE SMITH TO CLEAN UP SARATOGA

TROOPERS MAKE REPORT

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Law enforcement officials of Saratoga County and city, summoned to a conference with Gov. Smith today, on alleged gambling and vice conditions at Saratoga Springs, had a half hour talk with the governor, who announced that they had "promised to use all the force at their command and every bit of energy to clean it up."

At the conference were District Attorney John B. Smith and Sheriff William N. Cromie, of Saratoga County, and Commissioner of Public Safety Edward C. Sweeney, of Saratoga Springs. They were called to the capitol by telephone after the governor had received a "partial report" from State troopers sent to Saratoga Springs yesterday in plain clothes.

"Can you tell us anything about what this partial report contained?" the governor was asked. "No," he answered.

"Are we safe in assuming there was something in there about which you talked to the officials?" "Yes."

"Did they tell you anything about the measures or force they might use to clean up?"

"No. I'll know whether they do it or not."

The governor was asked if he had transmitted personally to the three officials a warning sent to the three officials yesterday in identical letters in which he suggested charges might be preferred looking to their removal if the conditions complained of were found to exist.

"There was no reason for it," the governor said. "They readily consented."

DEAL WINS IN SECOND BY MAJORITY OF 1,279

Primary Victory for Montague, in Third, and Moore, in Eighth, Assured.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—With complete returns in the Second Virginia District, the only district in which the contest was close in the Democratic primary of yesterday, Representative Joseph T. Deal was renominated by a majority of 1,279 votes over his opponent, State Senator John A. Lesner.

In the Third District the incumbent, Representative Andrew Jackson Montague, registered a decisive victory over his opponent, D. C. O'Flaherty. The entire vote of this district is not yet complete as some isolated sections have not reported, but the large majority of precincts gave Montague handsome leads. It is estimated that when all returns are in he will have led O'Flaherty by at least 5,000 votes.

Representative R. Walton Moore, in the eighth, likewise scored a decisive victory, returns showing that he defeated his opponent, H. Earlton Hanes, by more than three to one.

BishopCannon Bigoted, Is Raskob Accusation

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has made a charge of bigotry against Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Raskob said:

"It seems to me Bishop Cannon tore off the mask and proved that his attack upon Gov. Smith's stand on the prohibition question was just a cloak for religious bigotry." Bishop Cannon had taken Raskob to task for announcing that certain important methodists in the South had served notice on the church they would withdraw their support unless its preachers ceased to oppose Gov. Smith.

BOTH PARTIES THINK MISSOURI PRIMARY AIDED THEIR CAUSE

SUPPORTERS OF SMITH CALL TICKET STRONGER

Moore's Victory in Virginia Is Regarded as Making State Safe for Governor.

After analyzing the returns from the Missouri primary elections, Republicans and Democrats here both professed to find comfort in what they found. It was that kind of a primary.

In the view of the Republicans, the victory of Charles M. Hay, a St. Louis dry, who won the Democratic nomination for United States senator, meant one thing and one thing only—that Missouri is dry and that it will go to Herbert Hoover in November. They predicted that thousands of dry Democrats would scratch the name of Gov. Smith from the ballot.

Hay defeated James A. Collet, a wet, of Salisbury, who had the support of Senator James A. Reed.

The Democrats here were willing to concede that Hay's victory was a blow to Senator Reed, but they would not grant that it presaged bad luck for Gov. Smith, Hay, they pointed out, had stated all along that he would support Gov. Smith.

See Both Sides Held.

Indeed, some of the Democrats here professed to feel that Hay was more desirable than Collet from the standpoint of Gov. Smith's success. Together, it was pointed out, Smith and Hay will "work both sides of the street," Smith carrying wet spots like St. Louis and Hay helping him to carry the outlying dry sections.

One reason for Hay's victory, according to persons familiar with the situation in Missouri, was a widespread feeling of bitterness against Senator Reed. Hay, they said, had acted very decently toward Reed, and had done nothing to prevent the selection of a Reed delegation in Missouri, was a widespread feeling for the nomination to Reed's seat in the Senate. But at the last minute, Collet jumped into the race and Reed set out to help him. Pained at this performance, it was said, many erstwhile Reed men decided to throw their support to Hay.

Moore's Victory Hailed.

The triumph of Representative R. Walton Moore, who was nominated for reelection to the House in the Eighth Virginia district, was hailed with jubilation here by the supporters of Gov. Smith. They felt that it assured a Smith victory in Virginia. Moore had announced that he would support the New York Governor, while his opponent, H. Earlton Hanes, refused to commit himself.

The elation over Moore's victory, however, was tempered somewhat by news of the death of George E. Brennan, the Democratic boss of Illinois. Brennan, an original Smith-for-President man, was making plans for a vigorous attempt to deliver the State to the New Yorker, a job admittedly difficult.

Mrs. Ross Reaches New York for Work

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former Governor of Wyoming, arrived here today to begin her work as vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, declaring she had never felt "more sanguine' as to the outcome of a political situation.

"I am confident that Gov. Smith will be elected," she said, "and I am confident that the women will judge him by his record and not on the misrepresentation of his enemies. I think the women of the West believe in his practicability and they know the Republican party is not the embodiment of all virtue."

G. O. P. HOPES TO GET $4,000,000 READILY

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Financial advisers of the Republican national campaign met here today and had under consideration preparations for financing the Hoover-Curtis fight in the Eastern states.

Jeremiah Milbank, recently appointed eastern treasurer of the Republican national committee, said the general plan will be followed of allowing each State to form an independent committee under a financial chairman appointed by him. Arrangements were also discussed for a joint effort to raise funds in New York State for both National and State purposes, eliminating a separate State funds campaign.

Among those attending the conferences were Joseph R. Nutt, Cleveland banker and treasurer of the national committee; Walter E. Hope, Eastern vice treasurer; Daniel E. Pomeroy, national vice chairman and Herbert N. Straus, treasurer of the State committee.

Nutt said he did not expect any difficulty in collecting the $4,000,000 which the Republican organization plans to spend in the national campaign. To date there has been no solicitation, he said, and the $90,000 raised thus far was made up of voluntary contributions.

ever know, but I believe without conceit that I know more about political history than he will ever know."

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Until the postman brings Gov. Smith a letter from Dr. John Roach Straton accepting his challenge for a close range and free discussion of his political career, the Democratic presidential nominee intends to say nothing more about the proposed debate.

In a letter to the pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in New York City, Smith yesterday took exception to Dr. Straton's declaration from the pulpit that the governor was "the deadliest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom." He called on the minister to repeat the assertion to his face in his church, and to give him an opportunity of reply, and proposed that the meeting be held during Labor Day week.

Dr. Straton, not waiting for Smith's communication to reach him in his New Jersey vacation retreat, announced that the debate was a "go," but suggested that it be held in some large New York auditorium instead of his church. He also proposed that the nominee and he engage in a series of joint debates through the South.

Today, at the outset of his daily conference with newspaper men, Gov. Smith was asked for his reaction to the clergyman's counter-proposal. He replied that he would not comment, adding:

"I will have nothing to say until I receive a reply from the reverend gentleman."

Praises G. E. Brennan.

And with that he dismissed the subject, and passed on to others. Commenting on the death in Chicago of his friend, George E. Brennan, the governor recalled that he first met the Illinois leader, who in recent years had been one of his stanchest supporters, at the San Francisco convention in 1920. In a formal statement, issued later in the day, he expressed sympathy to the dead political chieftain's family and friends, and referred to him as "a warm and loyal friend."

Whether the presidential nominee will go to Chicago to attend the funeral has not been determined.

During the next few days he is confronted not only with a decision as to his reply to Dr. Straton's expected counter-proposal, for a debate, but will have his hands full studying his own legislative record with the view of a possible answer to William Allen White's charges, and preparing his speech of acceptance.

Robinson at Notification.

The Smith notification ceremony is on the schedule for two weeks from tonight, and, although details have not been worked out, it is expected that the governor's running mate, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, will be one of the Democratic notables in attendance.

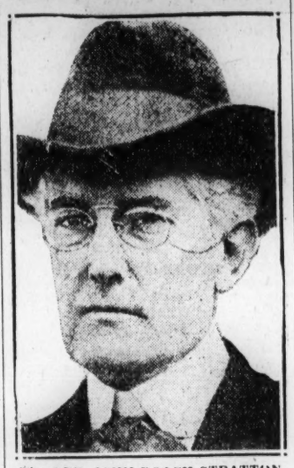

At his office today the governor could hear carpenters erecting stands on the east steps of the capitol for the notification. He was too busy to get away for an afternoon swim or a round of golf, although he remarked that it was a wonderful day for a little outdoor play. After several days of cool weather, it had turned warm again, and the nominee received reporters in his private office in shirt sleeves, with his vest open. At his elbow was the tall glass of ice water.

All in all, the reporters, after a big day yesterday, thought news rather scarce, and one of them asked the perspiring candidate if he could "volunteer something for the good of the service."

"There's nothing to give you," the governor replied, and then added with a smile, "besides I'm not much of a judge of news."

"You've been hitting the front page pretty well lately," he was reassured.

The REV. JOHN ROACH STRATTON, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, New York, who has accepted Gov. Smith's challenge to repeat in his presence and in his church charges made in a recent sermon against the governor.

VICTORY VOTERS' CHIEF AIM, SAYS MRS. BLAIR

FARM PROBLEM IS TOPIC

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—American voters of today care more about winning than about anything else, in the opinion of several speakers who voice their beliefs at the round table on party politics at the University of Virginia's Institute of Public Affairs this afternoon. This round table discussion was conducted by Prof. Arthur R. Hatton, of North Western University.

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, chairman of the Woman's National Democratic Club and formerly vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, declared that "Americans measure a thing by its success, and they are not inclined to take positions merely on principle, and to a large extent, the desire to win plays an important part."

"Political parties follow public opinion and do not support new issues unless forced to do so," she continued. "Naturally the commercial politicians who want to win want to straddle issues."

Don C. Seitz, former business manager of the New York World, agreed with Mrs. Blair.

"In America," he said, "Our elections have become sporting events. They are a sort of manifestation of the competitive spirit; issues have faded out and we have these contests largely in the sporting sense."

The round table on Latin-American relations continued today with several taking part in the discussion. Doubt as to whether there is in Mexico a true movement toward nationalization of oil lands was expressed by Dr. Frank Crone, of Lima, Peru. He said that if oil rights held by Americans in Mexico were to be abandoned they would be granted to other foreign capitalists.

The agricultural problem came in for varied discussion at the round table on this question led by Prof. John D. Black, of Harvard University.

Eric Englund, of the United States Department of Agriculture, emphasized the magnitude of the farm problem. It was his contention that Federal aid to agriculture stimulates local initiative and encouraging local control, and supplements rather than diverts money, and does not complicate tax distribution.

The South is a distinct section and must be reckoned with accordingly, Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain, member of the Virginia House of Representatives, declared tonight in discussing "the Solid South—Its Cause—Its Future?" The race question is the chief reason for the South remaining sctional, Mrs. Fain said.

"It is a grave problem," she continued. "It has been the cause of the South's greatest woes; it will require the thoughtful consideration of our forward-looking citizens until a satisfactory solution is reached. Time may solve it, but a definite policy must be found."

HOOVER HAS MARYLAND, CHAIRMAN TAIT ASSERTS

Baltimore Leader Confers With Work's Aids Here and Predicts Hard Fight.

WOMEN'S SUPPORT SEEN

A hard fight is in prospect in Maryland, but the Hoover-Curtis ticket will win there in November, Galen L. Tait, of Baltimore, declared during a visit to Republican headquarters here yesterday. Tait is collector of internal revenue for the Baltimore district, and is chairman of the Republican State committee in Maryland.

Tait talked to Earle S. Kinsley, assistant to Chairman Hubert Work, of the Republican national committee, and later conferred with the leaders in the Women's Bureau of the party.

"We will have a tough fight in Maryland," Tait said, "but we will win Heretofore, we have heard the saying 'As goes Baltimore, so goes Maryland' This year we see no reason why the reverse of this saying won't apply to the State.

"The Republican party has a strong ticket. Mr. Hoover is very popular with the women voters because of the humanitarian record, and he appeals to the men because of his outstanding business genius."

Tait said that his organization is now concentrating on registration work, and making numerous canvasses in order to get out the largest possible vote in November.

Since the Civil War, Maryland has shifted from one party to another. In the last two elections, the State went Republican, but before that it supported Woodrow Wilson both times he ran. Beyond that the record shows nearly an equal number of Republican and Democratic victories in national elections.

Another visitor at Republican headquarters yesterday was J. Edward Lumbard, jr., vice president of the New York Republican Club. Lumbard said that the young people of New York will throw a great majority of their vote to Herbert Hoover because he "typifies the ideal which they seek in their own lives."

Democrats to Open Salt Lake Offices

Denver, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Western regional headquarters of the Democratic national committee will be opened in Salt Lake City Monday, Fred W. Johnson, of Rock Springs, Wyo., as regional manager of the Smith-Robinson campaign, announced here today. Johnson said he contemplates at least eight departments for campaign, with the manager of each department being picked from the eight States of the territory. There will be a farmers' department, he said, the chief function of which will be to "persuade the farmers of the West, now dissatisfied as a result of the failure of the present administration to help them, that the Democratic party is the party to which they must look for a sane program of legislative farm relief."

Senators are to be elected this year in seven of the eight States of the region. The States are Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Utah, Idaho and Nevada.

MISSOURI PRIMARY DRY ISSUE CAUSES HOT G.O.P. CONTEST

KANSAS FARMERS BRING CLYDE REED'S VICTORY

O'Connor and Goldesberry Fight for Lead in Oklahoma Congressional Vote.

St. Louis, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The prohibition issue ushered a heated race for the Republican senatorial nomination to the forefront after most of the major contests in the Missouri primary election yesterday had been settled late today by decisive votes.

Roscoe C. Patterson, of Springfield, United States district attorney at Kansas City, and Nathan Frank, of St. Louis, a former representative, jockeyed for first place, but after forging to the front from third place, Frank relinquished the lead.

A tide of St. Louis wet votes that swept Frank to the top of the field of six ebbed after a few hours and with the St. Louis vote virtually complete and approximately 1,000 of the 4,140 precincts to be tabulated, Patterson's lead swelled hourly, mainly by rural districts, in some of which his early lead was gained.

Patterson had a lead of 2,277 when returns from 3,127 precincts were tabulated. His vote was 91,480. Frank had 89,203. David M. Proctor, of Kansas City, who held second place until the St. Louise wets brought Frank from third to first past the two dry candidates, had 74,110.

Issue in Democratic Race.

The wet and dry question also figured in the race for the Democratic nomination for senator. A heavy St. Louis wet vote failed to appreciably reduce the lead of Charles M. Hay, of St. Louis, an ultra-dry, over James A. Collet, of Salisbury, wet candidate and political protegé of Senator James A. Reed. With 3,272 of the 4,140 precinct returns tabulated Hay had 143,247 and Collett 124,950.

In the races for the gubernatorial nominations, Francis M. Wilson, of Platt City, Democrat, and Henry S. Caulfield, St. Louis Republican, scored decisive victories both are organization candidates.

With reports from 3,424 precincts tabulated, Wilson was 163,924 votes ahead of McCawley. Wilson had 225,203 and McCawley 61,279.

Caulfield had a lead of 54,391, with 3,102 precincts tabulated. His closest opponent, Lieut. Gov. Phil Bennett, of Springfield, had 86,11[illegible] and Caulfield 140,405.

Four representatives who sought renomination were victorious. Two were Democrats, C. C. Dickinson, of Clinton, and Ralph F. Lozier, of Carrollton, and two Republicans, Henry F. Neidringhaus, of St. Louis, and J. J. Manlove, of Joplin.

Famers Victorious In Kansas.

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—A victory for the farmers of Kansas who supported Clyde M. Reed, of Parsons, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, emerged tonight as the outstanding result of yesterday's Statewide primary. Only John Hamilton, speaker of the house of representatives, gave him serious opposition.

Returns from 2,018 precincts out of 2,659 gave Reed, 77,032; Hamilton, 51,528; Charles F. Scott, 26,302; D. A. N. Chase, 21,881; Frank J. Ryan, 20,778; Fred Volland, 7,296.

Returns from 1,523 precincts gave: Little, 15,999; Edward T. Hackney, 11,599; Jasper Kincaid, 6,633.

Another agricultural victory was marked up in the First Congressional district, where W. P. Lambertson, Brown County farmer, defeated eight contestants for the Republican nomination for the seat which D. R. Anthony, jr., will vacate.

Maurice O'Keefe, of Atchison, will be his Democratic opponent.

All of the five Republican representatives who sought renomination after voting for farm relief legislation were accepted.

W. H. Sproul, of the Third district, won the nomination over Walter Chappel, of Chanute, and Harold McGugin, of Coffeyville. Sproul will be opposed by Jo Gaitskill, of Girard, Democrat.

In the Sixth district Charles Parks of Goodland, led five other Republicans who sought the seat of Hays B. White.

W. H. Clark, Hoxie, and Roy L. Hamilton, Beloit, led in the four-cornered race for the Democratic nomination.

Congress Contest In Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The spotlight of interest in results of yesterday's primary election in Oklahoma tonight had settled on the Republican congressional race in the First district and the State supreme court contest in which Chief Justice Fred P. Branson was seeking renomination.

In all other major State and congressional races the results were apparently decisively determined.

Charles O'Connor, Tulsa attorney, was leading John Goldesberry, United States district attorney, by nearly 200 votes. In the First district when 417 of the 526 precincts had been tabulated. O'Connor's vote was 7,802 and Goldesberry's 7,512. Democratic incumbent unopposed in this district, which has alternated between the two parties of late years in the selection of its representatives.

W. W. Hastings and J. C. McClintic, Democratic representatives of the Second and Seventh districts, respectively, likewise were unopposed. Their districts are strongly Democratic. All other incumbents, including M. C. Garber, of the Eighth district, the only Republican representative from Oklahoma, were renominated.

Chief Justice Branson had assumed a lead of more than 500 over W. H. Brown, his nearest opponent, when 232 of the 305 precincts in the supreme court nominating district had reported. The vote was: Branson, 6,740; Brown, 6,228. Three other candidates were trailing.

Paris Curbs Raising Of Street Statues

Paris, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The municipal council decreed that no more statues were to be erected in the Champ de Mars, the park around the Eiffel Tower.

Attempts to curb the French passion for statuary began many years ago. In 1906 measures were taken to restrict their number and several well-known quarters of the city are now under the ban.

DU PONT TO SUPPORT SMITH, SAYS PAPER

Declares He Will Tell General Motors He Will Quit Job if Necessary.

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Record tomorrow will publish the following dispatch from its correspondent in Wilmington, Del.:

"Pierre S. duPont, chairman of the board of General Motors, will tell his associates tomorrow afternoon that he intends to give active support to Gov. Smith. He then will offer to resign as chairman and, if necessary, quit the directorate should there be any objection to his expressing an opinion on the presidential campaign.

"This policy was outlined by several of his friends today. They declared he would not take any official post in the Smith campaign management, but that he would reserve the right to follow his personal feelings in picking a choice for President as any other citizen might do. Mr. duPont left Wilmington late today for New York.

MRS. RUTH B. PRATT BACKS MODIFICATION

(Associated Press.)

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment announced yesterday that Mrs. Ruth B. Pratt, widow of John T. Pratt, of the Standard Oil Co., and candidate for the Republican nomination for the House from the Seventeenth New York District, had announced herself as favoring "modification" or repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Mrs. Pratt was said to have replied as follows to a questionnaire sent her by the association:

"I am for modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment or any other change in the law, fundamental or statutory, which will end the present confusion, corruption and disrespect for law."

A. T. T. EQUIPMENT IS TO BE SHARED BY WESTERN UNION

HUGE CORPORATIONS REMAIN INDEPENDENT

Use of Bell Laboratories Is Granted; Means Discarding of Much Apparatus.

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—A move toward the consolidation, with concomitant economies, of the mighty systems of electrical communications equipment was announced today by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the Western Union Telegraph Co.

The A. T. & T. has given the Western Union contracts, one of which is for the use of A. T. & T. plants. This, Walter S. Gifford, president of the A. T. & T. explained, "should ultimately result in eliminating to a large extent the present duplication of parallel pole lines and wire circuits, since, by the use of proper apparatus, it is possible to telephone and telegraph simultaneously over telephone long-distance wires.

"By this new arrangement many of the advantages that would accrue from the consolidation of all electrical communications will be obtained, and at the same time the complete independence of the telephone and telegraph companies will be maintained."

No Physical Consolidation.

Both Mr. Gifford and Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union, made it clear that no consolidation of financing or management was involved or contemplated.

Mr. Gifford explained that the contracts were of a nonexclusive character and that the move left the way open for further similar cooperation between his company and other companies.

Another contract with the Western Union permits it to lease apparatus developed in the Bell Telephone laboratories so that under certain conditions several telegraph channels may be operated from a single pair of wires. This was indicated as of importance to the Western Union's far-flung cable system.

Under another contract, the Western Union contemplates establishing a new service of sending facsimile copies of messages and documents over the telephone company's telephoto system.

Old Material to Go.

Mr. Carlton said that a result of the contracts would be the eventual scrapping of much of the Western Union's old equipment. He declined to predict whether any decrease in rates would result.

While he foresaw further cooperation between telegraph and radio companies, he did not anticipate inroads by radio into land wire and cable service.

The A. T. & T. and its subsidiaries own approximately three-fourth of the telephones in the United States, and the Western Union operates over four-fifths of the country's land telegraph service.

Sheriff's Assailant Is Sought by Posse

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 8—State police from Parkersburg and eight officers from Harrisville tonight were searching the countryside for A. W. Gawthrop, farmer, wanted on a charge of shooting and wounding Sheriff J. S. Goode, of Ritchie County, last midnight at Harrisville when the sheriff attempted to arrest him on a pistol-carrying warrant.

Gawthrop, it is alleged, opened fire on the sheriff and a gun battle ensued in which Gawthrop, the sheriff, and Samuel Campner, a deputy, were wounded. Gawthrop escaped, leaving a trail of blood for some distance. Officers believe he feared arrest as an accomplice in the death of his daughter, Mrs. Emmett Wilson, 35, who committed suicide yesterda, while despondent over domestic troubles.

Iowa Farmers Plan To Use McNary Idea

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Formation of a corn-belt farm board in Middle Western States for the purpose of "doing for the farmers what the McNary-Haugen farm bill was intended to do through the Federal Farm Board,' is under consideration by a group of Iowa farm leaders.

Legislators will soon be at work on a bill providing for the corn-belt farm board controlled and financed by the legislatures of Iowa and several adjoining States, which will be asked to join the movement. The plan provides for the handling of all staple farm products on a cooperative basis, leaders of the movement announced. Farm products, the said, no longer would be placed on the open market, but would be sold "as the manufactured products of the Eastern States are now sold."

Louise Lorraine, Film Actress, Wins Decree

Los Angeles, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Louise Lorraine, motion picture actress, was granted an interlocutory divorce decree here today from Art Acord, star of Western films.

Among other things, Miss Lorraine testified that she once found a woman's clothes in her husband's bedroom. Acord was charged with intemperance, with calling his wife harsh names and with otherwise abusing her.

The Acords married April 14, 1926, and separated January 10, 1928.

LEADER DEAD

GEORGE E. BRENNAN

BRENNAN'S DEATH ENDS VALIANT FIGHT FOR LIFE

WAS SMITH SUPPORTER

Chicago, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Death has removed George E. Brennan from the ranks of Democracy. The Illinois national committeeman died at 8 a. m. today after a valiant struggle against septic poisoning. The end came as Mr. Brennan lay in a coma. His family and closest friends were with him.

His death was not unexpected. Physicians gave up hope yesterday when he suffered a relapse as his kidneys ceased to function.

The direct cause of death was given as diabetic coma, induced by Mr. Brennan's weakened vitality. He had been seriously ill nearly two weeks suffering from poisoning which developed from a tooth infection. He underwent an operation which was considered successful and was given an even chance for recovery until complications developed.

Public funeral services were arranged for Friday morning at the Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church, following private ceremonies in the home.

Mr. Brennan's death, on the eve of another political campaign, removed one of the chief personalities from his party. He not only was the Democratic leader in Illinois, but also occupied a high place in the national party affairs. He was an ardent supporter and personal admirer of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, whose candidacy for the Presidency he first aided at the 1924 convention. Mr. Brennan also was credited with a share in the nomination of Woodrow Wilson in 1912.

Politics was Mr. Brennan's avocation. An insurance business, however, made him independently wealthy.

Messages and expressions of condolence were received from throughout the country, including some from Republican leaders. James W. Good, Western manager of Herbert Hoover's presidential campaign said "his political associates throughout the country will miss Brennan's counsel and advice."

Surviving are his widow and one daughter.

Michael Igoe Suggested As Brennan's Successor

Chicago, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Michael L. Igoe, minority leader in the Illinois House of Representatives, tonight was suggested by Democratic leaders as the probable successor to the late George E. Brennan as manager of party affairs in the State.

According to rumors emanating from Democratic county headquarters, Brennan expressed the wish that Igoe succeed him.

Brennan in recent years has used Igoe as his confidential lieutenant. Brennan assigned Igoe to represent the State on the resolutions and platform committee of the national convention.

Igoe is a member of the South Park board of commissioners and twice has run unsuccessfully against Robert E. Crowe for the State's attorneyship of Cook County.

Friends contend Igoe is the only Democrat who can win back into the organization former Mayor Carter H. Harrison and William L. O'Connell. Other leaders favor the use of a small committee to conduct party trends.

CONVICTS ARE URGED FOR CANCER TESTS

Cuban Would Inoculate Prisoners With Virus in Interest of Science.

Havana, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Cuban convicts sentenced to die would have their choice of death by strangulation or submitting to inoculation with deadly cancer virus in the interest of science under the terms of an extraordinary measure now up for final decision.

The author of the bill is Dr. Matias Duque, a prominent scientist. His suggestion has aroused a storm of vitriolic controversy throughout the island.

Among the arguments offered in its favor are that persons condemned to death have been lost to society morally and materially but that they may still become benefactors of humanity. If they survive the inoculation they would be liberated and their names would occupy a place among persons who have made sacrifices for mankind. According to the present plan the Duque proposition will be acted upon definitely in the near future.

STEFAN RADITCH, LEADER OF CROAT PEASANTS, DIES

TROOPS PATROL CROATIA

Vienna, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Stefan Raditch, Croatian peasant parliamentary leader, died at 9 o'clock this evening at Zagreb, capital of Croatia. The city was grief-stricken and troops are everywhere ready to suppress trouble.

Raditch died of wounds received June 20 in parliament when a radical deputy, Punica Ratchitch, infuriated at frequent interruptions, whipped out a pistol and fired six shots into a group of Croatians. Each shot claimed a victim, two being killed, one of them a nephew of Raditch, and four wounded. Since the assassinations Croatia has seen what has been almost tantamount to martial law, with troops patrolling its cities' streets to quell possible peasant demonstrations.

Zagreb, Jugoslavia, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Twenty-five persons were wounded in a fight with clubs and revolvers near Subotita today after a speech by the radical, Pacitch, in which he attacked the government.

As leader of the Croatian Peasant party of Jugoslavia, Stefan Radjtch was the cause and center of perhaps as many political storms and crises as any other European statesman since the termination of the World War. Several attempts were made on his life, culminating in the attack which caused his death.

The antagonism among the elements which compose Jugoslavia—antagonism which raged for years—broke out anew in April, 1926, and since then has shown little sign of abatement. The attack on Raditch was made, it was said, because he was continuing his efforts for Croatian independence.

Raditch was born in 1873 in the village of Schitarevo, of gypsy blacksmith parentage. He studied at the University of Zagreb, later at the University of Prague, and in Paris.

About 25 years ago he organized and assumed leadership of the Croatian peasant party and became a champion of the common people, in 1918 agitating for a Croatian peasant republic within the Jugoslav kingdom. In 1923 his followers elected twenty members to parliament and held the balance of power.

Prior to the 1925 elections, Premier Pachitch, a bitter foe, obtained Raditch's arrest on a charge of treason. The cabinet ordered dissolution of the peasant party. Raditch's followers elected 70 members to the new parliament, however. Raditch was tried and acquitted, but immediately rearrested on the plea of newly discovered evidence. He was never brought to trial again, being later released through King Alexander.

He became minister of education by appointment of the king, but precipitated a new crisis in April, 1926, when he and members of his party resigned from the cabinet after their demand for the reconvening of parliament to question the premier on charges of graft made against his son was refused.

THUG KILLS TEACHER WITH AN IRON PIPE

Woman, Studying at Northwestern for Degree, Is Murdered in Yard.

Chicago, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—A blood-stained iron pipe, wrapped in a paper napkin, was the clue by which the police tonight sought to trace the slayer of Miss Jennie Constance, 42-year-old teacher of Peoria, Ill., whose battered body was found beneath a hedge in Evanston this morning. A milk man stumbled over the woman's body just before dawn. Her skull was crushed and her garments tattered.

Near the body lay the iron pipe on whose paper wrapping a napkin smudged with rouge was faintly scratched with pencil the name "Peaks" and the letter "L." It was in the front lawn of George H. Peaks, a few doors from the home where Miss Constance resided, that she was found.

Director of the English department at Bradley Polytechnic Institute at Peoria, Miss Constance was working for a doctor's degree at Northwestern University. Tuesday evening she made her customary visit to the university library a few blocks away, and when, long after the library had been closed for the night, she had not returned home her mother and sisters notified the police.

Girl Reaches England As Liner Stowaway

London, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Betty Simpson, 25, "of Oklahoma," arrived at Southampton today aboard the Aquitania without passport and without having paid her passage.

She said she joined passengers and visitors boarding the ship at New York. She was not discovered until well out to sea, when she was given third class quarters. She had with her a small bundle of clothing. It was not her first stowaway venture, she said, as she previously had made trips aboard the Matsonia, the Hamburg and the President Pope.

New Bedford Strike Inquiry Is Begun

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Differing in facts, theories and contentions concerning causes for and continuance of the textile strike here, representatives of the operatives and manufacturers today placed their aims and grievances before the State board of conciliation and arbitration.

Investigation of the situation is being pursued by that body as a consequence of refusal of both strikes and manufacturers to arbitrate their issue, a 10 per cent wage reduction

Five, Down to Last 9 Cents, Seized as Counterfeiters

Four Men and Woman Just Had Completed Manufacture of $14,000; Secret Service Men Declare Bills Would Have Deceived Average Shopkeeper.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Aug. 8.—Down to their last 9 cents, with only two stale rolls and two pickles for food, four men and a woman were arrested in the Bronx today as Federal Secret Service men say they were completing the task of turning out $14,000 in excellently counterfeited $20 bank notes.

And so, instead of enjoying luxury, the prisoners were held without bail today while W. H. Moran, chief of the Secret Service, gloated over the result of an eight months search for the quintet. He said the bills were the most perfect counterfeits he ever had seen.

The prisoners are Michael Markalj, 30 years old, said by authorities to be an escaped convict from Illinois; Joseph Oplich, 55; Mrs. Elizabeth Martin; Iso Obrsdovic, 32, and Peter Martin, 38, the woman's husband.

The bills, which were drying, were of such quality that no storekeeper could have detected their falsity, the agents said. Joseph Palma, head of the Secret Service group, said he was amazed at the cleverness of the gang. One of the gang admitted, Palma said, that they expected to pass $6,000 of the bills before Sunday.

Mrs. Martin's two small children, who also were living in the house which was raided, were turned over to relatives.

All but Martin were seized in the house, where the plant for bleaching $1 bills and reprinting them as $20 notes was operated. Martin, a musician, was arrested later at another Bronx address.

Spanish Premier's Son Arrives in U. S.

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Miguel Primo de Rivera, 24-year-old son of the prime minister of Spain, arrived today on an official visit to the United States, during which he expects to meet Secretary Kellogg and President Coolidge.

De Rivera is a lieutenant in a Hussar cavalry regiment and a polo enthusiast. He expects to play some while here. He has already been invited to visit the social colonies on Long Island and at Newport and Bar Harbor. When asked if he was married, De Rivera said: "Thank goodness I am not. A man should be more than a poor lieutenant to marry."

Vesuvius Hurls Lava 40 Feet Toward Sky

Naples, Italy, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The eruption of Vesuvius, which began yesterday, continued with less intensity today. The new small cone on the southwest side gave forth a stream of highly liquified lava, which sometimes was sent into the air as high as 40 feet or more. Fire and smoke are much in evidence.

Agitation of seismographs, quite marked yesterday, had entirely ceased since this morning.

HEAT HITS CEDAR LODGE, BUT PRESIDENT FISHES

Coolidge Is Only One of the Presidential Party Not Affected by Temperature.

GUIDE IS BACK ON THE JOB

Superior, Wis., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Everyone else at the summer White House suffered today from temperatures which for the first time this summer equaled those at Washington, but President Coolidge, apparently unmindful of the heat, went on his usual fishing expedition on the Brule River.

The President, who is usually very sensitive to heat, and who does not intend to move back to Washington while there is any chance of a hot spell there, today, under the shade of his ten-gallon hat, was the only member of the presidential family and party to carry out his usual vacation routine.

With temperature above 90, the immediate staff at Cedar Island Lodge and the office staff here were practically inactive, accomplishing only that work which was absolutely necessary.

The President was accompanied on his fishing trip by his veteran Indian guide, John Larock, who was unable to take the Chief Executive on his angling expeditions for almost a week because of a sprained back suffered while cranking a car.

E. J. Ryan Elected As Head of Eagles

Other officers chosen were Charles J. Chenu, Sacramento, Calif., grand worthy vice president; Robert F. Schmidt, Milwaukee, grand chaplin; John S. Perry, San Francisco, grand secretary; Joseph S. Dowling, Dayton, Ohio, grand treasurer; Raymond Malone, Portland, Me., grand conductor; John M. Morgan, Lowell, Mass., grand inside guard; Henry A. Beck, Seattle, insurance director.

Joseph E. Shilling, Erie, Pa.; Walter G. Kell, Sheboygan, Wis.; M. H. Sweeny, Binghampton, N. Y., and Paul Steffler, San Antonio, Tex., were named trustees.

POTOMAC BAPTISTS HOLD CLERGY RIGHT IN TALKING POLITICS

TEMPERANCE REPORT SHOWS HIGH REVENUE

Delegate Asserts Prohibition Success Depends Upon Church Activity.

In presenting the moral issues involved in the choice of a President of the United States Christian ministers are simply acting in accord with the spirit of the prophets and the Apostles and are not violating the American principle of separation of church and state, according to a resolution adopted yesterday at the opening meeting of the Potomac Baptist Association, held in the Clarendon Baptist Church.

The national political situation was the principal topic of discussion. The resolution, which was offered by John S. Sowers, of Potomac, follows:

"It is the sense of this association that the action of the Christian ministers in presenting the moral issues involved in the choice of the President of the United States is in accord with the spirit of the prophets and Apostles and is not in violation of the Constitution of the United States regarding the separation of church and state.

Rport on Temperance.

The resolution followed the reading of the temperance report by L. Ledman in which it showed that since 1917 the revenue in the State has increased $58,778,148, an increase of $3,525,314 each year for the eleven prohibition years. The income in 1927 exceeded by three quarters of a million dollars the revenues for the entire eight wet years preceding the adoption of State-wide prohibition.

The report shows further that in 1916 Virginia had less than 100 miles of improved roads, in 1927 the State had 4,314 miles of improved highways. In 1927 the State spent in road building $16,355,552.

The report was adopted and the association went on record as reaffirming the confidence in the Antisaloon League and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

The Rev. David Hepburn, of Richmond, Va., superintendent of the Virginia Antisaloon League, said he would not say that it was altogether due to prohibition that Virginia today has so many improved highways, but did say that "the American home today is far happier and more comfortable than in the days of the saloon."

600 Delegates Attending.

"The wets don't want the saloon," declared Hepburn. "Why? Because they would have to pay the high tax. There are bills in Congress now for beer and wine, and unless we get busy they may come."

"If there is a change, I want all—the old saloon with the brass rails and tables. Don't permit the sale of beer and wine as free as ginger ale where our children would be endangered."

Discussing the report on temperance, M. G. Fraser, of Marshall, declared "the issue is before us and we must not sidestep it. It is not prohibition that is at fault; it is the inactivity of the church people."

The association convened yesterday morning with more than 600 delegates attending devotional services conducted by the Rev. Elmer Lucas, of the Cherrydale Baptist Church. The address of welcome was delivered by the Rev. Perry L. Mitchell, pastor of the Clarendon Baptist Church. Milford Witts, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, extended a welcome to the county.

The Rev. U. S. Knox, of Falls Church, was elected moderator; the Rev. C. Wirt Trainham, of Marshall, Va., clerk; the Rev. Harris Fields, Plains, Va., treasurer, and G. H. Hutcheson, of Purcellville, Va., assistant clerk.

The meeting will continue today, opening for the morning session at 9:15 o'clock, the afternoon session at 1:30, with final adjournment at 4:30 o'clock.

DROUHIN, NOTED FLIER, DIES IN PLANE FALL

most wrenched from its hip socket. Lannet and Manuel were both to have been in the crew on the Atlantic flight. Gionolle was one of two youthful French engineers who designed the plane, the other, Couzinet, not being aboard when the crash came.

Only four days ago a new 600-horsepower motor had been substituted for the 180-horsepower central engine, the new motor being flanked with two other motors of 180-horsepower each. With the added power the plane, carrying a load exceeding two tons, had made speed of greater than 140 miles an hour.

It was roaring close to the ground today at about 125 miles an hour when a few spectators noticed a huge wing wobbling. The engines were cut off then, but the deformation of the wing caused the giant plane to shoot almost perpendicularly into the air to a height of about 450 feet. There it slid to one side, apparently refusing to respond to the controls.

As it reached the ground it tore through a strong wire fence, knocking over iron posts and crashed against the corner of a hangar, coming to a stop a crumpled wreck on the road bordering the field.

When the first spectators arrived Lannet was already dead, Drouhin was bent over in a pool of his own blood and Gionolle was unconscious. Manuel's wounds seemed not to be grave.

$110,000 for a Rug Paid at London Sale

London, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The "Emperor's Carpet," the most famous Persian rug in the world, has been sold here for $110,000 to the International Art Gallery.

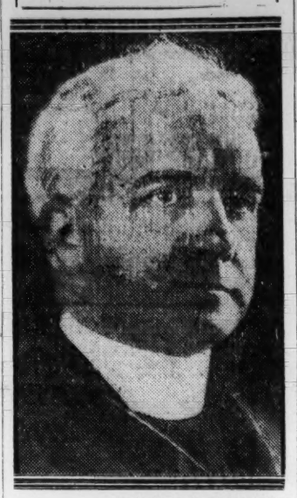

Measuring 25 feet by 10 feet, it was made in a factory of the Persian court some time during the sixteenth century. Tradition says that it was taken to Vienna in 1698 as a gift from Peter the Great to the Emperor of Austria. It remained in possession of the Hapsburg family until the Austrian revolution in 1921.

Since then it has been in the state museum, Vienna, until sold to a private buyer.

Wife Charges Cruelty.

Mrs. Elsie L. Catchim, 2568 University place northwest, yesterday filed suit for absolute divorce against her husband, Douglas S. Catchim, at present a policeman at Port au Prince, Haiti, in Equity Court. The petition alleges that Catchim failed to support her, and cruelty. The wife alleges misconduct with unnamed corespondents. Attorney Raymond Neudecker represents the wife.

G. U. NEW DEAN

Underwood & Underwood.

THE REV. W. COLEMAN NEVILS.

NEVILS COMES BACK AS GEORGETOWN DEAN

New College Head Has Been Away From University Four Years.

After an absence from Washington of nearly four years, the Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., returned to Georgetown University yesterday, reporting for his newly assigned duties as dean of the college of arts and sciences.

During the seven years of his previous connection with Georgetown in various capacities, Father Nevils made many friends here who welcome his return. He was transferred from Georgetown in 1924 to become dean of the Meadowbrook House of Studies maintained by the Jesuits at Stockbridge, Mass.

Father Nevils has returned to the Hilltop to occupy a position he held in 1918-1919. From 1919 to 1924 he served as chancellor of the university and regent of the school of foreign service. He succeeds the Rev. Robert A. Parsons, S. J., as dean of the college, the latter having been made dean of St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia.

As chairman of the Georgetown Endowment Association, Father Nevils helped inaugurate a new era in the history of the institution. Except for two brief absences, he will busy himself from now in preparation for the opening of the September academic term.

Rodgers and Downey Sure of Nomination

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 8.—Nomination of D. H. Rodgers, Republican, and W. W. Downey Democrat, both of this city as their party candidates for the Twenty-third judicial district bench, comprising Berkeley, Morgan and Jefferson counties, was assured by magisterial district conventions in the three counties last night. All Republican delegates to the district meeting next Tuesday were instructed for Judge Rodgers, a World War veteran, now rounding out his fourth year on the bench.

All except 17 of the 98 Democratic delegates were instructed for Attorney Downey and Downey's friends claim 14 of these 17 uninstructed from Jefferson County. Downey was the loser two years ago in a spirited convention fight here for the nomination. Attorney Cleveland M. Seibert, this city, winning. He in turn lost to Judge Rodgers at the general election.

EDWARDS ATTACKS WHISPER CAMPAIGN AGAINST GOV. SMITH

Senator Predicts Instigators of Religious Prejudice May Hurt G. O. P.

REPUBLICANS CHARGED WITH FINANCING BOLT

New Jersey Man Sees Danger to Hoover in Attitude on Dry Question.

A "religious whispering campaign" is being conducted against Gov. Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic nominee for President, it was charged here yesterday by Senator Edward I. Edwards (Democrat), of New Jersey.

"If Gov. Smith or his managers are successful in ferreting out the instigators of this religious whispering campaign that is being directed against him in certain sections of the country," the New Jersey senator said, "he will be elected President by an overwhelming majority."

Senator Edwards said that he had been advised by responsible persons "that the Republican national committee is lending both its moral and financial support to disgruntled Democrats in the South and Southwest with the hope that the Solid South will be broken." But such a hope, he said, will not be realized. Nine out of ten white Southerners will vote for Smith, he said, and for two paramount reasons: "They know if they do not the Southland will be threatened with black supremacy, and they do not wish to compel a resurrection of the old Force measures."

Cites Honors to Catholics.

"Catholics have already been elected to seats in both Houses of Congress and have been appointed to the United States Supreme Court," said Senator Edwards. "If they can not be elected to the Presidency, it is time both the Protestants and Catholics were apprised of this fact so that the country will know that the eighteenth amendment is not the only provision of the Constitution which is being nullified.

"Catholics of the North never asked about nor questioned the religion of Cleveland or Wilson. Why should the South question the religion of Gov. Smith?"

Sees Pitfalls for Hoover.

Senator Edwards predicted that if Herbert Hoover, the Republican nominee for President, declares himself an out and out dry in his acceptance speech tomorrow he will lose every large industrial State in the East. If Hoover straddles the liquor question, Edwards said, his cause is not only hopeless in the South and Southwest, but he will also lose thousands and thousands of votes in the corn belt area.

In conclusion, Edwards predicted that the Smith-Robinson ticket would carry New Jersey by an overwhelming majority.

Farmer Drowns Self At Y. M. C. A. Island

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 8.—J. H. Trent, 50 years old, Campbell County farmer, who lived at Castle Craig, drowned himself in a swimming pool at the Y. M. C. A. Island Park here last night. The body was recovered this afternoon.

Domestic troubles are believed to have caused the act. Trent is survived by his wife and five children and his parents.

JAPAN SENDS THREATENING NOTE TO NANKING RULERS

change their attitude toward Japan's interest in China, "the Japanese government may be obliged to take such measures as it deems suitable for the safeguarding of the rights and interests assured by the treaties."

Reply to Abrogation.

It was drawn up as a formal reply to the notice of abrogation given by the Nanking foreign office, July 21. Japanese officials in China at that time declined to accept the notice in any official manner, but communicated it informally to the home government.

This episode of July 21 was coincident with "advice" given to Manchuria by the Japanese consul general which warned Chang not to involve himself too deeply with Nanking. The "advice" has now been turned into a formal warning delivered in Mukden by Japan's special envoy to the funeral of Chang's father, who was driven out of Peking by the Nationalist armies and then killed when his railway coach was bombed in the outskirts of Mukden.

MacMurray Warns China.

Shanghai, China, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—John Van A. MacMurray, American Minister at Peking, has sent a note to the Nationalist foreign minister calling attention to the failure of the Nationalist government to fulfill promises made on several occasions to evacuate all American property occupied by soldiers and otherwise, and to prevent further such occurrences. The note says that despite promises by the Nationalist government only a portion of such properties have been evacuated, and even additional property has been seized.

As a "few among many" examples, the note instances the American Church Mission and Cathedral, the Consulate at Nanking, the American Presbyterian Missions and properties at Hsuchowfu, Tsining and Shuntohfu which are at present occupied by the Chinese.

The minister said that he had been informed that the occupation of additional properties at Nanking and at Chinkiang was contemplated and that American property was being treated as though America were an enemy country making war against China, whereas its full protection is an elementary responsibility of the Chinese government.

The American Government, the note says, displayed throughout the greatest forbearance hoping that Chinese assurances would be made good. The continued retention of American property, especially the United States Consulate at Nanking, has created a very unfavorable impression throughout the world and painfully disappointed the American Government. Therefore, it is expected, the note continues, in evidence of the good faith and political competence of the Nationalist government that no more American properties shall be occupied and that those already occupied be restored to the free use of their rightful owners.

British Settle Disagreement.

Shanghai, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—A settlement between the Nationalist and British governments has been reached on the Nanking incident of 1927.

A representative of the Nanking government and the British Consul General, Sir Sidney Barton, who have been negotiating the agreement, are going to Nanking where the settlement will be signed tomorrow.

Wang Holds His Ground, But May Yet Compromise

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Shanghai, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Although Dr. C. T. Wang, nationalist foreign minister, declared today that China is unable to alter its position regarding the recent action in terminating the Sino-Japanese commercial treaty, it is believed that a compromise is possible, due to an official conference which Dr. Wang held with the Japanese Consul, Shichitaro Yada, yesterday, immediately following which the consul departed for Tokyo for the purpose of conferring with Baron Giichi Tanaka, prime minister of Japan, regarding the present Sino-Japanese diplomatic crisis.

Will Force Showdown.

Prior to his departure for Nanking Dr. Wang delivered an address before a Chinese gathering here in which he declared that the Nationalist government, while desirous of preserving the friendship of Japan and other nations, nevertheless is determined to force a showdown on the treaty revision question, and that the Nationalist government is unanimously determined not to permit Japan, Italy or any other nation to compel China to submit to another ten years' extension of the unilateral treaties which bind China to a 5 per cent customs tariff, especially now that America has agreed to grant tariff autonomy and Great Britain is engaged in negotiating a similar compact.

With reference to the Japanese ultimatum to Gen. Chang Hsueh-Liang against the unification of Manchuria with the rest of China, Dr. Wang stated that the Nationalist government has protested against Japan's meddling in Chinese internal policies.

Sees Delay Only.

While Dr. Wang admitted that Japan's ultimatum has delayed the Nationalist program of unification respecting Manchuria, he declared it was his conviction that Japan is unable to block unification permanently.

Chinese newspapers are again printing alarming reports from Manchuria alleging that Baron Hayashi, who was sent to Mukden by Prime Minister Tanaka for the purpose of conferring with Gen. Chang Hsueh-Liang has delivered further demands with the purpose of inducing Manchuria to declare her independence from Nationalist China and go under a Japanese protectorate.

New York Cotton Market Turns Down Smith Bale

Refuses to Follow Lead of Atlanta Exchange and Auction First of Georgia Crop to Aid Democrats; Says It Is Nonpartisan.

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Cotton prices soared $8 a bale on the New York Cotton Exchange today when the Government crop estimate was announced as 14,291,000 bales, a full 500,000 bales less than the trade generally had expected, but lost about half the gain.

Wild trading in tremendous volume set in at the close of the brief intermission granted to permit publication of the Government report.

While the usual crowd of guests was watching the effect of the Government report in the trading ring on the disposition of thousands of bales, officials of the exchange were closeted for a debate over a single bale.

It seems that the first bale of 1928 Georgia cotton was auctioned off on the Atlanta Commercial Exchange this year for the benefit of the Democratic campaign fund, whereas proceeds usually go to charity. The Atlanta exchange informed New York officials that the bale was being shipped here by plane, the first air shipment of cotton ever made, it was said, with the request that similar auction be held here.

New York exchange officials were agreed as to the custom and desirability of auctioning the bale on the local floor, but the idea of passing on the proceeds to the Democratic national campaign fund aroused considerable opposition. It was sufficiently strong to carry the day, and President Gardner H. Miller accordingly wired the Atlanta exchange that the New York exchange, being a nonpartisan institution, could permit the auction to be held, in accordance with custom, only if the proceeds were to be devoted to charity.

Auctions of the first bale of the Georgia cotton crop have been held on the floor of the New York Cotton Exchange for years and have attracted spirited bidding, but the occasion is the first that the exchange has been asked to devote the proceeds to other than purposes of charity. It has been customary after the auction here to ship the bale to other exchanges for similar action.

DOZEN MORE TOWNS SUFFER AS HURRICANE SWEEPS WEST

were relating to the Associated Press that a 75-mile-an-hour hurricane was sweeping the city. Haines City had sent no news to the outside world late tonight. The two places were about 15 miles apart.

Orlando at Storm Center.

Weather Bureau reports tonight placed the center of the storm over southwestern Orange County, of which Orlando is the county seat. At that position the storm center was more than half way across the peninsula, unless it holds to a more northerly course.

So far as could be learned, there has been no loss of life in any of the stricken districts. Chief damage to the interior, it was thought, would be wreaked upon the hundreds of orange, grapefruit and tangerine groves.

Grave fears were felt for the great citrus orchards, laden with fruit, in the immediate path of the storm.

Rising winds were reported from Lakeland, 15 miles west of Winter Haven, where the velocity early tonight was approximately 40 miles an hour.

Meager reports from St. Cloud about 10 miles east of Kissimmee, related that houses had been unroofed there and that portions of the town were inundated by waters blown out of Lake Tohopekaliga by the force of the winds.

Okeechobee, located at the northern tip of the great lake of that name, suffered several thousand dollars damage in the storm last night. Unofficial reports were that 18 inches of rain had fallen there. Lake Okeechobee rose two feet and tributary streams were said to be piling out of their banks, carrying flood menace to thousands of acres of crops.

West Coast in Path.

Approach of the disturbance was heralded in the south central interior by falling barometers, rain and sudden gusts of wind. With what intensity the storm will strike on the west side of the peninsula was not known, but emergency warnings were broadcast to the interior and shipping held to harbors on the prediction of 40 to 50 mile gales.

Unestimated damage was done along the east coast last night from West Palm Beach north to Titusville, with three cities, Stuart, Fort Pierce, and Vero Beach, bearing the brunt of the toll with estimated property damages of $5,000,000. West Palm Beach and Palm Beach escaped the full force of the storm, but suffered considerable loss of trees and shrubbery.

Available reports indicated there was no loss of life and few persons injured. The Florida section of the American Red Cross took steps to ascertain whether there was any suffering.

Algonquin Rescues Five.

Shipping in distress along the east coast last night had recovered with the cessation of the hurricane winds and reported fair progress toward their destinations. Among these was the Mallory liner Algonquin, which messaged today that it had rescued five men from a disabled small craft last night. The Algonquin, with 300 passengers, en route from Galveston to New York, was reported last night to have lost its bearings while in the hurricane center. This the captain later denied.

Persons who came out of the stricken area today reported wide desolation, with trees stripped of fruit, lines of communications down, and electric power disrupted for a distance of 125 miles along the coast because of the breaking of a high tension power line. This left a score of cities, towns and communities between Titusville and West Palm Beach without lights.

Tampa, Fla., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The Times has been informed by its staff correspondent at St. Cloud that a 60-mile gale was sweeping that town and the vicinity of northeastern Osceola County this afternoon, ripping roofs from dwellings and other buildings.

Water from east Lake Tohopekaliga, driven before the gale, had flooded the lower sections of St. Cloud, while citrus orchards in the section were badly damaged.

Liner Algonquin Safe.

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The Mallory Line steamer Algonquin, bound for New York from Galveston with 300 passengers, reported to have lost her bearings, is safe and has hove to in the Florida Straits to ride out the storm, said a wireless message from the ship to the line's New York offices today.

The radio read: "Hove to in Florida Strait. Was blowing hurricane. Everything O. K."

A later wireless message from the Algonquin said:

"Weather is good. Making full speed. No damage to ship or passengers. Everything fine. No cause for report."

The ship's position was not given in the message, but officers of the line figured she was off the Florida coast and slightly north of Palm Beach.

The United Fruit Co.'s motor ship Castilla was proceeding to New York at full speed and was out of the path of the hurricane, according to radio advices today. She had been standing by the Honduran steamer Lempira, which had lost several lifeboats and was unable to make progress against the gale.

Doubt Town Is Destroyed.

St. Augustine, Fla., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The village of Kennansville, junction point on the Florida East Coast Railway, reported this afternoon to have been destroyed by the Florida hurricane, is probably inundated by the heavy rains accompanying the storm, railroad officials said here tonight.

They expressed doubt, however, that the place was destroyed, saying they would have been advised in that event. They said they had received word that Okeechobee, 40 miles from Kennansville, was flooded.

The country was described as low and flat with resulting poor drainage.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS LOST IN HURRICANE

age of $1,000,000. Store windows were blown out by the score, roofing of all kinds was stripped off like kindling, every telephone was put out of commission and telephone and telegraph wires were strewn in every street.

The high tension line of the Florida Power & Light Co., running the full length of the State, snapped late yesterday during the first heavy blow and electric light service has been suspended since then.

Hurrying 140 miles to reach the one one telephone wire to the outside world in this part of Florida, your correspondent drove through a 75-mile-an-hour wind for four hours. The splendid State highway along the East Coast was strewn with branches and every mile or two great trees lay across the road.

Fort Pierce suffered more than $1,000,000 damage, hundreds of roofs were torn off and the tremendous downpour drenched every corner of nearly every house in the city. Signboards, awnings, timbers and parts of buildings lay all over the streets. Broken tile, plate glass and strips of felt and metal roofing covered the sidewalks.

Vero Beach was another heavy sufferer, mostly from torn roofs, awnings smashed windows and signs and benches snatched down and blown away. At one place a large refrigerator was blown off a back porch and across the street. Soaked automobiles temporarily abandoned by their drivers were seen on every hand.

Today's storm lacked both the violence and twisting features of Miami's famous storm. The maximum wind velocity today was estimated at 110 miles an hour in place of the 150-mile gale that shook Miami.

The freak antics of the storm began at 3 a. m. today. Unlike the famous wind that changed direction and blew back all it had blown away, this one became more destructive when the change came. All yesterday the wind was from the north, never exceeding 90 miles an hour. A dead calm struck the storm area shortly after midnight and the wind came back with a bank from the south at not less than 110 miles per hour.

Citrus groves along the east coast looked like a winter scene in the North, with trees almost bare of leaves and the ground covered with millions of green "snowballs."

The storm apparently was abating this afternoon, although the rain and hard wind continued from the south.

Cleaning up work already has been begun despite the weather, for the east coast learned its lesson two years ago and much of the damage was protected by insurance.

The Stuart Daily News and Fort Pierce News Tribune, both associated Press Newspapers, have suspended publication until the power lines can be restored.

Palm Beach suffered comparatively little damage as it was only on the edge of the blow. Some houses were unroofed there, but the greatest damage was between Stuart and Fort Pierce.

Republican Harmony Seen in Georgia Drive

Atlanta, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Leaders of both factions of the Republican organization in this State attended a meeting of the Hoover campaign committee as members here today, indicating the controversy which has torn the central committee will not be allowed to affect the campaign in Georgia.

FORMER CAPITAL MAN IN FLORIDA DISASTER

Relatives of Thomas H. Banes, former Washingtonian and now city manager of Fort Pierce, Fla., one of the towns hardest hit by the West Indian hurricane which ravaged a 200-mile strip of the Florida East Coast Tuesday, last night made futile efforts to learn of the fate of Mr. Banes and his family.

Late reports sifting through the storm-swept area indicate enormous damage to property but fail to disclose any loss of life.

Mr. Banes is a brother of Henry B. Banes, jr., of 6921 Georgia avenue northwest. He was formerly in the real estate business in this city. His father has been made ill as a result of the inability to get a wire through the stricken area. Mr. Banes was in Florida during the last hurricane, but notified his relatives here of his safety shortly after the storm had subsided.

Mr. Banes went to Florida about ten years ago, establishing a lumber company at Stuart, a short distance from Fort Pierce. About a year ago he was named city manager of Fort Pierce. With him in Florida are his wife, a son, Thomas S. Banes, jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Elwin Thomas, wife of a Florida circuit court judge.

DAMAGE IS GREAT ALONG COAST, SURVEY REVEALS

FORT PIERCE IS HARD HIT

Jacksonville, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—A summary of damage to cities along the Florida East Coast in the path of the tropical hurricane was compiled as follows by an Associated Press correspondent who made a survey of the affected area between West Palm Beach and Melbourne:

Jupiter—Approximately 58 per cent of houses and business establishments either damaged or destroyed. Radio operators at naval wireless station reported wind reached velocity of 110 miles an hour early today. Barometer dropped to 29.015. Express company's office, old postoffice, garages and numerous fern sheds badly damaged. Virtually entire citrus crop in this section destroyed. Water from torrential rains standing several inches deep in some streets.

Stuart—St. Lucie River, which ran bank full all night, slowly receding today. Many homes and stores damaged, roofs torn off and one garage swept away, leaving several automobiles standing. Bath houses on beach wrecked and trees, foliage, broken glass filled streets. Citrus growers of Martin County suffered heavily, grounds in orchards covered with green fruit and many trees either uprooted or denuded. Benches along streets picked up and carried several blocks. Lyric theater wrecked and drenched.

Fort Pierce—Hard hit. Chief of Police H. D. Hardegree estimated property damage $1,000,000. Most damage to business district. Residential section not hurt much. Buildings housing two motor companies almost entirely wrecked and roofing and bricks blown into streets. Tea and coffee shop, curio shop, Sunrise Theater, grocery and other business houses badly damaged, as were fish docks. Large garage on outskirts of city blown down. Storm struck hard between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning, subsided and then struck violently about 5 o'clock. All lights and power off. No one injured. Newspapers not published between Fort Pierce and Vero Beach. Number of garages, barns and farm homes either damaged or destroyed. Numerous trees blown down at several places along the highway and shoulders were washed away from the pavement. Low swamp lands are under water and at several places water is running in streams over highways.

Vero—Only slight damage. Few garages and frame buildings damaged and trees denuded. Most of residential section unscathed. Several motor cars damaged by flying timber or tree limbs.

Sebastian — Slight damage. Fish docks slightly damaged and few small fishing skiffs sunk in Indian River. Numerous trees here and along highway either blown down or denuded. Several farm homes and buildings between Sebastian and Melbourne damaged. The roof of one house was blown 50 feet from the building.

POLICE SEEK HUSBAND IN BEATING OF WOMAN

Doctors Work to Save Life of Mrs. Nellie Gerlach, Clubbed Senseless.

While physicians at Georgetown Hospital were working last night to save the life of Mrs. Nellie Gerlach, 33 years old, of 3012½ R street northwest, who was brutally beaten with a board in her home yesterday morning, police of the Seventh Precinct were searching for her husband, Leroy Gerlach.

Mrs. Gerlach is suffering from a possible skull fracture and cuts and bruises on her face and body. Her condition is so serious that police have been unable to talk to her long enough to get a complete report of the attack. According to police Mrs. Gerlach blames her husband for her injuries. According to police Mrs. Gerlach charged that her husband attacked her with a six-inch plank following a dispute. She was knocked down, she said, and was kicked several times on the body. She lapsed into unconsciousness and when she came to her husband had gone, Mrs. Gerlach said.

Neighbors heard her weeping and investigated. When they saw her condition they advised her to go to a hospital and summoned Dr. William J. Stanton, 3323 O street northwest. He ordered her taken to Georgetown Hospital.

MOVING PICTURES SENT THROUGH AIR BY RADIO

Characters Easily Seen on Film at Westinghouse Co. Laboratories.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—A radio Utopia, when moving pictures will be sent through the air to homes in all parts of the world, was visioned today by radio's most conspicuous leaders, when "radio movies" were sent for the first time in history during a demonstration at the East Pittsburgh plant of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. Leaders in the radio world and newspaper men attended the demonstration and saw the movies sent through the air to a screen 30 feet from the transmitting apparatus.

Radio movies were received and publicly shown in Washington the night of July 6 at the home of C. Francis Jenkins, radio engineer and inventor, of 5502 Sixteenth street northwest. The movies were broadcast from the Jenkins laboratories, at Du Pont Circle and Connecticut avenue northwest. The movies were in silhouette and showed a little girl jumping rope and bouncing a ball.

GRIEF-MAD FATHER FIGHTS 2 POLICEMEN

Crazed by Loss of Baby and Its Mother, He Threatens Doctor and Nurse.

New York, Aug. 8.—Antillio de Angelo, 35, longed to be a father. Today his hopes were to be realized, but Julia and her baby died at the child's birth. His dreams shattered, Artillio went mad. Seizing a revolver he rushed at the attending doctor, G. Ippolito, and Mrs. Immaculata Bottino, a nurse. Denouncing them heatedly, De Angelo flourished the weapon wildly and told them he would kill them.

The doctor and the woman fled to the street and summoned Patrolman John Connelly, who ran into De Angelo's third-floor tenement apartment and grappled with the grief-crazed man. Although disarmed, Antillio was overpowering Connelly when Patrolman John McCrory rushed to his assistance. McCrory, a former boxer, stunned De Angelo, but when the man recovered, he seized a carving knife, and, before he was subdued, McCrory's uniform was slashed in several places, but neither policeman was cut. After ambulance surgeons came with a straitjacket, De Angelo was calmed. Police did not arrest him, but left him with his grief, to the consolations of his neighbors and of a prayerbook in which he had written, joyfully, a few hours before: "Agosto 8, mio primo bambino," leaving space for the baby's name.

NOT WORTH WHILE.

Gov. Smith has good reason to resent the intemperate and mendacious utterances of such critics as William Allen White and the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, but it is unfortunate that he should enter into a personal debate with either of them, or with any other critic. Both White and Straton are publicity seekers who have nothing of value to contribute to the public welfare. The American public does not attach any importance to anything that either may say or do, and if they attract public comment it is of a derisive character. By challenging Dr. Straton to repeat his offensive remarks and by claiming the right to reply to them, Gov. Smith brings Straton into the national limelight and gives him fictitious importance as a man whose utterances have weight.

The people are not looking upon Gov. Smith through the eyes of Dr. Straton or those of any other individual. Gov. Smith might with propriety enter into a debate with Herbert Hoover upon purely public questions, but he has nothing to gain by debating with Dr. Straton, even though he may smash the reverend gentleman into smithereens, as no doubt he will. At the finish Straton will still be nothing more than Straton, not worthy of the steel of a gladiator who has been nominated for President of the United States.

AMERICA'S AVIATION LEAD.

It is almost breath-taking to be told that within twelve months commercial aviation in this country will develop to a point beyond that of all Europe put together. Yet this is the prediction of the Department of Commerce. The qualification of "commercial aviation" is not a little joker in the hand of Uncle Sam. It points rather to the handicap under which the countries of Europe are laboring. With their intimate borders, these have first to consider aviation, even as they first considered railroads, from the military angle. Hence commercial aviation does not have the breadth and sweep of program that is marked out for it here.

Particular instances of the forwardness of European countries in passenger carriage and predictions of unexampled enterprise that will presently witness freight and passenger aircraft of enormous size crossing the Atlantic under the flag of the German reich, may be cited as striking offsets. But the bulk figures, after all, are in favor of this country.

This country now transports more than twice the goods and passengers per capita of any of the countries across the Atlantic, and over greater distances. With 207 municipal airports, 163 private ports and 124 Department of Commerce landings, as the story of what has been done mostly during the past eighteen years, the United States has good reason to look upon air service in every commercial aspect as being thoroughly in the warp of American business. The Government is content to permit business to make its own advances through air carriage, but it provides national air routes, lights and emergency landing fields, furnishes charts, licenses pilots and carries on scientific investigation. It encourages private enterprise to do the remainder. Thus a relationship has grown up between the private commercial air development and the Government that is rapidly making American aviation a giant as compared with the air activities of Europe.

THE GREATEST GAMBLE OF ALL.

For pure excitement, said one of the speakers at the meeting of the American Chemical Society Institute, at the Northwestern University, cast into the chemical pot a few hundred thousand dollars and give a few years to the processes of affinity to find their ordained combinations, and make yourself a multimillionaire. It looks easy. But there remain sad citations of professors who went into the business of creating market returns from their laboratories. One such, it is said, developed a process that has ever since influenced the sugar market and the entire realm of sweets. But he "profited nothing." Another found himself in possession of a process for getting crude oils to behave in a manner that would dispose them in grades in a series of automatic refinements, and afterward lived to remark that from the millions of barrels of the product not one centime of profit came to him. Yet another had a process for the extraction of highly desired chemical substances from refractory rock, and became linked up with a big enterprise. But the machinery for doing the work had not been devised, and it remained a laboratory possibility only.

The records of the pure scientist who gets into the practical side of production are replete with disappointments. Notwithstanding this, once in a while the one who sows is permitted to be around when the reaping time comes. Those who engage in the greatest of all gambles, that of chemistry research, and possess business ability and financial staying powers, may, in the end, become the distributors of untold benefits to their fellow men, even if they should happen for themselves to secure a profit. An instance was cited by Prof. L. V. Redman, of the Bakelite Company, in which a lucky chemist made 2,800 per cent on $300,000.

ALL MIXED UP.

It may be the heat, or possibly the effects of traffic congestion, but something is mixed in Missouri. The Democrats of that State have nominated a dry, Charles M. Hay, to run for United States senator on the ticket headed by Gov. Al Smith. This is done, too, against the advice and consent of Senator Jim Reed.

Is it possible that the wet and dry question is after all a mere phantom, rising from the heat-oppressed brain? When the right man comes along the Democratic national convention nominates him, without regard to the fact that he is wet while the platform is dry. And when another right man appears in Missouri the Democrats nominate him, although he is a dry and they are thirsty. Wets and drys are now running on the same ticket in several States, with more to come. Where are we at? If this process of picking good men without regard to prohibition is maintained a little longer the election may turn on persons and great policies and leave the wet and dry question in the lurch.

It's pretty hard, at best, to make prohibition an issue between two parties that are themselves half wet and half dry. But when the question is sidetracked altogether to make room for real issues the United States may find itself engaged in something really important, instead of squabbling over booze. Now is the time for all drys to rally around themselves, and for all wets to rally around themselves. It will not do to confuse, confound, and demoralize this great and insoluble problem by mixing wets and drys.

RADIO ECHOES.

"Whose sounding board, the over-arching skies, to no high note its echoing right denies," may explain the radio echo that puzzles scientists of the University of Chicago. Between the hours of 9 p. m. and 4 a. m. Prof. Hoag and his assistant are studying these strange echoes and are disposed to lay the blame for them upon the geographic North Pole, the magnetic pole and the aurora borealis. A responsibility so widely distributed offers supreme difficulties for the rounding out of a secure hypothesis.

The former idea that the echoes, which occur from .01 to .04 of a second after the main signal, indicate that the wave has gone round the earth is discredited; the time, even with ether as the medium, being too short. Nor does the Kennelly-Heaviside theory of a layer of electrons, ranging some 75 to 150 miles outside the earth, and which cause long-distance "wave bouncing" provide the solution, in the mind of the Chicago investigator. He is sure that the vagrant waves that do the knocking range several thousand miles outside of the direct path from transmitter to receiver. Hence he is strongly disposed to believe that they fare toward the North Pole, circle it in the approved manner of an airship explorer and return. The electron layer thesis is worked into the situation by supposing that this layer is an inverted bowl 300 miles deep and that the radio waves swirl through it.

The nearest approach to a supportable theory is the one now put forth that from the vast electron bowl in that part of the universe where the North Pole centers the radio waves emit an echo not primarily different from that attending the halloa of a small boy over against a stretch of woods.

THE FLORIDA STORM.

Another fierce storm, reaching the proportions of a hurricane, has swept over a part of Florida. Preliminary estimates place the property damage at $5,000,000. As such estimates are made by individuals who are in the midst of the excitement, and who unconsciously project their estimates over territory that they have not seen, the figures are almost invariably exaggerated. Doubtless when the storm has subsided and losses are accurately measured they will not be as great as they have been estimated.

Florida does not deserve the misfortune of this storm, which will probably deter some individuals from making their homes in that State. These visitations occur only in midsummer, and years may elapse between really violent storms. No loss of life is reported in this instance, which indicates that the fury of the storm has been unduly magnified. Florida builders learned a lesson from the Miami storm and are erecting substantial structures which can withstand extraordinary gales.

The resources and attractions of Florida are such as to warrant a heavy influx of population. The State's growth can not be stopped by any storm, unwelcome as they are on account of their deterrent effect upon the minds of some would-be settlers. The indomitable people of Florida are making that State a paradise and a treasure-house, notwithstanding the appearance of an occasional violent storm.

BILLIONS IN THE BANKS.

It is reported that the resources of the national banks on June 30 were the largest in the history of the country, aggregating the enormous total of $28,500,000,000. This is a remarkable record of financial wealth.

In a presidential campaign every fact is naturally given a political significance, and this showing of the banks will prove no exception to the rule. No matter how effervescent may be the issues of religion and prohibition, the underlying question of substantial prosperity is one that must give the Democrats grave concern. It was Mark Hanna who truthfully remarked that the pocket nerve is the most sensitive of all, and he played successfully upon that nerve in securing the election of William McKinley.

Conditions are not altogether satisfactory in every section and among all classes. The farmers, for instance, while they have been blessed with good crops, are not receiving prices which repay them for their expenditure of time and labor. Nevertheless, the Democrats will have to convince them that if they change conditions they will not encounter worse evils. In commercial circles it is not Gov. Smith's religion or his wetness or his affiliation with Tammany that is most discussed. It is the question as to what will happen if the Democratic party regains power. Will there be legislation that will disturb business?

The Democrats have wisely given assurances tending to remove doubts. They admit the wisdom of the principle of protection, and can prove that the old-time free trade element does not dominate the party. At the same time, the average business man is cautious and conservative to a marked degree. If he is prospering, he desires to continue prosperous. He will avoid any risk that may jeopardize his security. It remains, therefore, for the Democratic party to convince the country that if it is given control business conditions will still be in safe hands. For this reason the country will give close study to Gov. Smith's acceptance speech. If he outlines a satisfactory business and financial policy he will do more to promote his candidacy than all his managers can do.

REPRESENTATIVE MOORE.

The signal victory achieved by Representative R. Walton Moore in his fight for renomination to Congress in the Eighth Virginia District is a refutation of the old proverb that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country.

It would have been an exhibition of gross ingratitude on the part of the voters in Mr. Moore's district if they had removed him from the position which he has so ably filled for ten years. During this period he has served his people with efficiency and fidelity. Strictly attentive to his duties at all times, he has been something more than a mere every-day worker. He has taken the initiative in large enterprises, like the Mount Vernon Boulevard, and while he has not neglected the local interests of his district, he has taken a prominent part in the consideration of national questions. His long experience and wise counsel have been of distinct advantage to his party in the House of Representatives.

Mr. Moore has also been a consistent and stalwart friend of the National Capital. He has always manifested a deep interest in the affairs of the District of Columbia, situated as it is immediately adjoining the section which he represents. The fact that his efforts have met with overwhelming appreciation is a deserved compliment to him.

THE SWEET POTATO WAR.

The Eastern Shore of Virginia produces the finest sweet potatoes that are grown in the world. They do not need any other brand than that which is stamped upon them at the point of shipment. If along the route they are sorted, restamped and degraded by intermediate shippers, then the blame falls where it has been placed in the complaint entered by Senator Edwards, of New Jersey, against the shippers of Maryland and Delaware. Neither of these States as growers of the tubers for the market has any reputation to maintain for the uniform and supernal quality of its sweets, such as rests upon the growers of Accomac and its sister county. Any one who has ever visited the Virginia region made famous for its sweet potatoes, strawberries and melons will scoff at the implied rivalry of Jersey growers. However, there is no charge laid against the Virginia shippers or, presumably, against the Virginia potatoes. If this were not the case then the miniature potato war would become more than the tempest in a teapot it now is; for defense of the fair fame of the Virginia shore 'tater rests upon all who have ever partaken of baked chicken and sweet potatoes a la Virginia.

The danger in electing a town-born President is that historical societies will have too many apartment houses to preserve.

Nature doesn't seem so grand when you observe the kind of people to whom she entrusts the duties of parenthood.

The airplane uses 40 per cent of its power to go ahead and 60 per cent just to stay up above the crowd. How like the neighbors!

How clever detectives are! They know at once which side a dead gangster belonged to, because the other side killed him.

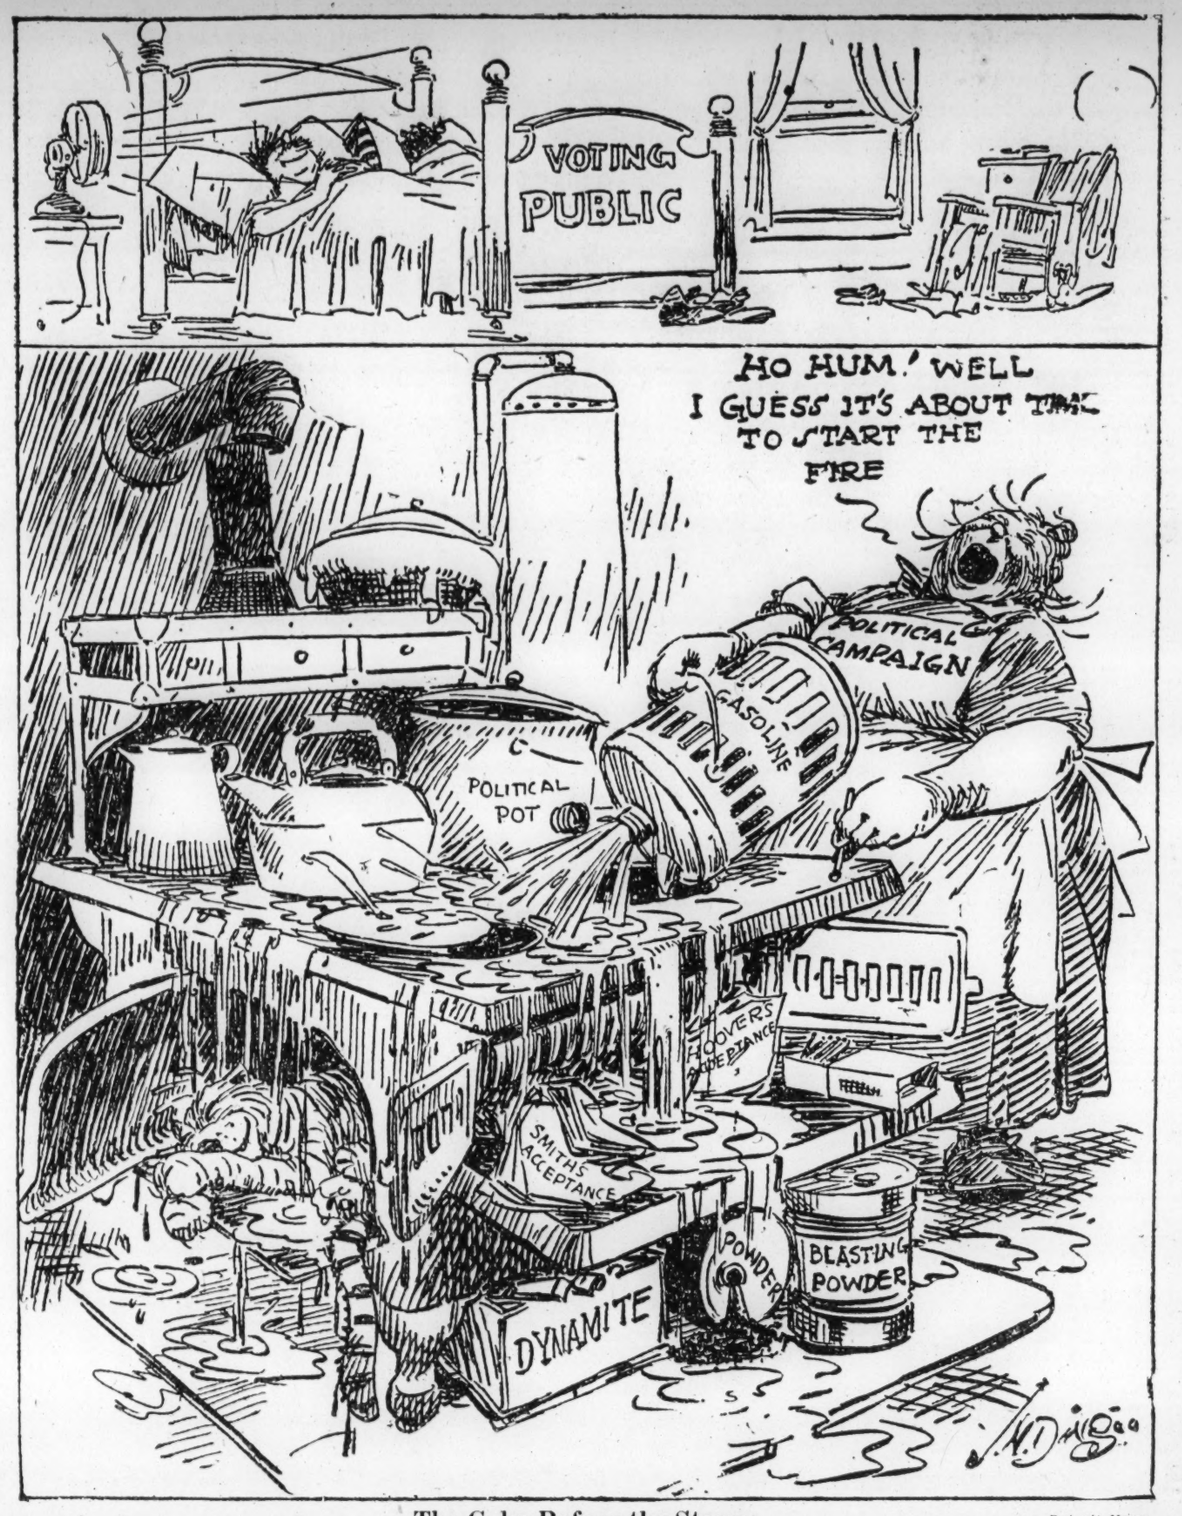

TRAFFIC SIGNALS.

It is enlightening, if not entirely convincing, to learn from supposedly authoritative sources that a relatively small proportion of automobile accidents are occasioned by confusion over traffic signals or unfamiliarity with driving regulations. No figures in refutation of this assertion being available at the moment, it must be accepted at its face value. However, one given to motoring through strange territory, be it metropolitan or rural, must have held an opinion to the contrary.

Scarcely two districts traversed, in a coast-to-coast or Canada-to-Gulf tour would be found to possess traffic regulations that were identical, says the Detroit Free Press. For the most part the variations are so wide that the motorist is never quite certain whether he is conducting himself according to the edicts of the particular locality through which he is passing, or whether he is in imminent peril of arrest for infraction of some rule with which he is unacquainted.

If this arrangement were part of a concerted plan to keep visiting motorists alert it would, at least, possess the semblance of an excuse. No such claims are advanced, however. It is merely because up to now all efforts to secure the adoption of a driving code of nation-wide uniformity have progressed but a little way beyond the starting point.

Pending the arrival of that halcyon period when the motorist who ventures from his own bailiwick will not be confounded by a multiplicity of signs and signals sufficient to puzzle the brightest mind, it is encouraging to know that the steadily mounting material loses inflicted by and upon motorists comes mostly from other causes than this stubborn lack of official cooperation. But what about the mental and moral damage resulting from trying to figure out a dozen different traffic codes in as many hours? Has any one of the statistical sharks thought of this angle?

PRESS COMMENT.

Fast Work.

Boston Herald: It has been only one generation from horse-shed to seven-story garage.

A Mouthful.

Indianapolis News: My government has been happy to accept.—King George.

Tables Turned.

Topeka Daily Capital: Twenty-five people were robbed in a New York restaurant. The fact that it was by four bandits makes it news.

Bunkless Politics.

Springfield Republican: No bricklaying for Gov. Smith, just to please the movie folks. Mr. Hoover will neither pitch hay nor kiss babies. This looks like wringing out the bunk.

"Study to Be Quiet."

New York World: It is a new popular spirit which is most required. Americans have built the huge cities of the last generation with a heedlessness of noise which strikes every foreign observer. In our hurry and strenuosity, our individualism and good nature, we tolerate deafening elevated lines, surface cars which grind and clatter, pile drivers, steam riveters, street cries, automobile honking and a wild variety of minor noises. It is no wonder that many people use the radio with careless license. We need a spirit which will recognize quiet as one of the fundamental decencies of life.

Midnight Radio Din.

New York Herald Tribune: The midnight loud speaker, in the opinion of the Federal Radio Commission, is a local issue. The commission finds no warrant in the radio act for curtailing the hours of broadcasters who keep awake persons desirous of sleep. The small army of complainants pleading with the radio board to restrict the racket have had the idea that the radio bosses could handle all problems of interference, including interference with the comfort of city residents; but the late hours of jazz, it seems, are out of Uncle Sam's jurisdiction.

Foreign-Born Voters.

Rochester Democrat: Newspaper commentators and others profess surprise at the result of a survey recently concluded by the Foreign Language Information Service, which seems to show that foreign voters, so far at least as the present campaign is concerned, are as widely divided in their preferences as native-born voters. Predictions about the "foreign vote" and the effect it may have on the coming election, are proved to be illusory. The Democrats have reasoned themselves into the belief that it would be largely a Smith vote because of the large foreign-born elements in New York City, where the governor is strongest, and because of his views on prohibition, which were considered more in sympathy with the immigrant viewpoint. With more reason, the Republicans have seen Hoover strength in this vote because of the candidate's conspicuous service in feeding the suffering European people during the war. Hoover is a name that has been better known in Europe for the last ten years, probably, than that of any other American.

Whether or not either of these views is correct, there is certainly no organized movement among the foreign-born voters on behalf of either candidate.

Even a Weed Looks White and Sick If Raised in the Shade

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MAN is inherently lazy, and is by nature inclined to be a leech. The more he gets, the more he wants. Give him free bread and he will complain because it isn't sliced. Give him a seat in the shade and he will howl for a cushion.

Consider preachers. The modern preacher is a "regular guy." He plays golf; he goes hiking with the Boy Scouts; he wishes to be known as a "good sport;" he delights in his physical prowess.

Times changed and he changed to fit them. He became the kind of man he had to be in order to win and hold the respect of his people.

But in my youth I knew another kind of preacher—a spoiled darling and a pet.

If he walked across town to make a call, he was supposed to be tired. Cushions were provided for him; women mothered him and cooed over him; everybody worried about his health.

His wife was a slave. In winter she got up early and built a fire for him; she assumed the burden of training the children because they troubled his "nerves;" she fetched and carried for him and dragged her weary bones to church on Sunday to hear other women coo their sympathy for him.

He grew fat and soft and gross; he became unutterably selfish; he developed swell-head; he became an irritable, babyish, pretentious ass—and the inevitable result was that youth despised him.

His kind is happily extinct, except in the remote hinterland, and the world is better for his passing. He exists now only as a peg on which to hang a moral.

The moral is that the quickest way to destroy a man is to pet him.

Refugees in southern Europe after the war, grown soft as a result of being spoon-fed by American charity, lost all ambition. They gave up dreaming of a return to usefulness and were content to think of the future in terms of dependence.

The American people, spoiled by a paternal Government, no longer face their problems bravely and work out their own salvation. Their first thought in a crisis is an appeal to the Federal Government. Whatever happens or fails to happen, the solution is a congressional appropriation.

Children are impudent, selfish and beyond control because their parents pet and coddle them. The modern child has a thermometer in its mouth; somebody must show it how to play; it howls for service if nobody is entertaining it or spending money on it.

It won't do, fellow pilgrims. Nature provides manhood to handle man-size trials. Take away the trials and Nature takes away the manhood.

Spoon-feed a child, a husband or a people, and you must expect a howl for sympathy every time a head is bumped.

CUMULATIVE PENALTIES.

Cumulative penalties, reaching to life sentences, for crimes ordinarily calling for limited-term sentences, serve two purposes, according to the Kansas City Times. When life sentences are imposed, assuming such sentences shall be served, they dispose of confirmed criminals with finality; the offenders no longer menace society. Also in States where cumulative sentences are legal, or made compulsory on the courts in specific circumstances, the confirmed criminal is either deterred from crime or seeks a State where he takes less chance of life imprisonment. Therefore, Kansas is to be congratulated on its new law making life sentence inevitable on a third conviction on a felony charge. Ordinarily the maximum sentence for this crime would have been ten years, but the man had been convicted of felonies twice before. The law assumed, therefore, that this man was a confirmed criminal; that he had had his chance to reform and had failed; that the best disposition of him was to deny to him further freedom to indulge in crime. If all States had such laws, of which the Baumes code in New York State is the most striking example, we should have less crime, fewer criminals and more reforms among those who get a wrong start. We shall never reduce crime to a rational minimum in this country until we make crime a good deal more hazardous to the criminal than it has been.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Suffrage Not Universal.

To the Editor of the Post—Sir: In his discussion of the question of universal suffrage in The Post of August 2, Prof. Kelly Miller said:

"The fifteenth amendment forbids restriction of the franchise on account of race, as the nineteenth amendment forbids such restriction on account of sex. Together these two amendments make suffrage universal and complete the genuine purpose of democracy.

The fact is that these two amendments do not make suffrage universal. The statement of the learned professor that they do, is without warrant and support of either fact or theory. After race and sex have been eliminated, there yet remain all other restrictions, conditions, reservations, and limitations, which may be applied to the exercise of the suffrage, and in actual practice are applied to such exercise. At present we have restrictions as to residence; residence in the State, in the county, in the voting precinct; restrictions as to age, as to payment of taxes, as to ownership of property, as to ability to read and write, and as to ability to understand parts of the Constitution.

If the learned professor should make application to register as a voter in a State where the understanding qualification for voting exists, and should be asked the effect that the fifteenth and nineteenth amendments have upon the suffrage, and should reply that "these two amendments make suffrage universal," the proper officer would be justified in refusing him registration.

Allotting Child Leisure.

To the Editor of the Post—Sir: So long as the child is secure in its initiative in the matter of play and recreation, to the extent that its nature demands, selective agencies for filling in the leisure of children of the schools may be useful. Nature's trial and error method of getting through the earlier years of childhood and youth has some advantages that laboratory idea can not supplant.

It is not so much a matter of how much time is given to recreation and under what auspices, as it is that the recreation shall be that which spurs the muscles, invigorates the nerves and develops personalities, so that there shall be no such thing as standardized young life.

The question that is ever more of less at issue between educators as to the province of the schools and of the purely recreative activities of the child, and to what extent the schools may step in and claim some of the child's leisure hours, is a problem of pedagogics that in some form or other has been discussed from the time of Socrates.

"Freed from the crime influence of the streets and alleys," says a school superintendent in Indiana, "the pupil is made safer from moral deterioration. In the school he is engaged in the process of weighing values."

That is true in part, but "weighing values" may be overdone. When a child is at play in his own way he is "weighing values" in a very practical manner, not to be learned in books. As a parent I object to the encroachment of education upon child recreation. Let the kids play as they please. G. C. B.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

NATIONAL.

"Nightstick," the melodrama which had its premiere in the National Theater last October, will be revived by the National Theater Players next week, beginning Monday, August 13, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. "Nightstick" first appeared as a one-act sketch in vaudeville. Later John Wray, the author, whipped it into a play and called it "One of the Finest." Under this title it played the National Theater and became a hit overnight.

Miss Leona Powers, leading lady; Howard Miller, leading man; Edward Arnold, Charles Hampden, Mrs. Hibbard, Billy Phelps, Robert Brister and the new ingenue, Mary Loane, together with Helen Wallace, have exceedingly interesting parts in this play that deals with the conflict between the New York police and the crooks.

Incidentally, the performance next week of "Nightstick" by the National Theater Players will be the last on any stage. The play is now being directed by Roland West for an all-talking movie.

PALACE.

Thomas Meighan, will be presented in what is hailed as one of the most effective roles of his career as star of Howard Hughes' production of "The Racket," realistic film version of the underworld melodrama of the same name by Bartlett Cormack, at Loew's Palace Theater for the week beginning Saturday. The supporting cast is led by Marie Prevost and Louis Wolheim. On the stage the attraction will be "Pow-Wow." Paul Oscard's revue, in which Wesley Eddy will introduce Ed and Morton Beck, Horton Spurr, Harry Losee, Helen Packard, Paul Keast, the Sorrell Girls and the Syncopators.

EARLE.

James Hall, Ruth Taylor, William Austin and numerous others of note will be seen for the first time in Washington in the principal roles of Paramount's picturization of Anne Nichol's comedy, "Just Married," on the screen at the Earle Theater for a week's engagement beginning Saturday. Lila Lee returns to the silver sheet in this vehicle. The foremost stage attraction will be Daily Paskman's Radio Minstrels, one of the most widely known and most popular organizations of its kind now before the public. These minstrels have been favorites on the air for more than two years. Short reels added.

FOX.

Comedy will dominate the bill at the Fox Theater next week. The outstanding cinema feature for the week beginning Saturday will be the William Fox production of "Chicken a la King," in which the pivotal roles are played by Ford Sterling, Nancy Carroll, George Meeker and Frances Lee. The second of S. J. Stebbins' "Synco-Jazz Revues" will occupy the place of honor on the stage portion of the program. In response to a positive demand the 36 Fox Melody Masters will make their second appearance on the stage under the baton of Leon Bruisiloff. Fox Movietone and house features added as usual.

METROPOLITAN.

Lovers of stirring scenes, flapping flags, immensely intriguing immigrants and mountainous marines will enjoy the attraction announced for the week beginning Saturday at Crandall's Metropolitan Theater. The title of this widely heralded bit of whoopee is "United States Smith" and the major characters are impersonated by Lila Lee, Kenneth Harlan and Eddie Gribbon. The picture is an adaptation of a short story by Gerald Beaumont and also enlists the services of Mickey Bennett. The supplementary bill will embrace the customary silent features and added Vitaphone offerings of interest.

COLUMBIA.

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton will be the pictured costars in their latest joint vehicle, "The Big Killing," at Loew's Columbia Theater beginning Saturday. They portray the characters of "Powder-Horn Pete" and "Dead-Eye Dan" in a tale of two bunglers who think they are sent to slay dogs when told to kill Beagles, but learn in time that that is the family name of a group of bloodthirsty feudists. In addition to the feature picture, in which the leading feminine role is played by Mary Brian, the usual auxiliary offerings will be included in the program for the new week.

GLEN ECHO PARK.

Glen Echo Park is now hitting on all cylinders. Every amusement device is furnishing patrons with more laughs per mile than ever before. The Aero Swing, circling high overhead, with motors droning and propellers humming, is one of the star attractions. So, too, the improved Dip and Derby Racer, the Whip, Carrousel, Old Mill, Midway, and the many other features. Of major importance this year is the big ball room, where the music of McWilliams Orchestra gives added impetus to pleasures of the dance.

SENATORS PREDICT EXTRA SESSION FOR REVISION OF TARIFF

INDUSTRY IS ALREADY CAMPAIGNING ON HILL

Senators remaining in Washington look for an extra session of Congress to be called soon after March 4, when a new administration will have taken over the reins of government, for the specific purpose of revising the tariff. Whether the next administration is Republican or Democratic, the majority opinion is that the revision will be sharply upward on a vast majority of schedules.

Once Congress embarks on a tariff revising expedition, few senators believe it will stop with a limited number of schedules like farm products, where quick relief admittedly is essential, but will set about rewriting the Fordney-McCumber tariff measure, with sweeping changes in many schedules other than those the session may be called to change.

As a result, industries already are beginning a drive on Capitol Hill, determined to take advantage of this opportunity to secure added protection. Everywhere it is conceded that agricultural products will be revised upward to a marked degree.

Industries Serve Notice.

Textile industries, lumber interests and other industries have served notice that it is equally important for them to have added protection if their home markets are to be preserved.

The consensus of senators on Capitol Hill yesterday was that the next tariff battle will be fought out along lines entirely new to Congress. Instead of Republicans fighting desperately to prevent the Democrats from tearing down the wall of protection, States are expected to group together to obtain the best tariff benefits possible for the particular industries located within their borders. As the situation sizes up now, the next administration, whether Democratic or Republican, will have its hands full keeping schedules out of the skies.

Want Exclusive Session.

Senator Wesley L. Jones, Republican, of Washington, chairman of the important committee on commerce, believes it is essential that an extra session of Congress be convened early next Spring regardless of who is elected President. The tariff is far too important, he asserted, to be handled in a general session along with a flood of other legislative problems. It deserves the exclusive attention of an extra session.

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, Democrat, of Florida, holds the same view. Representative Willis C. Hawley, Republican, of Oregon, chairman of the House Ways and means committee, where all finance legislation originates and which will have charge of the new tariff bill in the lower chamber, is understood to entertain substantially the same opinion.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

Streets of the movies come and go, but when a studio actually paves one of its street sets and puts in concrete curbs, that street is likely to appear in many and many a picture and wear as many disguises as Lon Chaney ever dreamed of before its career as a make-believe thoroughfare is ended.

The street they built for "The Student Prince," on the M-G-M lot several months ago, for example, looked very German in the Heidelberg sequences. A little later, it has leaked out, after extensive changes in signs over the shops and a few architectural alterations, it looked Chinese enough for "Mr. Wu." Then it went southern United States for "In Old Kentucky," and overnight took on a distinctly Austrian air for "The Enemy."

Subsequently it was a street in Singapore, its walls plastered with strange bulletins in weird languages; its paving stones echoing to the shuffling feet of brown, black, white and yellow men.

And the other day, just to make this a good story, they covered all the pavement with dirt, planted a few trees, changed all the signs and window dressings and made it a small-town American street for "Alias Jimmy Valentine."

If you don't want to join the Marines, be an asphalt Arab in Culver City and see the world!

For the first time in so many years of picture theater attendance that I have no intention of mentioning the number, I have heard an audience of cash customers break into full-throated song at the behest of a house organist. To be sure, a good many of the throats seemed to be full of hot mush instead of hot melody, but the intention, nevertheless, was the best in the world.

It happened in the Palace Theater as long ago as last Saturday night and the lusty-lunged occasion may never have been repeated, but the merry villagers certainly made the welkin ring—this is purely supposition on my part; I never saw a welkin and never heard one ring—at the performance I attended, with Charlie Gaige urging them on from the console with a cleverly improvised Herbert Hoover-Al Smith straw vote.

Incidentally, Hoover was elected hands down and voices up at this particular show, which may or may not upset the old theory that one had to be pretty wet to warble. "Sweet Adeline" never would have got herself anywhere at all, otherwise!

Speaking of singers, a vocalist named Beery, who used to boom his way through musical comedy roles back in 1904, is about to burst into song again—this time on the screen, which has known him for many years as character actor and comedian.

Few who have watched Wallace Beery's rise to stardom in pictures ever expected to hear him sing, and he himself is said to have thought himself through earning a living with his voice. But these "talking pictures" are upsetting everything traditional in the films. In "Beggars of Life," the Jim Tully hobo classic, Beery portrays an uncouth, hulking villain of the "jungles," and one of the features of the sound effects to be heard with the pictured action is a hobo song he sings to his box-car companions.

Another who will doubtless unfurl a basso profundo that has not been much used these last few years is Ernest Torrence, last seen here as the Cossack Ataman with John Gilbert in "The Cossacks."

Torrence was a deep-voiced comedian in "Very Good, Eddie," and many of the other New York Princess Theater hits so popular in the Capital a few years back. He was then a splendid singer and gifted pianist and still ought to be able to twist a few effective lilts of one sort or another through that movie microphone.

It is a pleasure to record that my recollection of the sprightly charm of the Lovey Girls, now appearing at the "Moonlight and Roses" revue at the Earle Theater, was not one of those extravagances of memory so frequently overtoned by the passing of time. I seemed to recall that when they were mere Washington tots, appearing as the Iverson Twins in the amateur night contests at the York, both gave promise of bright years ahead in the theater. Hurried glimpses of their work after they had turned professional served to strengthen my first impression.

Yesterday these richly talented and wholly unspoiled young artistes paid me a brief visit with their mother between afternoon and evening performances and now I know I was right!

After a week or two more in the East, Mrs. Iverson and her Lovey Girls will trek West for a tour of the Balaban and Katz houses in and about Chicago.

And just to prove their perspicacity, they admit that of all these spots in August, they like Atlantic City best!

Political advice is freely offered these days, but here is some which at least is different. Says Fred Niblo, distinguished motion picture director and former actor, monologist and travel lecturer:

"Movie doubles for Herbert Hoover and Al Smith should announce their candidacy early. It will not be long now until one or the other of these gentlemen will be added to the list of Hollywood presidents."

Don't forget to vote early and often!

S. J. Stebbins, managing director of the Fox Theater, whose proficiency as an originator of stage entertainment has made his professional activities pathetically peripatetic, will be succeeded by several new executives when he leaves the Capital to take over the destinies of the Fox houses in Detroit and St. Louis.

The supervision of stage productions and programs will devolve upon Joe La Rose, who returns to the Fox roster after an excursion into the fields of endeavor dominated by Loew. House management will be in the hands of Harry Greenman and W. S. Scott, who returns as treasurer for a short workout preliminary to accompanying Mr. Stebbins west.

My sentiments with regard to this entire matter will be found in the Motion Picture Section of next Sunday's Post. Order your copy early and learn the importance of a nickel!

Today, tomorrow and Saturday an "Our Gang" comedy is to be made by the Hal Roach studios at Glen Echo Park with a cast of local aspirants for juvenile screen honors taking the places of the West Coast members of the original group of Roach's "rascals."

Here seems to be the ideal spot for Washington youngsters to get themselves into a regular, honest-to-goodness film comedy, for in addition to the specially chosen principals I am led to believe that numerous others will be utilized in the familiar capacities of "atmosphere" and "background."

All any one needs to be "atmosphere" is to have an air about him!

Washington, Wednesday, Aug. 8—8 p. m.

The Florida disturbance is central over southwestern Orange County, moving northwestward with somewhat decreased intensity, and storm warnings are displayed over central and northern Florida. A second tropical disturbance is central about 150 miles south-southwest of Porto Rico, moving northwest or west-northwest, and is of moderate intensity. It is apparently headed for southern Haiti, and caution has been advised for that region.

Pressure is relatively low from eastern Ontario southward to Virginia, Doucet, Quebec, 29.82 inches, and is low and falling over Manitoba. High pressure prevails over Newfoundland, Cape Race, 30.22 inches, and is relatively high in the Ohio Valley, the upper lake region, the southern plains States and eastern Colorado. During the last 24 hours rains have occurred in Florida, and widely scattered showers in the Atlantic States and along the east Gulf Coast. Temperature changes have been unimportant.

The outlook is for rains over central and northern Florida on Thursday, and over extreme northern Florida on Friday, and for showers in portions of the south Atlantic and east Gulf States Thursday and Friday. Showers are also indicated Friday afternoon in the lower lake region. Elsewhere the weather will be mostly fair Thursday and Friday in States east of the Mississippi River, without material change in temperature.

WAY CLEARED FOR WORK ON MONTGOMERY ROAD

WILL RELIEVE TRAFFIC

Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, president of the Montgomery County Board of Commissioners, said yesterday that rights of way have been acquired that will enable the county to at once begin work on the construction of the road to connect Rockville pike and Old Georgetown road. The proposed road will be opened at Rock Creek Nursery, on the Rockville pike, and extend diagonally to Old Georgetown road at Montrose road, covering a distance of 1¼ miles. Contracts for the work have already been awarded, and it is expected the road will be completed within 30 days from starting time.

The completion of this link joining the two trunk highways between Rockville and Bethesda will relieve the congestion of traffic between the two points, Dr. Perry pointed out, and afford motorists coming from the northern section of the county a short route to the western section of the county without compelling them to travel to Bethesda and then turn back on the Old Georgetown road in order to reach their destinations. Citizens of Rockville and Bethesda said they consider this new road to be the most important piece of new road construction undertaken by the county commissioners in many years.

Bids for the reconstruction of and additions to the county courthouse at Rockville will be authorized for advertisement next Teusday, when the board of county commissioners confer with the consulting architect at its weekly meeting in every probability, Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, president of the board, said yesterday.

The commissioners have appropriated $250,000 for the improvement of the courthouse structure, plans have been agreed upon, and only comparatively minor matters are to be arranged at the Tuesday meeting, it was said. The commissioners have said they expect the work to be completed during the autumn.

GOVERNMENT IS GIVEN HISTORIC FORT SITES

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Aug. 8.—Two deeds have just been mailed by Capt. Carter R. Bishop, of Petersburg, chairman of the Petersburg National Battlefield Park Commission, to Maj. Gen. B. F. Cheatham, quartermaster general at Washington, conveying to the United States Government two tracts of land for the Petersburg National Battlefield Park.

One of the deeds is from the State of Virginia, through the board of directors of the Central State Hospital, conveying 3½ acres in Dinwiddie County, on which is located Fort Gregg. The other is a deed to 15 or more acres at Pine Gardens, Prince George County, on which are Fort Frederick, Fort Sedgwick, Fort Rice, all in good state of preservation, and the salient known as Rives salient, which was a part of the Confederate lines.

At these forts and Fort Gregg were fought on Sunday, April 2, 1865, the last battle of the nine-month siege of Petersburg by the Federal Army.

DISTRICT MARKET FIRM WITH SOME RECESSIONS

ACACIA STAFF GROWS

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The stock list was firm in relatively brisk trading on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday, with Potomac Electric 5½ per cent preferred leading at 108, a fraction below its high figure for the year. The stock rose to that figure after call. The opening was at 107¼.

Four bank stocks came out in the trading, each selling at prices slightly below those they last commanded. District National Bank sold at 244, a point down; American Security & Trust Co. was 2 points off, at 455; Federal-American National Bank brought 336, and Riggs National Bank was more than 7 points off, at 510.

Opening at 100⅜, Mergenthaler Linotype rose to 101 after call, 42 shares of the stock changing hands in all. Barber & Ross, Inc., common held at 25, 100 shares going at that price. National Mortgage & Investment dropped to 4⅝ as 50 shares changed hands.

The "baby" gas issues were again active in the bond division, $2,000 Washington Gas 6s, series A, bringing from 102½ to 104, and $600 of series B selling at 104¼. Capital Traction 5s moved up ¼ of a point to 101¾.

Acacia Life Appointments.

Announcement of four appointments on the official staff of the Acacia Mutual Life Association was made yesterday by the board of directors of the organization through its president, William Montgomery.

Maj. J. C. King has been named assistant secretary; W. B. Irons, assistant secretary; R. B. Montgomery, assistant treasurer, and B. A. Harlan, executive secretary.

The expansion in the association's official personnel comes as evidence of the exceptional growth, and is said to presage still further expansion in the near future.

Named by Banking Institute.

Appointment of four members of the Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, to serve on the forum committee of the organization was announced last night by I. J. Roberts, chairman of the committee and a past president of the chapter at a meeting of the board of governors at the chapter rooms, 1318 F street.

Those named are Miss Esther R. Lau, of Riggs National Bank, secretary; H. W. Burnside, Farmers & Mechanics National Bank; Frederick H Cox, of the Commercial National Bank, and T. Hunton Leith, of the Security Savings & Commercial Bank. The announcement brings to four the total number of committees filled, but leaves ways and means, women's, archives, athletic and banquet committeemen as yet unassigned.

Routine matters incident to the opening of the institute year were discussed at the governors' session. In attendance, besides James A. Soper, president of the chapter, were Mr. Burnside, R. Jesse Chaney, Aubrey O. Dooley, Mr. Leith, Stuart S. Ogilvie, Mr. Roberts, Miss Mabel V. Royce, Alfred W. Sherman, Garret M. Van Hoesen, Robert G. Whitten and Joseph D. Yerkes.

Fleming Back From Vacation.

Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank, who has been on a two weeks' vacation in New York, New England and Canada, returned to Washington yesterday, too late, however, to preside at the luncheon forum of the District of Columbia Bankers' Association at the Willard Hotel.

Third Booker Edition Liked.

The third edition of "Facts and Figures on Washington Securities," compiled and edited by Y. E. Booker & Co., is achieving wide circulation among the investing public and commendation in the financial district, as the most complete booklet yet issued dealing with issues offered in the local market.

Making no attempt at anaysis of earnings, the pamphlet fulfills its stated purpose of "giving the investor a brief outline of the companies whose securities are traded in on the Washington Stock Exchange with a description of the various classes of stocks and bonds which each company has outstanding, and their relationship to each other."

Included in the booklet are statements on a number of corporations whose shares are not traded in on the Washington Stock Exchange, but which have been distributed among Washington investors to such an extent that much local interest is evinced in their ratings. Statements are included on the status of the street railway merger and the District of Columbia intangible tax.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Facing an estimate that surplus wheat in export countries this season will total 315,000,000 bushels more than last year, wheat values collapsed today. The tumble carried the wheat market 33 cents a bushel under prices of a year ago and to the lowest level since 1924.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1⅞c to 2⅝c net lower for the day, with corn varying from ⅞c decline to ¼c advance, oats ¼c to 1c off and provisions unchanged to 25c down.

Likelihood of a bearish Government crop report tomorrow as to domestic wheat added today to the effect of extremely optimistic wheat crop advices from Canada. Authoritative advices were at hand that the Canadian crop is now in a condition well above the average of the last five years. Moreover, the area planted to wheat this year in the Canadian prairie provinces is figured as 23,567,900 acres, showing an increase of 9.95 per cent over 1927 and establishing a new record. On top of this came a statement from a British authority that export countries will probably have a surplus stock of 1,104,000,000 bushels, whereas world import requirements are placed at only 27,000,000 bushels more than last year.

Demoralized wheat market conditions at Liverpool today tended further to bring about general selling here, especially as word was received that stocks of wheat at Liverpool are more than a year ago and that arrivals of wheat in European continental countries are very large. Under such circumstances lowest prices of the day in Chicago were made shortly before the close, but buying to collect a profit for previous sellers rallied the market somewhat in the dealings at the finish.

Fine weather for corn growth weakened the price of new crop deliveries of corn, December and March reaching the lowest level yet this season. September delivery of corn, however, and the cash corn market were firm. There were intimations of further export business in new crop corn, November, December and January shipment. Receipts of corn in Chicago today were only 57 cars. All deliveries of oats sold today at a new low point for the season, largely as a result of the bearish action of other grain.

Provisions were easier, paralleling the course of hog values. Bulges in the cotton market had little effect.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Unfilled orders of the U. S. Steel Corporation at the close of July to be made public on Friday are expected to show a drop of about 100,000 tons, resulting from unusually heavy shipments for the month and hot weather which held up orders. Bookings are understood to have been quite heavy and in excess of shipments in the last few days.

Sales of National Tea Co. for seven months this year moved up to $48,731,304 from $31,833,334 in the same period of 1927.

Iron trade review says more steel was produced last month than in any July on record, and if the gait of the first week in August is maintained, a new August record is in the making. Since stocks of producers and consumers alike are most meager, consumption is correspondingly high. Undoubtedly this is the best summer in the history of the metal-working industry.

United States Dairy Products Corporation and subsidaries, operating in eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and the Eastern Shore districts of Maryland and Virginia, had gross sales of $16,655,618 in the year ended June 30; a new record income, before surplus adjustments was $891,783.

Net profit of Curtiss aeroplane and motor for the first half of 1928 advanced to $691,844 from $323,251 in the same period of 1927. Second quarter net profit was $401,722, against $233,193 in the second quarter last year. The regular semiannual dividend of 50 cents a share on the common was declared payable September 15 to holders of record September 1.

Sales of Interstate Department Stores for seven months this year moved up to $10,518,612 from $8,985,268 in the corresponding 1927 period.

Profit of the Foundation Co. for the half year dropped to $38,141 after charges, but before taxes, from $103,214 in the first half of 1927.

Net income of American Ice Co. for the first half of 1928 before depreciation and taxes, was $1,607,582, a gain of more than 26 per cent over the first half of 1927. Sales were $8,594,793 against $8,246,269. Cash and short terms loans amounted to $2,376,870.

Net earnings of $5,648,028 for the first half of 1928 are reported by Tide Water Associated Oil Co., equivalent after preferred dividends, to 72 cents a share on the common stock. These earnings were more than $2,500,000 greater than in the corresponding 1927 period. Earnings of subsidiary companies were Associated Oil, $3,489,070 against $1,262,553 a year ago; Tide Water Oil $3,390,460 against $2,638,456 and Tidal Osage Oil $343,301 before taxes, against $2,732,911. Cash and marketable securities of the parent company were $23,491,822 on June 30, against current liabilities of $16,106,599.

Gotham Silk Hosiery Co. earned $2.80 a share on the common stock, after preferred dividends in the first half of 1928, against $3.42 a share a year ago. Net profit declined to $1,388,977 from $1,663,888. On June 30 the company had $1,000,000 more cash than a year ago.

Despite a drop in the indicated yield of cotton per acre and "widespread" infestation of boll weevils, the Department of Agriculture estimated yesterday that the crop would reach 14,291,000 bales, 1,336,000 more than the final figures for last year's harvest.

Noting that indices of boll weevil presence were for a lesser number than last year, the crop reporting board observed that the danger of weevil damage was "fully as great" because of data showing the crop to be over a week later than last year.

$500,000 THEFT IS LAID TO BANCITALY EMPLOYE

Secretary, Held in Canada, Said to Have Used Funds for Stock Speculating.

FULL RECORDS IN DESK

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Cornelius Callahan, a 28-year-old assistant secretary of Bancitaly Corporation, was under arrest tonight in Montreal, accused of the theft of nearly $500,000 for stock market speculation. He was indicted today by a New York grand jury, charged specifically with the theft of $21,600 from the corporation. Bank officials said, however, the loss would total $496,665.

Callahan, who is unmarried and lives with his mother in Queens Borough, was on a vacation with three friends in Montreal when the loss was discovered. He had been a trusted employe of the bank for six years.

Callahan had recently filled the post of transfer clerk, empowered to accept customers' orders for stocks and to issue certificates. He used this position between April 21 and May 8, officials said, to convert nearly $500,000 to his own use.

According to the district attorney's office, Callahan took the checks to the Bowery and East River Bank, controlled by Bancitaly, and had them converted into cashier's checks which it is charged Callahan deposited to his own account.

In his desk, officials said, they found a list of every transaction in which he had used the bank's money. His private records showed, they said, he had bought large blocks of stock through Wall street brokerage houses. The stock has not been traced, but Leo Belden, vice president of the corporation, said the loss was covered by blanket insurance policies.

Executives took Callahan's records to mean that he intended to repay the corporation if his stock ventures were successful. Montreal police said Callahan would waive extradition and be returned to New York tonight.

Curb Review

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Credit tension caused a wave of selling on the curb market today which carried the general list downward, although several stocks resisted the trend and made good gains.

Warner Brothers Pictures dropped to 72 on profit taking, 7 points below its high record for all time reached yesterday. Universal Pictures responded to the upward trend of motion-picture shares on the "big board."

Automotive shares were firmer. Auburn rallied 4 points, then reacted, closing with a fractional net loss. Checker Cab, Durant and Marmon all showed moderate improvement. Deere & Co., Consolidated Dairy Products, United Biscuit, Brill Corporation and A. O. Smith advanced from 2 to 5 points, the last two touching new highs. Columbia Graphophone closed unchanged after a heavy turnover.

Aluminum Co. and Newberry Co. with losses of 7 and 15 points were outstanding weak spots, while Caterpillar Tractor, Palmolive Peet, Safe T Stat, Sparks Withington and Adolph Gobel lost 2 and 3 points. Bancitaly receded a point. National Rubber Machinery and Zonite encountered profit taking. Spanish and General, which had a sharp setback yesterday, rallied somewhat.

Mines as a group turned reactionary, although Consolidated Copper held steady. Noranda was carried down nearly 3 points by heavy selling. Oils declined on increased crude production, Standard of Indiana, Humble, Gulf and Vacuum dropping a point and more. Standard of Nebraska continued strong as result of an extra dividend. Nebraska Utilities were generally weak, although American Power & Light gained 3 points.

New Boundary Note Sent to Honduras

The Honduran government was asked to reconsider its recent decision not to accept the proposal made by Secretary of State Kellogg for a settlement of the boundary dispute between Honduras and Guatemala, in a note delivered yesterday to the minister of foreign affairs of Honduras by George T. Summerlin, American Minister at Tegucigalpa.

Secretary Kellogg, in yesterday's dispatch, expressed the "deep disappointment" of the American Government at the decision of the Honduran government not to submit the long-standing boundary controversy to arbitration by the International Central American Tribunal, as he had suggested. The American Government, Secretary Kellogg stated, "feels constrained to comment upon certain of the statements" in the note of refusal from Honduras, and "also feels that the suggestion which the Secretary of State made on June 5 is still open to acceptance."

GENE TUNNEY'S ENGAGEMENT TO MISS LAUDER ANNOUNCED

Gene Tunney, of New York. No date has been set for the wedding, which will likely take place in New York in the late autumn or winter."

The telegram announcing the engagement said Miss Mary Josephine Lauder is the daughter of Mrs. George Lauder, jr., and the late George Lauder, jr., of Pittsburgh and Greenwich. She is the granddaughter of the late George Lauder, of Pittsburgh, whose wife was Miss Anna Roamine Varick, of New York, on her maternal side.

Miss Lauder is the granddaughter of Mr. George Rowland, of Greenwich, whose wife was Miss Maria Townsend Durfee, of Buffalo. Miss Lauder was graduated in 1926 from Lenox school, New York, and has taken a postgraduate course for the last two years at Finch school, New York, and Versailles, France.

Tunney is the son of Mrs. Mary Lydon Tunney and the late Joseph Tunney, both of whom were born in Ireland.

Girl in Social Register.

By his engagement to Miss Lauder, the former shipping clerk, who fought his way to world fame in the boxing arena, becomes allied with a family in the forefront of American society and wealth.

Both his future mother-in-law and his bride-to-be are listed in the social register. Miss Lauder's father, a yachtsman of note, died several years ago. He inherited the fortune of his father, George Lauder, a kinsman of Andrew Carnegie and one of the founders of the steel company that laid the foundation of the Carnegie wealth.

Miss Lauder, whose full name is Mary Josephine Rowland Lauder (her mother was Katherine M. Rowland before her marriage), is 21 years old, nine years younger than the retired heavyweight champion. She is a graduate of the fashionable Finch School for Girls and is a member of the Junior Leagues of both New York City and Greenwich.

It was not generally known at just what point in Tunney's climb from obscurity up the ladder of fistic fame he first met the society girl. Some reports had it that they had been secretly engaged for a year prior to the formal announcement today, but whatever the facts are it was believed that their friendship dated back at least to the time of Tunney's last fight with Jack Dempsey.

Mentioned Greenwich Over Radio.

After that fight Tunney, as the victor, was called to the microphone to speak a few words to the radio audience. He closed his remarks by sending greetings to "everybody and especially to my friends in Greenwich, Conn." Many of those who had heard him believed the champion had meant to say Greenwich Village, the district in Manhattan where he was reared. It was not until some time later that it was learned the champion made frequent visits to Greenwich and that he finally purchased a home there.

Miss Lauder is an Episcopalian and Tunney is a Catholic. Persons close to the Lauder family said that before the engagement was announced all complications which might arise from this difference in faith had been fully taken care of.

When a Catholic, either man or woman, wishes to marry a noncatholic a special dispensation must be obtained from the Catholic Church. This is usually forthcoming without any difficulty, but as a rule only on the agreement of both that any children there may be will be brought up in the Catholic faith.

Ends Rumors of European Marriage.

Tunney's engagement is the second romance affecting the principals in the last world championship boxing bout. Last week Tom Heeney was married. The romances of both fighters were featured by considerable mystery.

Rumors of Tunney's engagement began long before formal announcement and Heeney's marriage came almost as a complete surprise. Both men sought to conduct their affairs of the heart out of the limelight cast on them because of their fistic prowess.

The announcement of Mrs. Lauder set at rest rumors that the retired champion would be married during the European trip on which he is to set forth shortly. In Europe he is to meet Thornton Wilder, teacher and author, with whom he is to take a walking trip. Before the formal announcement rumor had it that he was planning to be married abroad at the conclusion of this walking tour.

It was noticed that in the formal announcement Mrs. Lauder used the name by which Tunney is known in the ring and among his friends, Gene, and not his real name, James Joseph Tunney.

New Trust Company Has Record Capital

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Wall street turned its attention from the unruly money market today long enough to study the announcement from Washington of the chartering of the new Commercial National Bank & Trust Co., of New York, with a record capital of $12,000,000.

The list of directors of the new institution includes Richard F. Hoyt, of Hayden, Stone & Co.; Robert Lehman, of Lehman Bros.; Andrew J. Miller, of Hallgarten & Co.; Samuel L. Fuller, of Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co.; William B. Scarborough, of Hitt, Farwell & Co., and other members of firms doing an investment and banking business. Names of officers of the bank were not disclosed.

FEW STOCKS WITHSTAND NEW ATTACKS BY BEARS

OIL SHARES FALL BACK

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Aug. 8.—Stiff money rates, further correction of the technical position, and weakness in General Motors, the excuse for which was a rumor that Pierre S. Du Pont would follow the example of John J. Raskob and resign as an active officer of the corporation, resulted in a quite general slump in the stock market today. Only a handful of stock finished in the plus column, while net losses extended to 8 points. General Motors dropped 5 points in a turnover of nearly 200,000 shares. The day's total transactions aproximated 2,100,000 shares.

The call money rate renewed at 6½ per cent, but advanced to 7 as the banks called more than $20,00,000. Time money was unchanged at 6 per cent for all maturities. The persistent reduction by banks of their balances on loans in the call market was regarded partly as a consequence of tail-end, month-end adjustments, but in some quarters belief prevailed that the banks were moving to correct the condition referred to in the last review of the Federal Reserve agent at New York.

Sentiment in the stock market was helped momentarily by the remarkable burst of strength in cotton following the appearance of a much more bullish than anticipated Government bureau report, but this was offset in the afternoon by the appearance of estimates indicating a large falling off in unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation would be revealed by the July statement to be issued at noon Friday. On the other hand the weekly steel reviews say that the first week of August brought sustained consumption and that the railroads now have turned buyers. Pig iron also is picking up and the activity in steel and iron is reflected in a firmer price situation.

Nevertheless, heavy selling of United States Steel common today bore all the earmarks of important liquidation, as if "insiders" were unloading. The stock closed with a net loss of 2¼ points. The independent steels held comparatively steady, with the exception of Republic, which was one of the few stocks to move against the general downward trend. It advanced to 62 for a net gain of 3½ points.

Interest in the oils, which recently had shown a tendency to broaden out, was dampened considerably by the showing of the weekly production figures revealing a substantial gain in daily crude output last week. American Republic, Atlantic Refining, Houston, Richfield, Marland and Standard of New Jersey fell back for net losses ranging from 1 to 5½ points.

Sensational displays were put on a few low-priced specialties which advanced smartly, but this development only rendered trade the more nervous. These vehicles of the bull crowd included Pathe Exchange common and A, which scored net gains of 1⅝ and 6⅞, respectively; Keith-Albee, up 2⅜ net; Standard Milling, 3⅜; Philip Jones, 3⅛, and the Booth Fishery stocks. Western Union and American Tobacco B also moved against the trend, scoring net advances of 4½ and 2¼, respectively.

On the down side many of the heaviest losers were stocks that have been the favorite bull vehicles during the last two weeks, including Case Threshing, 6 points; Motor Products, 6¼; Wright, 4½; Worthington Pump, 2; Shattuck, 4; Union Carbide, 4; Timken, 4¾; Johns-Manville, 3¾; International Nickel, 2½ Greene Cananea, 3⅜; General Cable A, 4; Eastman Kodak, 2½; Chrysler, 2; Dodge preferred certificates, 2⅜; Mack Trucks, 1¾; Packard, 1⅞; Allied Chemical, 3½; Radio, 1⅜; Warner Brothers, 3¼; American Can, 2; American Locomotive, 2½; Colorado Fuel, 2¼; Du Pont, 8, and Texas Corporation, 2.

Trading was light among the carrier stocks and losses as a rule were unimportant. Neither the favorable car loading report nor the six months' earnings statements for the rails as a whole appeared to appeal to the imagination of traders. Rail shares have failed to follow industrials in their up swing from the June break.

Spanish rates again featured foreign exchange dealings, pesetas swinging over a wide range and making a net gain of 16 points. After selling to $16.84, 20 points above yesterday's final quotation, cables had a quick drop to 16.74, but this was followed by a rally to 16.81, the closing level. Sterling was unchanged. French francs again were in heavy supply at 3.90¾, a new low record for the present parity. Dutch and German exchange were also offered at concessions, guilders losing 1½ points and Scandinavian rates eased ½ to 1 point. Japanese, under renewed pressure, dropped 8 points to 45.25. Canadian was strong, the discount being reduced to 3-32, or equal to 99.95 for the dollar.

SLIGHTLY FIRMER TONE FEATURES BOND TRADING

FOREIGN LIST IS STEADY

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The bond market again was dull and uninteresting today, traders apparently paying more heed to the advance of call money to 7 per cent, and the calling of upwards of $20,000,000 in loans by banks than to the large available supply of time money at 6 per cent.

Movement of funds into the interior, which broadly is regarded as any place outside New York City, was blamed for the firmness of call money, the flow being caused to some extent by need of funds for early crop movements.

Advances in industrials and first grade rails were largely responsible for a slightly firmer tone in the market. Steels were in demand, Wickwire Spencer Steel First 7s leading the advance with a gain of 4 points which left the issue at 33⅝, a new high for the year. The convertible 7s opened at 36, also a new high, but eased off on profit-taking, although closing fractionally higher. Other steel issues showed small gains.

Dodge Brothers 6s were under pressure and sugars, which had been recovering some of the ground lost in the recent slump, were inclined to heaviness. Indiana Limestone 6s made one of their periodic spurts, moving up 3½ points. Pathe Exchange 7s with warrants also were in demand, gaining 2 points. Oils generally improved.

Among the railroad liens to seek higher levels were New Haven convertible debenture 6s, which advanced nearly 2 points; Baltimore & Ohio Gold 4s; Katy First 4s, New York Central 4s and Reading 4½s. However, the St. Paul issues, Grand Trunk of Canada 6s, Frisco 4½s, Missouri Pacific 5s and a number of others sold off.

U. S. Government bonds were soft.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—A jump of approximately $5 to $8 a bale in cotton prices followed publication of the Government crop report today. December contracts, which had sold off to 19.00, or into new low ground for the movement, before the report, sold up to 20.33, compared with 19.23 at the close the previous day. This advance was checked by Southern selling and realizing, and later fluctuations were irregular, but after reacting to 19.65, December steadied up again, closing at 20.03. The general market closed steady at net advances of 78 to 83 points.

The market was nervous and irregular preceding the official report. The opening was steady at an advance of 7 to 14 points on relatively steady cables. Apprehensions that a gulf disturbance might possibly work up the South Atlantic Coast extending into the Eastern belt appeared to be responsible for some covering or a little local buying.

The comparatively small demand was soon supplied, and the market eased on a favorable impression of weather conditions otherwise, which seemed to promote pre-bureau liquidation by recent buyers. Active months sold 20 to 25 points net lower just before business was suspended to receive the Government report. October declining to 19.10 and January to 18.90.

The official figures placing the condition at 67.9 and the indicated crop at 14,291,000 bales was about 500,000 bales below the average of recent private reports, and evidently surprised the market. There was a rush of buying on the resumption of trading after the 20-minute interval, and the market almost immediately sold up to 20.75 for October and 20.05 for January on covering and some fresh buying, which appeared to come from abroad and from local and Wall street interest. The South was credited with selling freely on this advance, which attracted considerable realizing and there were quick reactions of 30 to 75 points, followed by irregular fluctuations, but steadiness marked the late trading.

The census report showing 87,888 bales ginned prior to August 1, attracted little comment as attention was monopolized by the crop figures and conjectures as to their probable effects on buyer of cotton and cotton goods.

Exports today, 15,087, making 61,510 so far this season. Port receipts, 3,570. United States port stocks, 534,349.

What's Behind Your Stock?

Eastman Kodak Co.

The Eastman Kodak Co., the world's foremost organization in the production and distribution of photographic cameras and related articles, has demonstrated its ability to show substantial earnings for the last two decades with only slight fluctuations in recent years. Its scope is so vast in its field that at various times it has been charged with restraint to trade. In 1926 it was compelled to dispose of certain properties of which the ownership was alleged to create a monopoly. Since 1921 it has been a holding company only. The management is progressive and has constantly introduced new features and developed new processes in the manufacture of its products. Recently two new subsidiaries were formed, one to manufacture a machine for protecting banks against check fraud and the other to develop a program of motion pictures to be used for instruction.

Net income shows large expansion. Net during the last decade has never been less than $14,000,000 in any year, net for 1927 being $20,142,161.

CAPITALIZATION.

Funded debt........... None
Preferred stock (6% cum.) $6,165,700
Common stock (no par) .2,057,560 shares

Current data: Under date of July 23, 1928, it was reported that a new individual color motion picture camera had been developed by the company. It was said that this would enable an individual to take colored motion pictures instead of the ordinary picture now taken with the Cine Kodak. Demonstration of the new camera was expected soon.

REPUTATION

By ANNE GARDNER

(Copyright, Register and Tribune Syndicate.)

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

DeLain Thomas, famous film director, has been shot. April Low, movie star known as Narya, thinks her brother Harry did it and Jerry Wellman, childhood friend of both, thinks April did it and shields her while abominating her for what he considers her evil duplicity. April learns for the first time from Val Valerie that Wellman himself may come under suspicion as the murderer and determines that if this happens she will confess to the murder.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Thomas' Housekeeper Identifies Jerry as "The Man With the Black Bag."

THE next time April saw Jerry was at a conference called by Jansen to decide what should be done about "Jezebel of the Ages." The movie magnate's first inspiration, that work would be halted as a tribute to the dead director, was displaced by another—that a two-million dollar tribute was a little high. So he summoned the studio chiefs, April and Jerry, to discuss how best to carry on.

The musician watched the star with a gloomy admiration as he saw how she sat unflinching through all the trying references, betraying only the amount of grief that might be expected from one who was a close friend of the murdered man. If she felt any compunctions, she certainly did not show them. Jezebel, the shameless.

At length the necessary changes were decided upon, and the picture was under way once more, an assistant director stepping up into DeLain Thomas' place.

"You will get a lot of help from Miss Narya," Jansen told him, "because she has been over the whole scenario with Thomas and knows what he had in mind."

"I shall be delighted to help," April said gently and sadly. Jerry hated her for seeming kind and pleasant, just as if she were a flesh-and-blood woman instead of a monster under a beautiful exterior.

So the work went on, and April was busy once more, and Jerry, too. They met occasionally at the studio, but always avoided speaking. Once Jerry overhead Harry explaining to a little group that he had dreamed of Thomas' murder the very night it happened, and he saw the tense, anxious look on April's face. Jerry imagined that April would see to it this story was not told again. Nor was it.

Not daring to return to Jansen's, Jerry took rooms at Milton Fawcett's hotel and tried to continue his work there. But the lovely, perfidious face of April kept interfering. And so he sought Fawcett's company as much as he could.

The reporter, who was covering the story for his own paper, was able to give him almost hourly bulletins of the progress of the investigation. The police were still searching methodically for the one woman, out of all the women with whom Thomas had diverted himself, that had occupied the dainty bedroom that night and then shot her host.

Only a day or two after the murder, Fawcett brought the news that Harry Long had been questioned, as the police had learned that he had left a party with Thomas the night of the tragedy. Jerry felt his mouth go dry though he imagined that April had not told her brother anything about the real events of the night.

"What did they learn?"

"Not much, as far as I can gather. Young Long says he was a little under the weather from the liquor. He remembers distinctly, however, that Thomas took him by the arm and told him it was time he was getting home, that his sister would be expecting him. Did you know that Narya, the bronze girl, is his sister?" Jerry nodded. "Then Thomas called a taxi, which Long says happened to be passing, put him in it, gave his sister's address to the driver and sent Long on his way. Long says he didn't notice which way Thomas turned after that, whether he went back to the party or went somewhere else. But the other guests at the party all swear Thomas didn't come back there. Probably he went on home.

"About all Long's testimony established is the fact that Thomas didn't leave the party in the company of the girl who passed the night with him.

"Of course they are checking Long's story—trying to find the taxi driver, and so on. Haven't got hold of the fellow yet."

"They don't suspect Long?"

"Oh no, seeing a woman did the shooting. Their check is merely a matter of routine." Fawcett chewed his cigarette meditatively for a minute. "The chief has me guessing just a little. He has been Lord Chesterfield himself in his treatment of me, but sometimes I catch him looking at me a little strangely. I don't believe he's satisfied yet about this." Fawcett took from a drawer in the desk the cigarette case he had found at the scene of the murder and turned it over with his long, tobacco-yellowed fingers.

"This seems to have been the only clew, this and the cigarette stub, to the identity of the particular lady at Thomas' that night."

"Have you made any progress yourself with those clews?" Jerry tried to show only the interest that might be expected.

"I've been rather waiting to see which way the police are going to jump," Fawcett answered. "I've almost made up my mind to hold this back unless they start to put the shooting on the wrong girl."

"You said you thought you had an idea."

"I would be willing to wager that I could get a confession from the owner of this case within the next five hours," Fawcett said. "But the more I think about it, the more I hate to do it. If it's the girl I think it is, she had one pretty rotten deal that I know of. If she did take a hot shot at Thomas, it would be evening a pretty old score, I imagine.

"And I can afford to wait, as long as the police don't get on your trail or that of a girl I know is innocent."

Milt, too, was protecting the bronze girl, Jerry reflected bitterly, for his last statement pointed unmistakably to her. She had had a rotten deal in the Thurston case, or Farwcett imagined she had. And now he, like Jerry, was shielding her from the second frightful mess in which she had involved herself. Jerry was miserable with hating. Almost he wished that the turn would come which would justify his confessing the murder. Let her work be complete.

He went to the piano and took from it the sheets of penciled notes that bore the Jezebel strain, tore them across and then again across.

This mood, he discovered, was not a happy one in which to compose music for the picture of which April was the star. The time had come when he must do something with the Jezebel motif, the strain which would link the various roles April was to portray. He had put it off as long as he could. Now the thing must be done.

He scribbled lines of notes on music paper, crumpled them up and threw them away. He tried over strains on his piano and always quit in disgust.

Jezebel who seemed so fair and was yet so polluted, who killed her lovers, and cared nothing when they died. Let the motiff be sensuous, first of all. And beneath the soft sensuousness, a sinister undertone, which would gradually swell until the strain would end in charnel discord. He worked all afternoon, and the thing began to take shape.

Fawcett came in for dinner, and Jerry played it for him. "Jehosophat, Jerry," the reporter exclaimed, "that's a regular ghoul's melody. But it's a tremendous thing."

It was. Jerry knew that this strain would be acclaimed one of the most powerful in the history of music. There had been many greater composers than he. But where was one who had had his opportunity to plumb the vile morass that was the soul of a faithless woman?

After Fawcett had left Jerry fell to work again with a morbid enthusiasm. The thing was going to be great, immense. As, toward midnight, he played it again, softly, in recognition of the rights of the sleeping guests, he shivered involuntarily. With such a tune a magician might invoke the powers of darkness!

He sat a while at the piano, to taste the sardonic pleasure of creation. And then he fell to thinking of April.

The month of April in the Arkansas hills, with the smell of growing things permeating the rain-washed countryside. The hills purple with violets as big as the pansies of other places. The black fields, etched with rows of green, running up to rocky, tree-crowned hill tops. The weather-beaten farmhouses, the people who were simple and honest and good.

He thought of April Low. His first memories of her—a little brown dumpling of a girl, with great grave eyes. How she had adored her big brother and Jerry, whom she regarded her especial "property."

Then a few years older, still brown, but slender and lithe, running as easily and gracefully as a race horse runs. The good little sport she had been, never refusing a dare, never stooping to lie to get herself out of punishment, never deigning to explain when it was Harry's punishment she was taking. There had been truth in her eyes, then. He knew it.

Mary Low, mothering an orphan boy as if he had been her own. Sharing freely with him the riches that lay about her simple hearth. The best woman in the world, he firmly believed.

Could a woman like that have mothered a Jezebel? It wasn't thinkable. Jerry went over to the window and sat there, trying to figure out the puzzle. The air cooled him. And suddenly he felt that he saw everything clearly. What had happened at DeLain Thomas' he could not begin to guess, but that no longer mattered. He had come to see that the evidence of his own senses was less true than the truth of April's eyes.

She was shielding some one. Harry? But what difference did it make? She was no more a murderess than she was the mad, bad woman Morris Golden had painted for the world.

Then the memory of the bedroom as he had stepped into it that morning arose suddenly, bringing a twinge of pain, but he faced that down. If her presence there in the night meant what it had seemed to mean, then she had been there because she loved DeLain Thomas.

He began to fit the picture together. Perhaps she was there innocently enough. The conventions of the outside world were nothing to Hollywood. But say that she had been there because she loved Thomas. Some one had broken in and killed the man she loved, doubtless before her very eyes. Yet the murderer was so dear to her that she was keeping silence, pretending she did not know, and letting even Jerry think that she herself was the criminal. Jerry felt that she would keep that silence, no matter what it cost. He understood now the strain she had been under, the hideous task of hiding the bitterness of her grief for her dead lover, and of hiding the guilt of the person who had killed him.

Poor April, dear April. A sudden ache possessed him to take her tenderly in his arms and hold her so forever, never letting her be hurt again. He groaned as he thought how he added to her hurt by doubting her, how bunglingly he had served her cause. He would atone for that, and she would forgive, for April was too great a woman not to accept his penitence.

He went to the piano and took from it the sheets of penciled notes that bore the Jezebel strain, tore them across and then again across. It was great music. But never would he play it or hear it played without feeling that it was an outrage against April.

Then he went to work again.

Next morning Milton Fawcett, writing in his room, was interrupted by the jangle of the phone. It was Roberts, the reporter, to whom Milton had tipped off the DeLain Thomas murder, thereby giving the Los Angeles man a tremendous scoop and winning his undying gratitude.

"I thought you would like to know," Roberts said softly, evidently speaking in a low tone and with his mouth against the transmitter, "that the police have identified the man with the black bag who met Thomas' housekeeper the morning Thomas was murdered."

Fawcett felt suddenly weak.

"And who is it?

"Gerald Wellman, the composer."

"But that's utter nonsense!"

"The housekeeper recognized a picture of him and they arranged so that she saw him at the studio yesterday and clinched the identification.

"That's all poppycock," Fawcett spoke rapidly, "but let it go for the minute. What do they propose to do about it?"

"Arrest him in connection with the murder. Accessory, I suppose."

Fawcett managed an astonished exclamation. "For heaven's sake, Roberts, if you have any influence with the chief, don't let him make a fool of himself that way. Wellman was with me all the night of the murder, and I'll swear it on a million Bibles."

Roberts was silent a moment, then spoke gently.

"I'm sorry, Fawcett, but if I were you I wouldn't try to pull that. The chief expected you might and checked up on you. He knows where you were every minute that night and can prove that you didn't see Wellman once. Now for God's sake don't let on that I tipped you off!"

"Of course, Roberts, I'm a thousand times obliged."

Fawcett hung up the phone and went into Wellman's bedroom, which connected with his to form a suite. The composer was asleep. Fawcett hesitated briefly, then tip-toed out and shut the door behind him softly.

Late that afternoon Jerry awoke, greatly refreshed, from his night of labor and his day of sleep. His glance went first to the sheets of manuscript on the piano. He sprang out of bed, intending to dress quickly and take them to April. The telephone rang.

It was Fawcett.

"I was coming to break the news about this to you," he said apologetically, "but I find I can't get away. Have you seen the late afternoon papers?"

"No. Just woke up. Why?"

"Well, old fellow, it happened. They got on to you. I got the word this morning while you were sleeping, but I didn't bother you. Then I got the confession from the girl. I let Roberts in on it, too, and it's in the local final editions. Of course it lets you out. And the papers are suppressing all reference to you."

Jerry left the telephone and went to the window, but the scene outside was a blur. April had confessed to a crime she had not committed, and once more was to be a prey for the scandal mongers.

He would see what she had said so that he could frame his own confession more convincingly. He called the clerk and asked him to send up a paper.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, M. D.

The Parent Counselor.

Dr. Dean will answer all signed letters pertaining to parents' problems with their boys and girls. Writers' names are never printed. Only questions of general interest answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Arthur Dean, in care of this paper.

"DEAR DR. DEAN: What shall I do about reading to my two boys of nine and eleven? I can't bear to have them hear stories containing any bloodshed. I try to pick out wholesome stories that will teach them something, but so often they will say, 'Aw, gee! ma, there aren't any fights in this one. Read us a story with some fights.' Then the other day, Sidney, the elder, came home from a friend's, wildly excited and exclaimed, 'Golly, ma, Jack's father was reading us a dandy book called Treasure Island, all about ships and pirates and gold. Gee! it was swell!'

"But, Dr. Dean, I hate to read them even such an illustrious classic as Treasure Island, or any book which has so much bloodshed, fighting and killing in it. I don't want the young minds of my boys impressed with all that cruelty and suffering. What do you advise? A SOLICITOUS MOTHER."

I appreciate your feelings, my dear madam, and realize why you take that attitude, but I wonder if your worry isn't somewhat unnecessary. It is a peculiar but an acknowledged fact in child psychology that this gore and bloodshed which distresses you so much seldom leaves any impression on the youngsters. Their minds haven't developed to the point where they comprehend it and it rolls off like the proverbial water on the illustrious duck. They delight in the excitement of the fighting and that's as far as they go.

Take such a classic example as this: "Deadshot Dick whipped out his trusty Colt and three more Redskins bit the dust." Now to the youngster of ten or eleven, that's purely a matter of fact statement. The three redskins merely "bit the dust," nothing more. They are out of the story and that's that. Their dispatch in no way signifies any bloodshed, pain, suffering or even death. They were simply three undesirable characters whose removal was necessary for the safety of our hero, Deadshot Dick. Had they merely vanished in thin air, it would have meant little less, though I'm afraid such a mild statement would lack the thrill of the shooting.

Or take another one like this: "In one last desperate effort, Sir Fothringham spurred his stead and, charging the scoundrel with level spear, ran him through." Here again, just an ordinary commonplace to the youngster with no mental image or horror. The scoundrel was merely "run through," that's all. Just a stereotyped phrase which put him out of the picture.

So it is with all such fighting in story books. The statements of violent death convey little or nothing horrible or distressing to the youngsters. They're entirely too anxious to know what's next in the story to dwell on the plight of the men who get "cut down," "run through," "swept off," or the like.

I once heard a college professor remark that he had been reading Norse Sagas to his children and he was amazed to observe how much bloodshed they could absorb with apparent impunity. Yet the point is that they probably didn't absorb it all and that's why they seemed to take so much.

I hardly think you need be so distressed over a little fighting in your reading selections. Naturally, I don't advocate lurid tales of horror, but if you want to read "Treasure Island" or "The Black Arrow" or "Ivanhoe" or Cooper or some of the other glamorous and classics, and your children listen eagerly, I shouldn't worry about the incidental fighting. It's a hundred to one that the things which distress you will be entirely missed by the youngsters.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

Times Have Changed.

Should a mother, out of common civility, ask permission before reading her daughter's letters?

PAL MOTHER.

Answer—I rather like that idea. I think it is a mighty decent thing for a mother to do. Things seem to be different these days, don't they, when we ask permission of our children for anything? Formerly it was the other way around.

Selling to Learn to Buy.

I am interested in representing a concern as a buyer, handling a line of children's wear from infant to 6 years of age. I met several buyers and they discourage me. My heart is in this type of work. What shall I do as a starter for the work I love?

MISS DETERMINED.

Answer—If you listen to people already engaged in a line of work which you wish to enter and follow their advice, you will probably never choose any job you inquired about.

The best start towards being a buyer is to get behind a counter and sell.

Swallows.

Think I no tailor could design
A suit for me that's half so fine.

My fitter boasts about his skill,

And yet those swallows on a wire
Display a most correct attire.

Who told the swallow what to wear
Who shaped that coat and vest?
Who set them winging through the air
Always so trimly dressed?

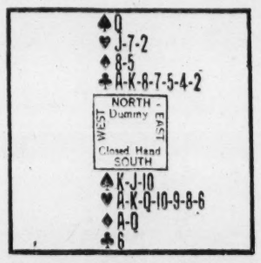

Think you that by a mortal mind
A thing so perfect was designed?

If God had left it unto man
To dress the swallows there
Try to image, if you can,
The suits they'd have to wear.
At Pointe Aux Barques the swallows nest
In cliffs above the lake,
Like rows of men for evening dressed—
A handsome sight they make.
Contrast the raiment that's divine,
With al the garbs which men design!

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

OUR Auction Bridge problem for today is: With a Heart contract, a Declarer holds the following cards:

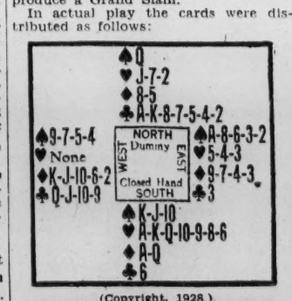

The Queen of Clubs is West's original lead, the Tray of Clubs is played by East, Declarer takes the trick in the Dummy with the King; the question is, what cards should Declarer play to the second trick?

PLAY OF DECLARER.

Declarer can be sure that he will not lose a Heart, Club or Diamond trick. He easily can discard his Queen of Diamonds on a good Club in Dummy after he has exhausted the adverse trumps. A Small Slam is therefore assured; but with a seven-card Club suit in Dummy, a Grand Slam is also assured if tried for. Four Clubs having been played on the first trick and Dummy still having six, the adversaries have a total of three more. Even if the three adverse Clubs are all in one hand, it is perfectly simple to trump two of Dummy's Clubs and make up the remaining four, on which Closed Hand can discard his three Spades and the Queen of Diamonds. There is no difficulty about this because Dummy is in the lead and has two entries, viz., the Jack of Hearts and the Seven of Hearts. The adverse Clubs may be divided 2-1 or 3-0, and it would be very foolish to risk having the Ace of Clubs ruffed; consequently, to trick 2, Declarer should lead a small Club from Dummy, trumped in the Closed Hand with any trump except the six; then lead the Ace of trumps, playing the Deuce from Dummy; and follow with the Ten of trumps, taking in Dummy with the Jack. This may or may not exhaust the adverse trumps; but even if one more be left, it is a loser. To trick 5, a second lead of a small Club from Dummy, trumped in Closed Hand with any trump except the Six; followed by the lead of the Six of Trumps from Closed Hand, won by the Seven in Dummy; must exhaust the adverse trumps, establish Dummy's Clubs and produce a Grand Slam.

In actual play the cards were distributed as follows:

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

Awakening.

DEAR Miss McDonald: Please pardon this lengthy letter, but I wonder if you can help me. I'm in need of help and comfort so much. About a year ago I met a man, 36 years of age, who had married and was divorced by his wife. He had one son, whom the court awarded to the wife. He gave me a hard-luck story of how misunderstood he was and readily gained my sympathy.

At the same time he was on friendly terms with another girl years younger than he, like myself. He assured me, however, that she was not the type he could ever love. Our friendship grew into love, and I forgot family, friends and religion and promised to marry him.

I met the other girl and at once realized that she was not one I could like. She maintained an apartment, drank, smoked and, in general, was what I would call hard-boiled. About this time I heard various stories in regard to his character and manner of living and also with reference to his treatment of his wife.

That was the beginning of my heartbreak. The end of all came when I was told that he gave Ruth a ring for Christmas, too. I made up my mind I was through then. So we met and "had it out." He lied out of it at first and then he begged for forgiveness, but I couldn't forgive him. Then he became angry and insulted me outrageously. I became seriously ill and have been ill ever since.

While I was sick in bed, he came to my home and demanded the ring, which was given to him. He then went to the other girl, and her friends spoke lightly of me, giving her at the same time the ring and my Christmas gift to him. I was up and around two days when she came to see me. She said she cared nothing for him, only for gold-digging, and "kidded" me for not doing the same.

That was not in my make-up and, besides, I truly loved him. I see him on the street frequently, but pretend not to know him. I can neither forget nor forgive, and I feel that I should forgive and bear him no ill feeling. Do you think I am right? One of my close friends thinks that he acted that way out of spite and that he really cared and was not trifling. I am trying hard to lose my interest in him and one would think, after all that, that I could. But, oh, I am so hurt! What do you think I should do?

ELIZABETH.

What do I think you should do? Thank high heaven that you escaped! If some slimy, poisonous reptile came gliding out of its slime and barely missed you, would you regret your escape from the touch?

Go your way, head up! And let no passing weakness betray you into any renewal of an unworthy association. The man has no honor, no decency. He has absolutely nothing to recommend him. He is merely a cheap pursurer of women. You meant absolutely nothing to him, so act as if it had not been, the past year and all its needless humiliations. Consider it experience gained and profit by it.

Get out in the air. Annex a new man. Do things and be glad you are not splashed with mud.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE SCALP-MASSAGE.

GOOD circulation in the scalp is at the foundation of good hair. There are good tonics that stimulate and correct oiliness or dryness; but the best stimulant of all is the occasional and vigorous massage that should go with the application of the tonic.

In giving your scalp the luxury of a massage, remember that the massage consists of moving the scalp itself, not rubbing the surface of it. Go about it this way:

Place your thumbs at the sides of your head, just over the ears. Spread the fingers of both hands over the forward part of the scalp. Press firmly and evenly while you rotate the parts of the scalp under your fingers. Gradually move the hands backward until the crown and the back of your head have been massaged in the same way. Now press the fingers of the right hand on top of your head and with the fingers of the left hand massage all around the left side of the scalp, from the line where the hair begins up to the crown of your head. Change the position of the hands and massage the right side of the scalp in the same way. Finish the massage by manipulating the entire scalp again, using both hands at once. To be thorough, the massage should last about 15 minutes.

It should be remembered that there is such a thing as the too-frequent use of even the best of the stimulating hair tonics. Ordinarily, two or three times a week is enough for the application of tonic. When it is used, care should be taken that the entire scalp is covered. The best method is to separate the hair into small strands and apply the tonic along each part with a medicine dropper or small piece of absorbent cotton. A convenient time for the massage is when the scalp is being treated with the topic.

The importance of thorough and vigorous brushing as an aid to hair health can not be overstressed. It takes patience and muscle, but a vigorous brushing at least once a day pays dividends many times over.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

MAKING GOOD HEALTH FASHIONABLE

WHILE it is not a part of her major theme, health is given a fair degree of priminence in Mrs. Gilbreth's plan for rearing a family as she gives it in "Living with Our Children." She advocates training children in good health habits, and having them train themselves in order to obtain the advantages of good health rather than the use of prohibitions and inhibitions for the prevention of disease. She presents the idea of good health positively, stressing the opportunities and advantages available to those who are always at their best. The task is to make good health fashionable in the home as well as on the street corner.

Among the advantages she cites are: "To be good looking and have a good time. The whole family group should come to feel that not to sleep well, or to perform any other physical function satisfactorily is a sign of inadequacy and indicates that one needs tests to discover what is wrong. The condition of the skin, eeth, hair, and nails are all indications of adequacy or the lack of it which even young children can learn to observe. They are prone to be proud when up to par, and ashamed when they are below."

This natural trend can be coined into good health habits, good posture, and good physical development, and from these good health can be expected to flow. "The child who sees the athlete, the gymnast or the dancer will not only enjoy but will want to copy."

And then "getting down to cases," as Mr. Dempsey, but not Mr. Tunney, would say, Mrs. Gilbreth says: "The few minutes each day parents spend doing setting up exercises with the children are worth hours of preaching." Perhaps reading this may induce parents to devote a few minutes to setting up exercises participated in by grown-ups and their progeny. Other methods which she suggests are: Boxing and wrestling matches, and working around the home. She advises yearly tests with permanent records of height, weight, lung capacity, strength of grip, and strength in other muscle groups.

WHEN BLOOD PRESSURE IS ASSET.

Mary Mc. writes: My husband is worried over his mother's health. Her blood pressure is 120. She is 57 years old. He said he thought it too low. She has had much illness, but for the last two years has felt much better.

REPLY.

A blood pressure of 120 in a woman of 57 is an asset and not a liability.

SIGN OF MILD HAY FEVER.

F. C. writes: I have been bothered with a cold in my nose since the warm weather came. My cold consists of sneezing and a running nose. My office is surrounded with various bushes and grasses. When I leave the office I am not bothered, but just as soon as I come to the office, and all day, I am annoyed with this trouble. I am afraid I am contracting hay fever.

REPLY.

Your story indicates clearly that you have a very mild hay fever. It may never get worse. Could you have those bushes and weeds cut? It is probable that weeds is the cause of your trouble. It is rather late for grass hay fever, and much too late for the tree caused disease.

Modern Portias Pout At Segregated Tables

London, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—A group of London's attractive young Portias strongly objected when an attempt was made to segregate them from male lawyers at lunch time.

The question came up at a recent meeting of the Law Society. It was pointed out that 20 young women have just been added to the growing list of women practicing law. As a result many of them were obliged to eat their lunches at the same tables with men, a situation which the society solemnly discused.

The suggestion was made that tables decked with flowers should be marked "For Ladies Only," but the project was nipped in the bud by the ladies themselves.

MODISH MITZI

The Rivalry Is Keen

By Jay V. Jay

It is the Goofer's dance—at last. He's been waiting for this moment to tell Mitzi how charming she looks tonight. Mitzi really suspected as much when she saw the reflection in the mirror of her soft wood brown tulle frock with the lace bodice. But it is more satisfactory to be told so.

This view of Mitzi dancing with Dick gives you an idea of how a V neck can be bordered by a tulle collar and streamers tied at the point. The skirt which you can't see is very full, long in back and in tiers which hang unevenly. What was that Dick said? "Hot?" "Yes, but not on the verandah."

Mitzi required her sheer shawl not so much because of the cool night breezes but because it is extremely smart to wear sheer shawls of chiffon with lace borders. They come in tones matching the evening shades and flutter gracefully over taffeta, tulle or satin. While Dick found the shawl, the Goofer found Mitzi. Two may be company but when they happen to be rivals, they are certainly something quite different. Mitzi has just remembered that she left her chiffon handkerchief somewhere. Perhaps the Goofer will look for it?

Nats Hopeful Of Halting Mackmen

Team Won 8 of 18 in West, Failing to Hit in Pinch.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THE Nationals returned from the West yesterday and spent the day renewing acquaintanceship with their friends and families. Early this morning, they entrain for Philadelphia, where they open a three-game series this afternoon with Connie Mack's Elephants, who apparently are on a stampede

It is an odd fact that, despite the manner in which the revamped Philadelphia outfit has been pressing the Yankees in the past month or so, the Nationals' showing to date against the Mackmen has been just about as good as against any other entry in the league and they actually are looking forward to taking at least two of the three games there and the one scheduled here in the Georgia Avenue Stadium Sunday

Garland Braxton, who, although beaten, allowed the Indians but four hits his last time out, is due to perform on the mound for the Nationals while he likely will be opposed by the veteran spit-baller, John Picus Quinn.

These games against the Mackmen are attracting unusual interest among Washington fans; in fact, results of contests in which the Philadelphians figure these days are being watched throughout the baseball world, for the Athletics have suddenly come from nowhere and are right on the heels of the league-leading Yankees, to whom the pennant was generally conceded only a few short weeks ago when they were enjoying a lead in the "teens."

Today, the Huggmen's margin is but 4½ games and the chesty New Yorkers admit that they are worried—and with reason.

Manager Harris indicated last night that he was counting on Tom Zachary and Irving Hadley to do the flinging in the other two games to be played at Shibe Park, but if he looks up the dope he will see that Hadley is particularly effective against the Athletics here on Sundays and will hold him over Irving handed the Mackmen trimmings the last two Sabbaths they spent here and it evidently has now become a habit with him.

Third-baseman Ossie Bluege, who is having an exceptionally good season both afield and at bat, owes his improved stick work of the past month to a change in weapons at the tee. Previously, he had been using a long, thin bat, fashioned like a mammoth toothpick, but about a month ago he tried an Ed Kenna model, which is thicker and known as the "bottle type," and he has been batting well over the .300 mark ever since.

Mitchell and Considine Win; Reach National Quarterfinals

Former Western High Star Wins in 5 Sets; Pairs With Buchanan to Score in Doubles; Considine Easy Victor.

Special to The Washington Post.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 8.—Two of the eight tennis players surviving in the National Public Parks Tournament are Robert Considine and Dooley Mitchell, champion and runner-up, respectively, in the District of Columbia Municipal Court Tourney

Considine and Mitchell gained their way to the quarterfinals by winning third round matches today and now share favoritism with Teddy Drewes, of St Louis, the defending champion.

While Considine won his quarterfinals match easily, Mitchell was extended to the fullest to eliminate Milford J. Meyer, of Philadelphia, in a strenuous five-set match, 6—8, 6—0, 3—6, 6—2, 6—2. Mitchell, an unseeded player, displayed a remarkable net and placement game to defeat Meyer, seeded No. 6, after the latter had gained a commanding lead in the first three sets.

Mitchell rallied after losing the first set and swept through to victory by a love score in the second, varying his placements with short chops that baffled the Philadelphian. Lapsing in the third set, Mitchell allowed Meyer again to take the lead but again he rallied in clever fashion to win the next two sets and the match with comparative ease

Considine's victim was Harvey Terrell, of Birmingham, Ala., whom the Washingtonian eliminated in straight sets with the loss of only six games, 6—0, 6—3, 6—3. Considine is a seeded player.

The acid test for Mitchell is scheduled today when he meets Drewes, the defending champion, in the quarter finals. Considine is scheduled to oppose Jennings, the Chicago star.

An error in the posting of the doubles scores reported the defeat of Mitchell and William Buchanan, of Washington, in the doubles yesterday, although the Capital City Team defeated Earl Krickbaum and Albert Bingham, of Cleveland Heights, in straight sets, 11—9, 8—6, 6—4. Mitchell and Buchanan drew a bye today, but will play Bartel and Clough, of East Cleveland, tomorrow. The summaries:

SINGLES.

THIRD ROUND—Theodore Drewes (St. Louis), defeated Gus G. Amsterdam (Philadelphia), 6—2, 6—1, 3—6, 6—3.

Robert Considine (Washington, D. C.), defeated Harvey Terrel (Birmingham), Ala.), 6—0, 6—3, 6—3.

Dennison L. Mitchell (Washington, D. C.), defeated Milford J. Meyer, (Philadelphia), 6—8, 6—0, 3—6, 6—2, 6—2.

Wayne Fuller (Cleveland) defeated Charles Lejeck (Chicago), by default.

DOUBLES.

FIRST ROUND—Dooley Mitchell and William Buchanan (Washington), defeated Earl Krickbaum and Albert Bingham (Cleveland), 11—9, 8—6, 6—4.

Theodore Drewes and William Bascom (St. Louis), defeated C. A. Ault and Harvey Terrell (Birmingham, Ala.), 6—0, 6—1, 6—1; Leo and Edward Nowak (Buffalo), defeated Lester Uthoff and Leech Chilcot (Newburgh Heights), Ohio), 6—1, 6—4, 6—1.

Brooklyn, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The Pirates finished their second Eastern invasion here today by defeating the Robins, 4 to 3, to clean up the three-game series and run the Pittsburgh string to seven straights. All three Pirate victories here were by one-run margins.

Ray Kremer not only held Brooklyn to eight hits, but collected two of the twelve Pittsburgh safeties and a sacrifice fly, driving in two runs. Kremer was steady throughout and brilliant in the pinches. The home team used three pitchers. McWeeny, Elliott and Petty

Phils Beat Cubs, 4-3, For Series Clean-Up

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The Phillies made a clean sweep of the series from the Chicago Cubs by winning the final game this afternoon, 4 to 3. A rally in the eighth tied the score for the tail-enders and Lerian's sacrifice fly to Stephenson with the baess filled in the ninth decided the game.

Chuck Klein, the Phillies' new right fielder, hit a homer with one on in the first. Gabby Hartnett hit a home run for Chicago in the third inning.

Pennsylvania Rejects Loughran's Title Bid

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission today declined Tommy Loughran's request that he be recognized in Pennsylvania as the world heavyweight champion.

In reply to a letter from Joseph Smith, Loughran's manager, who wrote in behalf of the light-heavyweight title holder, the commission said it was not handing out any titles and that Loughran must win the heavyweight crown in the ring, if he wants it badly, just as he won the title he now holds.

HANDICAP SHOOT LISTED.

The Washington Gun Club will hold a 50-target handicap shoot Saturday at the Benning range. Handicaps of 16 18 and 20 yards, according to 1928 club averages, will be allowed. A trophy will go to the high gun on each yard mark.

ROLLINGS TO FORT WORTH.

Boston, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—"Red" Rollings, a Red Sox infielder, has been sent to the Fort Worth Club of the Texas League on option, it was announced today. He had been used mostly as a pinch-hitter.

BUCKEYE TO WED.

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Garland Buckeye, huge southpaw pitcher of the Toledo American Association Club, recently with Cleveland and the New York Giants, is to be married to Miss Mildred Schwab, of Milwaukee, after the Toledo-Columbus game tomorrow.

HONEY BOY FINNEGAN WINS.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Dick ("Honey Boy") Finnegan, Boston lightweight, won an easy ten-round decision over Johnny Jadick, of Philadelphia, at Braves Field tonight. Finnegan proved too fast for his opponent, carrying six of the rounds, while three were even.

Tilden Spurns Professional Net Play

"Big Bill" Has Praise for His Teammates and French.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—A silent, worn and weary-looking Bill Tilden returned today from the eventful Davis Cup campaign against the French which met with disheartening failure after he had been dropped from the team and then restored to it at the eleventh hour.

With Tilden on the Paris were his comrades of the Davis Cup Team—Frank Hunter, John Hennessey, George Lott and Junior Coen—and his friends, Samuel H Collom and Joseph W. Wear, both of his home town of Philadelphia and respectively president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association and chairman of the Davis Cup committee of that organization. It was Collom who reinstated Tilden on his own responsibility after the French had appealed to the United States Ambassador

There was no official greeting committee from the members of the U. S. L. T. A who caused an international furore a couple of weeks ago by finding what they believed to be evidence that Tilden had violated the tennis body's amateur player-writer rule and forthwith recommending to President Collom in France that Big Bill be removed from the team.

In fact, there were only three unofficial greeters from that group —Louis B. Dailey, vice president of the U. S. L. T. A.; Charles S. Garland, chairman of the Davis Cup selections committee, and Edward B. Moss, executive secretary. There was little if any warmth of feeling discernible when Tilden, the first man off the boat, was met by Dailey.

"I have absolutely nothing to say until I find out how things stand." Tilden declared, "except this one thing. I will have nothing whatever to do with professional tennis."

What Tilden will have to do with amateur tennis in the immediate future is more of a question. United States Law Tennis Association officials have made it plain that he is at liberty to play if he likes prior to the executive committee meeting arranged for August 24, at which time the charges against will be sifted.

At the same time it is understood that Tilden's course will be helped materially if he does not play while the charges are pending.

Tilden said he had not made up his mind whether he would do so He said definitely that he would not play in the current Southampton tournament which he won last year, "because it is too late for me to enter," but said he might possibly play in the Eastern tourney at Rye next week.

Big Bill had his usual high praise for the French players who retained the cup and also for the young members of his own team. He brought word that Rene Lacoste positively would not come over to defend his United States championship, adhering to a decision he announced at a time when it looked as though his countrymen would be disappointed b absence of Tilden from the challenge round.

Collom and Wear hurried home to Philadelphia, but there are to be several informal conferences of United States Lawn Tennis Association officials here, it is understood, before the hearing on Tilden.

Canzoneri to Fight Routis on Sept. 20

U. S. Olympic Team Fails in Saber Bouts

Amsterdam, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The United States failed to qualify for the saber team Olympic fencing semifinals in today's preliminaries. The Americans were beaten, 14 to 2, by Hungary, and 9 to 7 by Poland, and were tied with Britain, 8 to 8, although they had a shade the better on points. The Chilean team also was eliminated.

COACH McCORMICK RETAINED.

West Point, N. Y., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Harry E. "Moose" McCormick, former star of the New York Giants, who has been the Army baseball coach during the past three years, has been reengaged by the United States Military Academy authorities for the next two years.

YANK BOXERS ADVANCE IN OLYMPICS

4 Win to Enter Quarterfinal Round; Henderson Features.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—This was America's day in the Olympic boxing ring after the defeats of yesterday. All four of the United States entries who survived yesterday's preliminaries came through safely without a defeat.

John L. Daley, Stephen Halaiko, Harry Devine and Harry Henderson all qualified for the quarterfinals by today's victories, while Alex Kalechitz, American heavyweight, who drew a bye in the preliminaries, has not yet taken part in a bout.

Lieut. Henderson, middleweight representative of the United States Navy, fully lived up to his reputation by giving the best exhibition of any of the Americans. He took a three-round decision from Campuzano, of Spain, leading in every round. The American rocked the Spaniard with smashing drives to the head and had him on the ropes in the second round.

The other Americans won by smaller margins, but none the less decisively. Daley, Waltham, Mass., bantamweight, pulled out a decision over Sanchez, of Chile, with several fast rallies in the third round after the first two were even.

Halaiko, light-heavyweight from Auburn, N. Y., had a margin in all three rounds to get the decision over Majohrzycki, of Poland. Harry Devine, of Worcester, Mass., featherweight, turned in America's fourth victory of the day by defeating Montefiore, of Italy, on decision.

The Argentine team again made a fine showing with four victories and one defeat for the day. Argentina now has six men in the quarterfinals in various classes, while a seventh, the heavyweight Rodriguez, is in the second round.

"Nick F.," Famous Plunger, Dead; Often Rich or Poor After Day's Bets

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—One of the most sensational race track plungers of recent years, "The Mysterious Nick F," is dead, succumbing to an illness believed to have resulted from food poisoning.

Born Nicholas Forzly, few of those to whom he was a familiar figure at the tracks knew what the initial stood for. He was said to have bet thousands of dollars in one afternoon's play and as high as $20,000 on one race. Four years ago he was credited with having won $1,500,000 in the winter season at New Orleans only to lose it in the summer at the Northern tracks. Whether he died rich or poor could not be ascertained.

Forzly was born in Manchester, England, about 48 years ago, of Syrian parentage and had been a follower of the races for 25 years.

"Nick F." was probably the most "scientific" of all race track gamblers. He lived a laborious, ascetic life, often working all night over form charts and confidential reports from his agents to figure just how he was going to place his bets the next day. During times of affluence he would organize a staff of as many as 20 clockers who timed the performances of horses in races and workouts and reported their findings to him.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Daisy Forzly, to whom he had been married 20 years and who was his constant companion at the tracks. When luck was good "Nick F," loaded her with jewels. When it was bad she pawned them. They were often rich in the morning and poor at night, or the other way round.

Forzly did not smoke, drink or play cards. Other gamblers respected his judgment and honesty so implicitly that when broke he never had trouble making a loan with which to start his operations anew. After one of his crashes he is said to have borrowed $150,000 from race track acquaintances for a new start.

Purdy Hurt as Braves Twice Defeat Reds

Boston, Aug 8 (A.P.).—Boston increased Cincinnati's losing streak to eight in a row here today when the Braves took both ends of a double-header, winning the first game, 6 to 3, and the second, 12 to 1 Delaney and R Smith pitched admirably for Boston.

In the first game Everett Purdy crashed into the right field pavilion wall and became unconscious He was chasing a long drive off Sisler's bat. He did not regain consciousness for five minutes and was removed from the field where he was placed under observation for possible head injuries.

The hitting and fielding of Sisler featured both games.

DESJARDINES WINS DIVE FOR U. S.

Crabbe, Clapp, Ruddy Qualify, to Meet Borg in Finals.

By THOMAS T. TOPPING.
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

AMSTERDAM, Aug 8.—American springboard divers nearly swept the board clean today when Pete Desjardines won the championship with a score of 185.04 with Michael Galitzen scoring 174.06, second. Samaika, of Egypt, succeeded in displacing Harold Smith in the last two dives or the United States would have finished one-two-three. Samaika compiled a score of 172.46 to 168.96 for Smith.

The girl swimmers fared rather poorly in the breast semifinals. Agnes Geraghty and Jane Faunts being eliminated. Gertrude Hoffman is the only American girl left in the competition, and her hope in the finals is somewhat slim.

The American men swimmers came to the rescue of the weaker sex, Clarence Crabbe, Austin Clapp and Raymond Ruddy all qualifying for the finals of the 400-meter free style Here they will meet Arne Borg, of Sweden, and Charlton, of Australia, Crabb seemed to be the best bet in the decisive test but he is rated as an extreme outsider, for Borg seems to have the championship clinched.

The 100-meter backstroke championship, however, should go to either George Kojac or Walter Laufer, and the United States is regarded as certain winner of 15 Olympic points here with Paul Wyatt likely to help along the cause with some more.

Japan scored its first Olympic victory on the water when Tsuruta defeated Rademacher, of Germany, world's record holder in the 200-meter breast stroke competition. The United States was not represented in the semifinals of this event.

The United States water polo outfit has an outside chance to win third place. Malta was defeated, 10 to 0, today, but it must be said that for men born and reared on a sea-swept little island, the Maltese played very poor water polo. Germany sprang the surprise of the tournament by winning the championship from Hungary, 5 to 2, after two extra periods. Hungary was a 3-to-1 favorite.

MEN'S 200-METER BREAST STROKE FINAL—Won by Tsuruta (Japan); second, Rademacher (Germany); third, Ildefonso (Philippines); fourth, Sietas (Germany); fifth, Harling (Sweden); sixth, Spence (Canada). Time, 2:48 4-5.

WOMEN'S 200-METER BREAST STROKE, FIRST SEMIFINAL—Won by Miss Baron (Holland); second, Miss Muhe (Germany); third, Miss Jacobson (Denmark); fourth, Miss Agnes Geraghty (United States). Time, 3:15 2-5.

WOMEN'S 200-METER BREAST STROKE, SECOND SEMIFINAL—Won by Miss Schrader (Germany), second, Miss Habellus (Sweden); third, Miss Gertrude Hoffman (United States). Time, 3:11 1-5.

California U. Eight Beats Canada

Wins by Half Length in Stirring Duel; Myers Triumphs.

U. S. Single Sculler to Meet Australian for Title Tomorrow.

By FRANK H. KING
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

SLOTEN, Holland, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—In a series of desperate races, some of which were marked by thrilling finishes particularly hard on American spectators with weak hearts, three boatloads of United States oarsmen today forged into the final round of the Olympic rowing regatta. A fourth reached the semifinals in its class and a fifth was eliminated.

The three American entries which have only one more opponent to beat to win championships are the University of California eight, the only surviving U. S. outfit which is not a product of Philadelphia's "boathouse row," and the Penn Barge Club four, both of which had narrow escapes today, and Ken Myers, the single sculling representative.

Paul Costello and Charley McIlvaine reached the semifinals in double sculling while the only American defeat of the day in five starts put the pair without coxswain, comprising John Schmitt and Paul McDowell, out of the running.

California's eight shot across the finish a scant half length ahead of the Canadian Argonauts in a breathless climax to the most spectacular event of the day and will battle the English crew from the Thames Rowing Club for the title on Friday when all the finals will be rowed.

The Penn Barge Club Four, without coxswain, barely overhauled the speedy Italians from the Vittorino da Feltre Club of Placenza on the Po, the Americans winning in a terrific final spurt.

All of the Italians collapsed in their shell as they attempted to answer the challenge and the Americans swept ahead a hundred meters from the finish to win by a length.

Chief interest, of course, centers around the eight-oared and single sculling championships in both of which the Americans will be faced with the strongest of opposition.

The Yankee Eight today had a much harder time of it than many of the experts had expected the general opinion beforehand having been that the Californians would dispose of the Canadians by a couple of lengths. As it turned out they needed about all the power they had and Coxswain Don Blessing was forced to wave his towel twice, calling for the spurts which made the Huskies from the Golden Gate famous.

The stolid Dutch crowds had never seen such antics as were performed by the California cox, who whirled the long towel like a whip, driving his galley slaves on to greater exertion each time the Canadians regained an inch of the slim lead.

There was never more than a length between the prows as they tore down the placid canal. At the half-way point the Americans were just about that much to the good out at the finish the margin had been cut to a half length. The timers watches showed them just 1 4-5 seconds apart as they crossed the line The time was phenomenally fast, the Californians being clocked at 6 minutes 2 seconds, which is faster than the American eights made in 1920 and 1924 in winning Olympic championships and also the best yet made in this regatta

Here also there will be an Anglo-American final as the other survivor is the English four from Trinity college, Cambridge. Both this crew and the English eight had rowovers today having drawn semifinal round byes.

In comparison with these hard-fought races, McIlvaine and Costello won easily in their race with the pair from Switzerland, finishing with a margin of four lengths and having the situation well under control all the way.

Myers won about as he pleased from the Dutchman, Gunther, by two lengths. Bobby Pearce, of Australia, will be his final round opponent and will be the favorite. The defeat and elimination of McDowell and Schmitt was achieved by a couple of brawny Germans, Kurt Moeschter and Bruno Muller, who won by two lengths.

As the double sculling class is the only one in which the field is not narrowed down to the finals, tomorrow's only race will be in that division. Finalists in the other six classes will have a day's respite before the championship events of Friday. The American double scullers must row Australia tomorrow while Canada, the other contender, drew a bye.

There are seven divisions in all and the United States at this stage has a chance for championships in four of them, the only Yankee crews which have been eliminated being the four with coxswain and pairs with and without coxswain.

The dramatic collapse of the Italians at the finish of the four-oared crew without coxswain race was not the only thrill of the event. With no coxswain to steer, the shells wandered out of their courses and swept dangerously close together, so that a collision seemed unavoidable, although failing to materialize.

Bob Pearce, the Australian sculling crack who stands between Myers and the single sculling title, looked particularly impressive today as he beat the English star, Collet, with ease. He was hardly winded at the finish. He paddled to Collett's shell and shook hands, then rowed to the judges' stand to get his time, which was 7 minutes 4-5 second, the best sculling time registered thus far on the Sloten course.

Myers' time in beating Gunther was 7:14 1-5, but a comparison of the times of the American and Australian at the 1,000-meter mark, up to which both probably put in their best licks, shows Myers only 2 1-5 seconds slower.

SUN EDWIN OUTRUNS HANDICAP FIELD AT SARATOGA

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The Arden Farm's Sun Edwin, which has disappointed so many times, finally found a track that was exactly to his liking and made a show of his field in winning the Saranac Handicap, 1 mile, here today. For his little jaunt over the 8 furlongs he earned $8,450 for his owner. Sun Fire was second, with Bobashela third. Finite was fourth and last. Sun Edwin was quoted at 6 to 5. Reigh Count was scratched.

Finite made the pace for half a mile, then Sun Edwin rushed into the lead. He increased his advantage right up to the finish, winning by five lengths. Sun Fire, which trailed the field to the stretch, came fast and was an easy second over Bobashela.

Finite was four lengths back. The time was 1:41 3-5.

Hawthorne Race Track, Ill., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Stuyvesant Peabody's Flat Iron captured the Republic Handicap at 1 1-16 miles, by a neck from Chicago, the heavily played favorite, today at Hawthorne. Hydromel was a length behind in third place.

Under urging by Jockey Chiavetta, Flat Iron got the close decision after a stirring drive down the stretch. Earl Pool, on Chicago, had the rail but was unable to withstand the challenge of Flat Iron. The race was worth $2,000 and was run in 1:45. Flat Iron paid $10.18.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER

LADY FAD. Here is a speedy miss on which a gob of commissions were planted overnight in San Francisco. Now, unless you are solid ivory from the shoulders up, you will have the old two megs riding right smack bang on the old beezer. She goes in the opening dash at Hawthorne and all sails are set. Ye'wekkum. CLASSY was given a weird ride by Ambrose last time, for which the lad was "questioned." Today they have a "bug" up. Is fast as a bullet. BLACK DARLING is next in order.

BLACK FLYER, which is named among the also eligibles, seems to have the second at his mercy—if he gets in. POLITA is right bang up and I understand the stable connections fancy her. JUDEA, oh boy, here comes the devil. I don't believe this will even be close. HELEN M. is good and will be better suited in the event the going turns muddy. These people are a heap sight better than green hands.

GOVERNOR PRATT is the XXX special from the lads. "Is as good as in" is the chatter appended. Personally I look for WONDERFUL to be outrun today.

Down at Saratoga, the chief of staff slips me CONTEMPLATE as the best bet of the meeting. On all recent form, it does seem that this gee stands out about seven points. Let your conscience be your guide. VOLANTE, FLEETING FIRE and HERADE for what is left.

SUNDINA is again dropped into a real snug spot and should tip-toe this field all the way. Wont be at a fancy price, but will win.

Pretty tight fit in the fourth, the Alabama Stakes, between NIXIE and BATEAU. Racing luck and riders should be carefully tabbed.

And now we come to the promised and advertised XXX special—LIEUTENANT RUSSELL. This one, which was shipped on from the West for an old fashioned melon cutting, is faster than chain lightning. I would like to go further into details, but I am in honor bound not to do it; suffice to say, or rather reiterate, I promised it to you. More anon.

Baltimore's Legion Nine Defeated, 6 to 1

Baltimore, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The Williamsport, Pa., American Legion Team defeated Huntington, W. Va., 9 to 5, today, in the second game of the region No. 10 elimination baseball tournament to pock a regional champion for the national tournament. Frey held Huntington to six hits, while Williamsport got eight timely singles to aid their victory.

The Wilmington, Del., Post Nine defeated the Maryland Guard Post Team, of Baltimore, in the third game of the series by a 6 to 1 score. Williamsport and Wilmington will meet in the final game tomorrow for the regional championship.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SHASTA PINE, $37.90, $15.74, $10.86; SERENADER, $7.02, $5.74; ATOI, $14.04.

SHASTA PINE, racing close up to stretch, closed gamely when called upon to outfinish SERENADER in a hard drive. SERENADER followed along in closest pursuit of pace from start, then moved into command in stretch, when COLONEL DRAGE tired, but could not withstand winner's challenge. ATOI raced well throughout. ETHEL SHERLOCK had no mishaps. SCOTLAND appeared to be affected by long delay at post with high weight up and never figured prominently after being off slowly. FLORIDA GOLD, fractious at post, unseated his rider several times then was away poorly. GENERAL FOREMAN was away poorly. PROTECTOR and SIXTY were left.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 4:12. Off at 4:13. Winner, G. H. Neal's ch. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRAZEN, $14.30, $7.74, $5.24; ROCKY CLIFF, $9.46, $6.02; HOPELESS, $3.52.

BRAZEN, rated off early pace, moved up stoutly rounding into stretch and, finishing gamely, overhauled leaders and drew away handily. He pulled up badly lame. ROCKY CLIFF, going in her best form, displayed good speed in pacemaking to stretch, where she tired in final drive. HOPELESS, outpaced early, finished well and had no mishaps. FIRTH OF TAY met with interference in stretch. MISS CHINIQUY closed a gap.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $2,000. The Republic Handicap. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 4:43. Off at 4:44. Winner, S. Peabody's ch. g. (5), by Friar Rock—Affection. Trained by R. M. McGarvery. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:13 1-5, 1:38 2-5, 1:45.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLAT IRON, $10.18, $3.58, $2.48; CHICAGO, $3.24, $2.16; HYDROMEL, $2.52.

FLAT IRON, rated along under close-up restraint, came to the outside entering stretch and, closing with good courage, outfinished CHICAGO in a hard drive. CHICAGO, hard ridden from start, moved into a brief lead in stretch after disposing of HYDROMEL and fought it out gamely in final drive. HYDROMEL moved into command under stout restraint after indulging JACK ALEXANDER in pacemaking for first half mile, but tired in stretch after racing with CHICAGO rounding the end turn. SIR HARRY closed some ground in stretch. JACK ALEXANDER tired badly after showing early speed.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start poor. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 5:11. Off at 5:12. Winner, J. Keller's br. g. (6), by The Finn—Romania. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:25, 0:49, 1:14 2-5, 1:40 1-5, 1:46 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FINLAND, $16.32, $8.58, $4.84; MARLBORO, $4.62, $3.66; PROFITEER, $5.88.

FINLAND, well ridden, moved into command going to first turn, then was eased back when MI COMPANERO attempted to outrun him in back stretch, only to come again and take lead rounding end turn and, finishing well, outgamed MARLBORO in a long hard drive. Latter made a game bid in final quarter, but was not good enough. PROFITEER closed stoutly through stretch. MALLY JANE met with interference. TRUE BOY and GOLDEN MAC were away poorly.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 5:42. Off at 5:46. Winner, R. Z. Jenkins' b. m. (5), by Short Grass—Ringling. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:25, 0:48 2-5, 1:14, 1:40, 1:53 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARY B, $4.48, $3.26, $3.16; CLOUD IDOLIZER, $9.04, $5.80; ROCK CANDY, $8.10.

MARY B, rated off early pace, moved up fast on outside when called upon and, overhauling CLOUD IDOLIZER, drew out as if much the best. CLOUD IDOLIZER moved into a good lead in back stretch and continued well until reaching stretch, where he tired. ROCK CANDY closed well through stretch. FINNSTER had no mishaps. MOROCCO tired. VACHELL was through early.

FILLY BRINGS $6,000 AT AUCTION

Special to The Washington Post.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 8. Forty-three young thoroughbreds, mostly the get of the stallions Bunting and Upset, were consigned tonight to the local sales paddocks of the Fasig-Tipton Co. Two thirds of the lot were sent into the ring by the Kentucky breeders, Carr & Piatt.

There were no sensational offerings at tonight's session, the top price being $6,000, which was paid for a chestnut filly by Sir Martin out of the imported Antoinette. This went to Mrs. William Zeigler, who conducts her racing establishment under the name of the Middleburg Stable.

The prices received for the Bunting yearlings were disappointing. The first of the get of Master Charlie, which was sold for $1,000 as a yearlings and later $35,525, went to John Zoeller for $4,300. The second brought but $750.

PROPERTY OF CARR AND PIATT.

SUN EDWIN OUTRUNS HANDICAP FIELD AT SARATOGA

Sunfire Trails By 5 Lengths In Feature

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The Arden Farm's Sun Edwin, which has disappointed so many times, finally found a track that was exactly to his liking and made a show of his field in winning the Saranac Handicap, 1 mile, here today. For his little jaunt over the 8 furlongs he earned $8,450 for his owner. Sun Fire was second, with Bobashela third. Finite was fourth and last. Sun Edwin was quoted at 6 to 5. Reigh Count was scratched.

Finite made the pace for half a mile, then Sun Edwin rushed into the lead. He increased his advantage right up to the finish, winning by five lengths. Sun Fire, which trailed the field to the stretch, came fast and was an easy second over Bobashela.

Finite was four lengths back. The time was 1:41 3-5.

Hawthorne Race Track, Ill., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Stuyvesant Peabody's Flat Iron captured the Republic Handicap at 1 1-16 miles, by a neck from Chicago, the heavily played favorite, today at Hawthorne. Hydromel was a length behind in third place.

Under urging by Jockey Chiavetta, Flat Iron got the close decision after a stirring drive down the stretch. Earl Pool, on Chicago, had the rail but was unable to withstand the challenge of Flat Iron. The race was worth $5,000 and was run in 1:45. Flat Iron paid $10.18.

COLLYER'S COMMENTS on the SPORT of KINGS

By BERT E. COLLYER.

LADY FAD. Here is a speedy miss on which a gob of commissions were planted overnight in San Francisco. Now, unless you are solid ivory from the shoulders up, you will have the old two megs riding right smack bang on the old beezer. She goes in the opening dash at Hawthorne and all sails are set. Ye'wekkum. CLASSY was given a weird ride by Ambrose last time, for which the lad was "questioned." Today they have a "bug" up. Is fast as a bullet. BLACK DARLING is next in order.

BLACK FLYER, which is named among the also eligibles, seems to have the second at his mercy—if he gets in. POLITA is right bang up and I understand the stable connections fancy her. JUDEA, oh boy, here comes the devil. I don't believe this will even be close. HELEN M. is good and will be better suited in the event the going turns muddy. These people are a heap sight better than green hands.

GOVERNOR PRATT is the XXX special from the lads. "Is as good as in" is the chatter appended. Personally I look for WONDERFUL to be outrun today.

Down at Saratoga, the chief of staff slips me CONTEMPLATE as the best bet of the meeting. On all recent form, it does seem that this gee stands out about seven points. Let your conscience be your guide. VOLANTE, FLEETING FIRE and HERADE for what is left.

SUNDINA is again dropped into a real snug spot and should tip-toe this field all the way. Wont be at a fancy price; but will win.

Pretty tight fit in the fourth, the Alabama Stakes, between NIXIE and BATEAU. Racing luck and riders should be carefully tabbed.

And now we come to the promised and advertised XXX special—LIEUTENANT RUSSELL. This one, which was shipped on from the West for an old fashioned melon cutting, is faster than chain lightning. I would like to go further into details, but I am in honor bound not to do it; suffice to say, or rather reiterate, I promised it to you. More anon.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FRANCES MILWARD, $26.22, $13.30, $6.12; LITTLE GYP, $5.62, $3.62; MERANO, $3.40.

FRANCES MILWARD, slow to find her stride, worked her way up gradually and, coming gamely in run through stretch, overhauled and easily outfinished LITTLE GYP in final drive. LITTLE GYP displayed good speed in pacemaking under light weight, but tired in stretch. MERANO, racing close up all the way, had no mishaps. JUDGE STAYLOR, away in a tangle, closed well in stretch. ROUNDUP tired after showing a flash of early speed.

THIRD RACE—Hawthorne course. Purse, $1,200. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start poor from stall gate. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 3:32. Off at 3:33. Winner, Alexander Pantages' ch. g. (4), by Solomon—Weymouth. Trained by W. B. Finnegan. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:47, 1:12 4-5, 1:15 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SHASTA PINE, $37.90, $15.74, $10.86; SERENADER, $7.02, $5.74; ATOI, $14.04.

SHASTA PINE, racing close up to stretch, closed gamely when called upon to outfinish SERENADER in a hard drive. SERENADER followed along in closest pursuit of pace from start, then moved into command in stretch, when COLONEL DRAGE tired, but could not withstand winner's challenge. ATOI raced well throughout. ETHEL SHERLOCK had no mishaps. SCOTLAND appeared to be affected by long delay at post with high weight up and never figured prominently after being off slowly. FLORIDA GOLD, fractious at post, unseated his rider several times then was away poorly. GENERAL FOREMAN was away poorly. PROTECTOR and SIXTY were left.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 4:12. Off at 4:13. Winner, G. H. Neal's ch. h. (5), by Whisk Broom II—Cirago. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:48 2-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:40 4-5, 1:54 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRAZEN, $14.30, $7.74, $5.24; ROCKY CLIFF, $9.46, $6.02; HOPELESS, $3.52.

BRAZEN, rated off early pace, moved up stoutly rounding into stretch and, finishing gamely, overhauled leaders and drew away handily. He pulled up badly lame. ROCKY CLIFF, going in her best form, displayed good speed in pacemaking to stretch, where she tired in final drive. HOPELESS, outpaced early, finished well and had no mishaps. FIRTH OF TAY met with interference in stretch. MISS CHINIQUY closed a gap.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $2,000. The Republic Handicap. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 4:43. Off at 4:44. Winner, S. Peabody's ch. g. (3), by Friar Rock—Affection. Trained by R. M. McGarvery. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:13 1-5, 1:38 2-5, 1:45.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLAT IRON, $10.18, $3.58, $2.48; CHICAGO, $3.24, $3.16; HYDROMEL, $3.52.

FLAT IRON, rated along under close-up restraint, came to the outside entering stretch and, closing with good courage, outfinished CHICAGO in a hard drive. CHICAGO, hard ridden from start, moved into a brief lead in stretch after disposing of HYDROMEL and fought it out gamely in final drive. HYDROMEL moved into command under stout restraint after indulging JACK ALEXANDER in pacemaking for first half mile, but tired in stretch after racing with CHICAGO rounding the end turn. SIR HARRY closed some ground in stretch. JACK ALEXANDER tired badly after showing early speed.

FILLY BRINGS $6,000 AT AUCTION

Special to The Washington Post.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 8. Forty-three young thoroughbreds, mostly the get of the stallions Bunting and Upset, were consigned tonight to the local sales paddocks of the Fasig-Tipton Co. Two thirds of the lot were sent into the ring by the Kentucky breeders, Carr & Piatt.

There were no sensational offerings at tonight's session, the top price being $6,000, which was paid for a chestnut filly by Sir Martin out of the imported Antoinette. This went to Mrs. William Ziegler, who conducts her racing establishment under the name of the Middleburg Stable.

The prices received for the Bunting yearlings were disappointing. The first of the get of Master Charlie, which was sold for $1,000 as a yearlings and later $35,525, went to John Zoeller for $4,300. The second brought but $750.

SHORE PROVIDES FEATURE IN D. C. TITLE NET EVENT

Junior Champ Eliminates Burwell

Tourney to End Saturday With Finals of Both Classes.

By CHARLES A. WATSON.

FRANK SHORE, JR., 18-year-old junior tennis champion, provided the day's sensation on the Edgemoor courts, where the District open tennis championships are in progress, by eliminating Bob Burwell, a veteran of the clay courts, in straight sets, 6—2, 6—4.

Shore played a masterful game with a remarkable change of pace and was Mercury himself in court coverage. He was driving viciously to the deep court, which brought him victory as his stubborn rival let up in the final stages of the last set.

Another large gallery braved the heat to witness the interesting singles matches which carried the winner into the quarter final round. Capt. R. C. Van Vliet, jr., scored a stunning victory over Maurice V. O'Neil, the Municipal Court star, 6—3, 6—2. Heady play again carried the Panama netman to victory, for he changed his style when he found O'Neil's sizzling shots were going past him and he went to the net and dominated the situation from there on.

Carter Baum defeated Larry Phillips in the closest contest of the day, 6—4, 7—5. With the games 5 to 1 against him in the second set, Phillips, by a dint of supertennis, brought the games 5-all. He started the eleventh game like a winner, scoring 40 points to his opponents love, but lost the set and match as Baum rallied and plastered the ball into the far corner of the court for needed points.

Thomas J. Mangan, jr. scored a victory over D. B. Judd when their match was resumed after having been called on account of rain Tuesday. Mangan was supreme today and won easily 6—3, 6—2.

The men's doubles, which are still in the preliminary rounds, produced some high-class tennis. Capt. J. H. Hills and Lieut. J. R. Pitman, of the Army Leach Cup Team, went down to defeat at the hands of Lieut. Morgan Watt and Lieut. Comdr. V. H. Godfrey, of the Navy Leach Cup Team, in a one-sided match 6—2, 6—3.

The outstanding teams after yesterday's play appear to be the Mangan-King combination, Fred Lass and Fred Doyle, Owen Howenstein and Joe Rutley and the Army doubles champions, Johnson and Van Vliet.

With play progressing rapidly, Paul G. Harding, chairman of the tournament committee, announced that the final in both the singles and doubles would be played Saturday afternoon.

tories in eighteen games, not counting the Harrismen's triumph in Philadelphia just before they started for the other sector.

This record was not a poor one, but a glance at the figure-story makes one wonder why the Washington Club did not fare even better, for the Nats outscored their collective opponents by fifteen runs, outhit them by four, and were charged with eleven less errors.

These figures indicate that the Harrismen scattered their shots entirely too much and evidently were unable to come through in the pinches, two of their losses being in 12-inning contests. Although losing the odd game in the series against the Browns, the Washington team was outscored and outhit by a margin of only 2. In the Detroit set, in which the odd game also went to the visitors, both teams totaled exactly the same number of hits and runs, while the Nats benefited by one more error than was charged to them.

In the other two series, which were divided, the Nats had quite an advantage except in the division of the runs per game. They obtained 4 more runs, 6 more hits and were charged with 5 less errors than the White Sox while they outscored Cleveland 24 to 11, outhit the Indians, 51 to 35, and underscored them 4 to 6.

Coaches Altrock and Schacht have been booked to clown at "Booster's Day" game at Springfield, Mass., on August 17. Life with this pair is just one stunt after another.

Although President Clark has been silent while owners of other teams have been announcing the purchase of minor league talent, he declares that this does not mean that he has been loafing on the job and that, within the next week or ten days he expects to be in a position to hand out several morsels of interesting news.

Joe Engel, Washington's "boy scout," returned yesterday from another ivory hunt, and he and Griffith were closeted for more than an hour discussing the ability of players recommended by Engel. In addition to these, the Nats' owner personally has scouted several recommended on Engel's last jaunt to the bushes. "I am in correspondence regarding the purchase of a number of players," he stated yesterday, "all of which look as if they may be of some use to us and expect to have several interesting announcements to make shortly."

DUX NINE READY.

VICS VS. RUSSELLS.

The Vic Sport Shop Nine will tackle the strong Russell Midgets Sunday on the Plaza diamond at 3 o'clock. Any club wishing a game with the Vics call Manager Vic Gauzza at Franklin 9866.

BLACK SOX PREPARE.

The Washington Black Sox will meet the Black Hornets, of Charlotte, N. C., Sunday in a double-header at Union League Park at 2:30 o'clock. The Sox will practice today in preparation for the fray.

FAME BEGAN WITH 51-0 VICTORY

5 Years Later, Angelo Chambris Is Pitching Hero of Pewees

SOME four or five years ago a little mite of a boy entered The Post's sports department, marched up to the editor's desk and announced that he wanted "to put sumpin' in the paper."

The sports editor, fumbling for a sheet of paper for the youngster, asked him if his team won.

"I'll say we won. I just pitched a no-hit game. The score was about 51 to 0, as near as we could figure," was the astonishing reply.

With the aid of several of his teammates, who had sauntered in the room behind him, the pitching hero, in letters an inch high, wrote his account of the game.

But the other boys had abused the privilege of "freedom of the press" that had long been the sandlotters, as far as putting items in the paper were concerned. A 50-to-0 no-hit victory seemed just a little too impossible, hence Post subscribers were not informed of the great pitching feat.

Angelo Chumbris, 12-year-old Columbia Heights boy, is not now pitching no-hit, no-run games every day, but he is beginning to make his fellow players, his opponents and all others who see him in action believe that he is a real ball player.

He can't prove that at 6 years old he let a rival team down with no hits, but he has a signed scorebook as evidence of striking out 21 players in a single game last month. Moreover, Angelo's penmanship has improved. In addition to being the star pitcher, one of the leading hitters and a capable substitute in any position that his bowlegs take him to, Angelo is the leading spirit and the official scorer of the Muddy Ruel Peewees, of Northwest—of Northwest, because a Northeast team has been infringing on the name of the team, which makes its headquarters at the Twin Oaks playground.

While the far-off objective of every member of the Muddy Ruels is a berth with a big league club, their near-future goal is the National American Legion championship.

"We hope that the Legion will be running the same series three years from now," said Angelo yesterday, speaking for his team. "And we hope the finals will be held in San Francisco, 'cause we want a long trip."

Despite the fact that he is the smallest player on his team and one of the youngest, Angelo has been widely sought by midget class teams. But he prefers to stand by his own gang which has been playing together now for three years.

To date the Muddy Ruels have won 19 games, all they have played, scored 251 runs to 20 for their opponents. The record book, kept by Angelo, shows his brother Cleon, better known as "Lefty," hitting at a .450 clip.

A list of the other players, which has an international tingle, follows: Edward Genger, Wilson Schienman, Albert Schienman, Ernest Marcellino, Morry Berman, Americo Pittiglio, Mike Chaconas, Mike Satori, Clayton Pittiglio, Harry Woodward, Alfred Wineberg and William Moff.

Teams beaten this season by the Ruels and the scores follow: Gansels 24-0, Griffiths 23-0, Montrose 16-4, Joe Judge 15-0 and 10-0, Monarchs 10-0, Sam Jones 9-2, Geslins 13-4, Washington 7-5, Ed Kennas 14-6, Braxton 15-1, Iowa 15-6, Ross 9-0, Senators 19-1, Park View 12-6, Wacos 15-1, Raymonds 20-1 and 7-5, Iowa 8-0.

Hunter, Diffenbaugh Play Armour Brothers

Local golfdom has taken unusual interest in the coming 36-hole professional golf match between Tommy Armour, last year's open champion and his brother, Alex Armour and J. Monro Hunter and his assistant, George Diffenbaugh, of Indian Spring.

The first 18 holes will be played on the course of the Congressional Country Club about August 23, with the final 18 holes scheduled for the Indian Spring course, Sunday, August 26. The contest should furnish some sparkling golf as Hunter and Diffenbaugh have been playing at the top of their game and are capable of giving the brothers from the River Road club a stiff argument.

LOCAL CHAMP WINS TENNIS FEATURE

By DOROTHY L. GREENE.

TWO city champions figured in the feature match of the District women's tennis championships yesterday at the Columbia Country Club, when Frances Krucoff, defender in the present tourney defeated Helen Rupp, Baltimore City champion, 6—3, 6—1.

Miss Krucoff was pressed harder than in any previous match and won her victory on placements. Both players were steady and Miss Krucoff's hard stroking was matched by Miss Rupp. Miss Krucoff will meet Elsie Jansen today for place in the semifinals.

Phoebe Moorhead, Josephine Dunham, Frances Krucoff, Elsie Jansen, Frances Walker, Mrs. Smith and Dorothy Kingsbury will play today for place in the semifinals. Matches were played in the consolation singles, but progress was slow in the doubles.

Miss Moorhead advanced, defeating Dorothy Cook, 6—3, 8—6; Miss Dunham won from Mrs. Ruth Martinez, 6—3, 7—5, and Miss Frazier eliminated Marjorie Woodin, 6—2, 6—3.

SINGLES.

Third round—Dorothy Kingsbury defeated Marie Didden, 6—1, 6—2; Corinne Frazier defeated Marjorie Woodin, 6—2, 6—3; Mrs. Smith defeated Miss Lewis, 6—3, 6—3; Elsie Jansen defeated Elizabeth Ethel, by default; Josephine Dunham defeated Mrs. Ruth Martinez, 6—3, 7—5.

DOUBLES.

Louise Omwake and Mrs. Martinez won from Miss Maccoun and Mrs. Prichard, 6—2, 6—6, default.

CONSOLATION SINGLES.

Mrs. Prichard defeated E. Garber, 6—2, 8—6; Miss Maccoun defeated Mary Duffy, 6—1, 6—0; Mrs. Ford defeated B. McMorris, 6—0, 6—1; Miss Bouve defeated Mrs. Ashburn, 6—4, 6—3; Miss Bonthron defeated Mrs. M. Haugen, 6—2, 6—3; Winifred Hull defeated Mrs. Ford, 2—6, 8—6, 6—3; Mary Hall defeated Mrs. Stambaugh, 6—0, 6—3.

Doubles—First round, M. Woodin and E. Garber vs. D. Kingsbury and E. Graham, 7:30 a. m.

Second round—M. DeSousa and M. Wells vs. winner of Kingsbury-Graham Woodin-Garber match, time to be decided; P. Moorhead and F. Walker vs. L. Omwake and Mrs R. Martinez, 5 p. m.; Mrs. Keplinger and G. Crist vs. J. Dunham and M. Ryan, 5 p. m.

Quarter finals—F. Krucoff and E. Jansen vs. Mrs. Thompson and R. Nevitt, 1 p. m.

Golf Links "Host" Is Title Of Bannagan at Columbia

Red-Headed Giant Is Called "19th Hole" Personified.

By CHARLES A. WATSON.

IF the 500-odd golfers of the Columbia Country Club were asked, who is the best golf course host in America (if there was such a title) they would answer unreservedly, D'Arcy Bannagan.

"Reds," as he is more familiarly known to the members and the hundreds of golfers who yearly visit the course—he has discarded the D'Arcy—is host, matchmaker, handicaper, referee and the one best reason golf is enjoyable golf at Columbia.

His good natured, generous manner and captivating smile have won for him hundreds of friends from the rank and file who play golf, for from his giant frame of 6 feet 3 inches, weighing in the neighborhood of 250 pounds, there radiates a happiness which touches all who jaunt over the hills of the course at Chevy Chase, Md. The boys about the club describe him as, "the nineteenth hole at the first tee."

No player, be he member or guest, ever went to the club wanting for a match and had to tee off alone. "Reds" doesn't believe in cliques.

He has an uncanny knowledge of human nature and his clear understanding of the philosophy of good fellowship affords him the faculty of pairing players just where they belong and handicapped too, so they will have an enjoyable game with newly-made friends. Bannagan knows every man's game at Columbia and he handicaps accordingly.

It was not so long ago this red-headed giant was a caddy at the old Columbia course when it was situated on Georgia avenue. In 1913 Freddie McLeod, professional at the club, took Banagan under his wing working him in the shop. A few years later "Reds" showing adaptability, became McLeod's assistant professional, a position which he now holds to the satisfaction of everyone.

Banagan has won the hearts of all the golfers about Washington through this unselfish desire to make everyone who steps out on the course feel that he is a part of it. His kindliness and honesty of purpose has never been questioned, for his heart is as big as his giant frame. Generous to a fault, there is not a taint of self-sufficiency about his make-up and the success of golf at Columbia is in a large measure due to his indefatigable efforts to create a fraternal spirit among the players.

When the sun each day drifts down behind the Montgomery County hills "Reds'" day is done and he wends his way homeward, there to meet the one who is uppermost in his thoughts throughout the days, his mother.

"REDS" BANNAGAN.

MARDFELDTS TO PLAY.

The Mardfeldt A. C. will meet the Colmar Manor Nine Saturday on the Mount Rainier diamond at 3 o'clock. The Mardfeldts are booking games with senior teams through Manager Lewis, at North 589. The Libertys are especially challenged.

"TANNHAUSER" ON RADIO BY NAVY BAND TONIGHT

March in Famous Opera Will Be Played—Honeymooners in Two Duets.

RUSSIANS ON PROGRAM

The grand march from Wagner's opera, "Tannhäuser," will open the program by the United States Navy Band, directed by Charles Benter, at 6 o'clock this evening, through WRC. The program will continue as follows: Overture to "Euryanthe" (Von Weber), "Three Blind Mice" (Lother), "On the Beautiful Rhine" (Keler-Bela), "Funeral March of a Marionette" (Gounod), excerpts from "Rio Rita," "Norwegian Rhapsody, No. 1" (Lalo) and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The Honeymooners will be heard in two duets during their program at 7:30 o'clock through WRC—"Dream River" and "No One Knows But the Red, Red Rose." Other features are Grier's "I'll Always Remember You," played as a violin solo; "Song of the Islands," as a guitar solo, and an orchestral novelty, "When Love Comes Stealing," by Erno Rapee.

Victor Herbert's arrangement of Ethelbert Nevin's "Narcissus" will be played in the hour of Slumber Music at 10 o'clock tonight. A suite by Nicode, "Scenes from the South," of the atmosphere of Southern Europe; "The Enchanted Lake," by Tschaikowsky, and Dvorak's "Slavonic Dance, No. 4," will be presented; "Songs d'Enfant" (Gabriel-Marie) and a lullaby from "Ea Aready" (Nevin), will close the feature.

An organ recital by Burrus Williams will be put on the air between 11 o'clock and noon today, and at 2:30 o'clock a play-by-play account of the Washington-Philadelphia baseball game will be broadcast.

Kirilloff's Balalaika Orchestra, playing an unusual program of music by Russian composers and folk songs, will be heard through WJZ, KDKA, WBAL and other stations of the NBC system in "Orchestras That Differ," at 8 o'clock tonight.

A salon arrangement of a number of Cuban folk melodies, collected by Nathaniel Shilkret while visiting there, will be presented through the same stations during the Maxwell House concert at 8:30 o'clock.

A concert by the United States Army Band will be put on the air by Station WMAL from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock. Capt. William J. Stannard is the leader.

"Why the Dinosaurs Died," is the subject of the science news talk from the station at 7:15 o'clock.

WRHP's dinner concert will be broadcast at 6 o'clock.

Birth Control Talk Resentful in Germany

Berlin, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Following a recent lecture tour by Mrs. Margaret Sanger, the American birth control advocate, plans have been made for the establishment of Germany's first bureaus for the dissemination of this kind of information among the poor.

In view of the strict laws in Germany against birth control, the new movement aroused a storm of opposition.

The movement in Germany has the bitter opposition of religious groups.

Czech Republic Gives Prewar Titles Back

Prague, Aug. 8 (A.P.). — Czechoslovakia, which since its creation as an independent republic in 1918 forbade the assumption of title to nobility or the receiving or wearing by its citizens of foreign decorations, has now revived the custom of other European countries of rewarding those who have rendered service to the state. Czech citizens may hereafter not only receive foreign decorations, but may assume any titles they may have had before the war.

Shipping of Children By Hungary Increases

Budapest, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—More than 35,000 destitute Hungarian children have been adopted by families in Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Finland, Switzerland and France.

The Hungarian government became sponsor for the movement to find homes abroad for offspring of the exhausted war generation after all public institutions had become overcrowded.

A national women's organization has taken active charge of this unusual "export" trade and is preparing to submit a plan to the United States Government whereby Hungarian children could be adopted by American families in addition to the regular quota.

A Visit to Bruges.

Bruges, Belgium.

BRUGES is one of the most famous cities in Belgium. Next to Brussels I believe it is visited by more tourists than any other city in the country.

A glimpse of a canal in Bruges.

Bruges is not a large city, but it is very old. Some of its houses date back several hundred years.

Sometimes Bruges is called "The Venice of Belgium." That is because it contains a system of canals which, to some extent, take the place of streets. I boarded a motor boat and had a ride about the canals. On either side I saw rows of old houses. I was most interested in the gables of the houses I passed. They have very strange shapes. The roofs are covered with red tiles.

At one point during my boat ride I saw a row of poorhouses 300 years old. At another place I saw a hospital which was built more than 700 years ago. The boat passed under several low bridges and I had to duck my head to keep from what would have been no fun!

Later in the day I went to the famous belfry of the town. To get to the top I climbed more than 300 steps. I walked round and round a spiral staircase, and wondered whether it would take me forever to reach the top.

Arriving, at last, in the belfry I obtained a fine view of the city, with its hundreds of red roofs. I saw a great bell, which weighs about 18,000 pounds. The tongue of the bell is no longer used to make sounds. Instead a hammer strikes from the outside. Around this giant bell are 30 or 40 smaller bells. Every hour the hammers strike for the chimes. I happened to be up there at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and I may tell you that I heard plenty of sound! The hammers for the chimes are worked by a huge music box located just below the belfry.

Conduct and Common Sense

BY ANNE SINGLETON

PRAYER-BOOKS AND PROCESSIONS.

DEAR MISS SINGLETON: I read your articles and have noticed your frequent reference to "the prayerbook." To which prayer-book do you refer? M. B. M.

To the Episcopal prayer-book, for I am—if anything—an Episcopalian. But, surely every religion has a ritual and the wedding service must be given in different prayer-books.

Dear Miss Singleton: I am planning an informal church wedding with one, or possibly two, bridesmaids. My sweetheart, like most men, wants as simple an affair as possible and is particularly anxious to avoid the wedding march. Could I have him and the best man wait for us at the altar, and come in with my two bridesmaids, preceding me? I don't think my father will be present, and I will not have any one to give me away.

Is white correct for a midwinter wedding? If so, what should my bridesmaids wear? Is a wedding veil correct at an informal wedding? If white is not good, please suggest a suitable color scheme. H. F.

The proper procedure is for the bridegroom and the best man to wait for the bride at the altar. She comes up the aisle, escorted by some one who gives her away, if her father can not be present, a relation or friend does this. Her bridesmaids always precede her. The wedding march is always played by an organist. Solos are not sung often in the smart wedding, but there is no reason why they should not be, if the bride doesn't mind the long wait in the midst of the ceremony. White and veil are correct at any season, but if you want this to be simple, why not have a dress of beige chiffon velvet and a large hat? Your bridesmaids might be in honey-colored chiffon velvet.

YES, YOUR INCOME CAN BE DOUBLED
If you have a capacity for hard work and possess or can develop selling ability, you will find in our office an opportunity to double your present income. A salesman making $200 a month with a grocery products concern entered our office and averaged $7,000 a year for four years. One saleswoman has earned $6,000 already in 1928. A good salesman should average $400 to $600 a month. An outstanding salesman can earn $10,000 a year and more.
We are about to open a new subdivision, the first to be placed on the market having direct access to the new Lee Boulevard, a 200-foot superhighway to be built by the State of Virginia. We shall require ten more experienced salesmen to handle this property when it is opened for sale August 25. We also furnish free training and assistance in closing sales to beginners working full or part time. Investigate this unusual opportunity to increase your income. AMERICA'S SMARTEST COLONY OF ENGLISH GROUP HOMES.

FOXHALL VILLAGE
Nine Minutes from Dupont Circle.

A VILLAGE IN THE CITY

In mass, division and detail the English house shows much that merits the careful attention of the good architect. Its charms can not be secured from the unguided hands of the average contractor and workman. It is rather the result of a thorough study on the part of the architect, of proportions and composition, which shows a feeling for material and careful attention to every part, in the development of the consistent and beautiful whole.

do the right things in Old England

CLOTTED cream and yellow saffron cake for 5 o'clock tea in pirateless Penzance. By the way, this adorable Cornwall town was the home of Jack the Giant Killer. They'll even show you the caverns and giant chairs.

Look at the old cathedral in Winchester ... then stay over-night at the God-Begot House. There's Harrogate, too, an exceedingly smart spa. But just as important as the things you do is the ship you choose to get there. Make it a Canadian Pacific Empress ... aristocratic, gracious and smart!

These famous ships sail from Quebec by the great St. Lawrence River and Gulf ... to Cherbourg and Southampton. The regal Duchesses, from Montreal to Liverpool. The popular "M" Fleet calls at Liverpool, Southampton, Belfast, Glasgow, Cobh, Cherbourg, Antwerp, Hamburg. Direct train services to ship's side.

If you have a capacity for hard work and possess or can develop selling ability, you will find in our office an opportunity to double your present income. A salesman making $200 a month with a grocery products concern entered our office and averaged $7,000 a year for four years. One saleswoman has earned $6,000 already in 1928. A good salesman should average $400 to $500 a month. An outstanding salesman can earn $10,000 a year or more.
We are about to open a new subdivision, the first to be placed on the market having direct access to the new Lee Boulevard, a 200-foot superhighway to be built by the State of Virginia. We shall require ten more experienced salesmen to handle this property when it is opened for sale August 25. We also furnish free training and assistance in closing sales to beginners working full or part time. Investigate this unusual opportunity to increase your income. Call at 1405 New York avenue and ask for sales manager.

INQUIRY IS ORDERED IN ABUSES CHARGED AGAINST DRY AGENTS

ORCUTT IS DELEGATED AS INVESTIGATOR

More Comprehensive Survey May Result From Complaint Lodged in Office.

A sweeping investigation of alleged abuses against private property and citizens by prohibition enforcement agents is believed to be under way by the office of United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, following complaint made to him by E. A. Rickert, 2106 Eighteenth street northwest.

Rickert complained that prohibition officers had dragged him from the sidewalk in front where was an onlooker into the raided establishment and had beaten him. Rover delegated Assistant United States Attorney Harold W. Orcutt, who prepared and prosecuted the Le Paradis Cafe injunction suit, to make the investigation.

No Statement Now.

Orcutt said yesterday that his time has been taken up by the Le Paradis investigations and litigation and that he is not prepared to issue any statement at the present time. He also declined to say whether or not he would confine his efforts to the Rickert case or would make a more comprehensive investigation of enforcement methods here.

Rover said that the full extent of the investigation has not as yet been determined and that it was likely that the results of the Rickert investigation would lead to further delving.

Guarded in Remarks.

The United States attorney was very guarded in his remarks, however, and would not make any definite statement except that the Rickert case is being investigated by his office.

There have been a number of cases recently in which citizens have complained that the raiders have destroyed private property while making raids, in many instances when they found no evidence.

Youth Held in $2,000 As Church Robber

James Henry Irving, 19 years old, Wyoming, Pa., yesterday was held for action of the grand jury on two charges of housebreaking by Judge Robert E. Mattingly in Police Court. He pleaded guilty and waived preliminary hearing. Bond was fixed at $2,000 and Irving was sent to Gallinger Hospital for treatment.

Irving pleaded guilty without emotion and then was taken back to the courtrooom cells. He was not represented by a lawyer. The specific charges to which he pleaded guilty were breaking into the store of Samuel Napolis, 2104 Fourteenth street northwest, and breaking into the Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church. He was discovered kneeling in front of the safe at the church by the janitor early Monday morning and was turned over to police.

Policeman Bailey Accused of Assault

Following the dismissal by Judge Isaac R. Hitt of a charge of intoxication preferred against him by Policeman C. T. Bailey, of the Second Precinct, Charles D. Chick, 120 Quincy place northeast, yesterday filed complaint of assault against the policeman with Assistant United States Attorney Ralph Given. Chick asserted that the policeman struck him without provocation.

Several friends testified to his good character, and a physician, who examined him shortly after his arrest, gave him a written statement that he could find no evidence of drink. The physician's statement took note of a number of cuts and bruises on Chick's face. Given declined to state whether or not the warrant for the officer had been issued.

Associated Charities Camps at Capacity

Accommodations at Camp Pleasant at Blue Plains, D. C., and Camp Good Will in Rock Creek Park were filled to capacity yesterday with the arrival of more than 300 mothers and children as guest of the Summer outngs committee of the Associated Charities. The group is the fourth to be given the benefit of the vacation given annually to those who ordinarily would be stay-at-homes in crowded houses.

The Camp Good Will party was assembled at the Wallach School, Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast, under the supervision of Mrs. Louise G. Beall, field secretary of the committee. Those destined for Camp Pleasant gathered at the Phelps School, Vermont avenue and T street northwest.

Body of Mrs. Matus Found by Ferryman

The body of Mrs. Eric Matus, of Greater Capitol Heights, Md., who was drowned Sunday in the Potomac River, off the Morgantown Light, was recovered yesterday when it was seen floating near Colonial Beach by Charles Foster, a ferryman.

Mrs. Matus and her husband were drowned when a fishing boat capsized throwing them into the water, where they sank before help reached them.

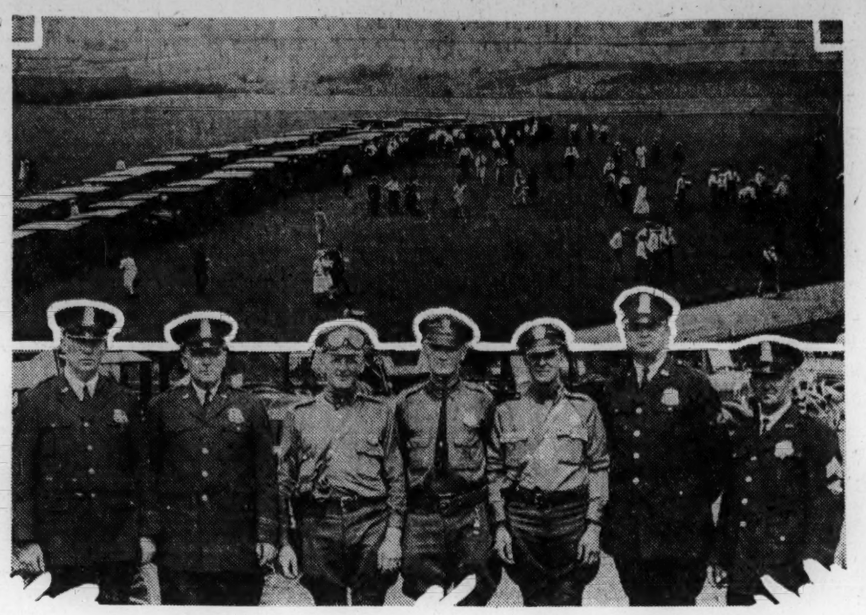

Mrs. Matus' body was brought to the funeral parlor of Timothy Hanlon, 641 H street northeast, where it was prepared for burial in a vault at Prospect Hill Cemetery. The body will be kept in the vault until Matus' body is recovered, when a joint funeral will be held for the two.

Boys Working, So Girls Get Licenses to Wed

Two young women from Baltimore, Md., arrived at the courthouse yesterday and made arrangements for what they described as a "double runaway marriage," which they have planned for Sunday. They were Miss Eva Sugarman, 19 years old, and Miss Ethel Caplan, 19, both of Baltimore. They expect to have Rabbi George Silverman marry them to two brothers, Irving Amernick, 22, and Jack Amernick, 23, also of Baltimore, Sunday.

Blushing and ill at ease the girls confided to newspaper men at the courthouse that their "beaus" were employed, and that they got the licenses so that the boys wouldn't miss a day at work.

PENNSYLVANIA FARMER TOURISTS AND POLICE ESCORT

Hugh Miller, Post Staff Photographer.

Upper—Police from Pennsylvania, Maryland and the District yesterday escorted through the city to the Department of Agriculture Experimental Farm in Arlington County a motor caravan of Pennsylvania farmers from Franklin County. There were 170 automobiles and a bus in the caravan. Lower, left to right—W. C. Lewis and A. Shockey, of the Metropolitan Police Department; J. W. McCormick, Pennsylvania State police; L. E. Williams, Maryland State police; D. E. Hatter, Pennsylvania State police, and R. H. Kaylor and Sergt. Milton Smith, Metropolitan Police Department.

UTILITIES COMMISSION AND FLEHARTY OUT $1,000

HAVE CHANGED ATTITUDE

It is costing John W. Childress, chairman, and Col. Harrison Brand, jr., vice chairman, of the Public Utilities Commsson, and Ralph B. Fleharty, people's counsel, $1,000 a year each for an indefinite period, for the luxury of having remained unclassified employes of the District government for slightly more than a year.

This developed yesterday when it was learned that they had changed their minds and applied for classification in an effort to avail themselves of the benefits of the Welch bill and have their salaries increased from $7,500 to $9,000 as were the salaries of the District Commissioners, who entered the classified service in 1923. But they applied too late. They can now get only a $500, instead of a $1,500, increase, which will make their new salaries $8,000.

When the three men took office they refused to be classified. They said they were appointed by the President and classification was not a boon for them. They were told that the District Commissioners, getting the same pay and also appointed by the President, were classified, but the argument left them unconvinced.

Then the District Commissioners obtained $1,500 advances in salary each by the operation of the Welch bill. The three public utilities men wanted similar increases.

In "But you are not classified," the District auditor told them.

They undertook to correct the situation yesterday by applying for original classification. Then they were told that whereas an employe already classified, moved to a higher class by the Welch bill, automatically went to a salary grade in the new class corresponding to the one he held in his old class, an employe entering a class subsequent to last July 1 had to enter at the minimum salary grade of the new class, notwithstanding the Welch bill.

The minimum salary grade of the class in which the District Commissioners now are and which the public utilities men seek to enter, is $8,000. And they haven't even that classification yet. The District personnel classification board meets Monday to review the application, and its decision must be reviewed by the Federal Personnel Classification Board.

KNOCKED SENSELESS BY ARTIST, GIRL SAYS

The refusal of 19-year-old Catherine Kennedy, McKinley High School pupil and student of the Corcoran Art School, to attend a motion picture with William Calhoun Kennedy, 24 years old, an artist residing at 1619 Seventeenth street northwest, is the reason assigned by police for an alleged attack upon the young woman charged to the artist who yesterday was arrested by local police for Montgomery County authorities.

Complaint was made by J. R. Kennedy, of 109 Carroll avenue, Takoma Park, Md., the girl's father, who obtained a warrant from Samuel R. Eyle, a justice of the peace of Montgomery County.

The father said that Kennedy telephoned his daughter Saturday afternoon to make an engagement to go to the movies. Rebuffed, Kennedy is said to have called at the house later. Miss Kennedy's mother and sister, who had been absent from home, returned to find the girl in a semiconscious condition.

The prisoner, although bearing the same name as the young woman, is no relation to her, it was said.

Vanished Capital Wife Found By Radio Appeal

An appeal broadcast from station WFBR in Baltimore last night resulted in Earl C. Kilby, of 623 East Capitol street, finding his wife and making arrangements to meet her in the Baltimore police headquarters.

Baltimore police reported that Kilby asked them to search for his wife, who, they said, left Kilby's home after a dispute. Kilby, they said, traced her to Baltimore. When he asked the police they put the appeal on the radio station used by them to find missing persons.

Shortly after the appeal was broadcast, Lieut. Joseph H. Itzel, Baltimore detective, received a telephone call from Mrs. George Wilder, who told him that Mrs. Kilby was a boarder at her home.

Itzel got in touch with both Mr. and Mrs. Kilby and made arrangements for them to meet at police headquarters.

PRIVATE CARS ALLOWED TO PARK ABREAST, RULE

TRUCK RIGHTS CLAIMED

Holding that the operator of a private vehicle has the same rights on the streets as the operator of a commercial vehicle, Judge Isaac R. Hitt, in Police Court, yesterday dismissed charges of parking abreast preferred against L. H. Otto, an ornamental iron contractor, by Policeman Griffin, of the First Precinct.

The policeman charged that Otto had parked abreast for a short while on New York avenue near Fourteenth street northwest, and that when he ordered him to move on Otto became abusive. Otto also was charged with disorderly conduct. This charge was also dismissed by Judge Hitt.

Otto said that he had parked for a few minutes while his son ran into a blueprint shop on the corner to leave tracings for a "job." Attorney Charles W. Arth, representing Otto, pointed out that ice trucks and other commercial vehicles are permitted to park abreast for as much as 30 minutes, while unloading and delivering. He declared that Otto was transacting business and was within the law.

OTHER ESTIMATES LATER

The letter of Brig. Gen. H. M. Lord, director of the Bureau of the Budget, stating that the President had allocated $39,962,107 as a tentative maximum amount for the 1930 municipal budget, was received by the District Commissioners yesterday. They made plans, accordingly, to trim the estimates to the extent of $2,515,924. They already had deducted somewhat more than $8,000,000 from the sum asked for by District department heads, so that when they resubmit their estimates September 15 the total will be $10,000,000 less than the original.

As usual, Gen. Lord invited the Commissioners to ask for supplemental estimates if they felt that imperative fiscal needs could not be included in the sum named by the President.

When the announcement first was made that the Budget Bureau's figure was $39,900,000 in round numbers, it was thought that the bureau's finding agreed with the recommendation of the Commissioners.

The Commissioners asked for $39,089,531 for the ordinary expenses of local government exclusive of $3,377,500 for trust and special funds, included under the item heading "permanent and indefinite appropriations." This increased the proposed budget total to $42,478,031.

STATE POLICE HUNT FUGITIVES IN WOODS

Suspects in Eleven Robberies Believed to Be Hiding Near Laurel, Md.

Maryland State police, working in conjunction with police of Prince Georges County, last night continued their search of the woods near Laurel for a trace of the hiding place of three men, thought to be the same who have been terrorizing residents of the county with a series of hold-ups and shootings.

Vernon Liezer, 30, reported by the police to be the leader of the group; George Bender, 18, and George Hinton, 18, all of whom recently broke out of the jails at Marlboro and Annapolis, Md., are familiar with the territory around near Laurel.

Since escaping from the jail at Marlboro, where they were held on charges of looting the postoffice at Halls, Md., the three are charged with having committed eleven robberies and holdups, and with having participated in a gunbattle with two of their victims.

Reports Wife Gone Second Time in Week

For the second time in a week police are searching for Mrs. Julia Forrest, of Vancouver, Wash., who disappeared from her husband, George Forrest, at the Veterans Bureau yesterday. A week ago Mrs. Forrest, who, according to her husband, is demented, disappeared from her husband at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Two days later she was found in Gallinger Hospital.

Forrest told police that his wife is 37 years old but appears much older. She is five feet tall and weighs about 120 pounds. She has dark bobbed hair. When last seen she was wearing a light colored straw hat, black dress and brown shoes.

NAVY FLIERS' RATES FOR INSURANCE RISE

Wilbur Orders Mutual Aid Members to Pay $99.24 on $7,500 Annually.

Following study of deaths of aviation members of the Navy Mutual Aid Association, an insurance organization of naval service men, which revealed 37 in the past three years, it was announced at the Navy Department yesterday, that because of the dangerous vocation, aviation members have been ordered by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur to pay a premium of $99.24 a year on the $7,500 insurance policies carried by them in the organization.

It was explained at headquarters of the association that it was the last of many insurance organizations to demand premiums on aviators, other service and commercial organizations having long since assessed aviators premiums of $25 to $50 on each $1,000 of insurance carried.

It was said that 85 per cent or 550 of the naval pilots and observers belong to the association, but that many of the younger and unmarried pilots, some of whom had been killed in accidents during the past three years did not belong.

Alimony May Protect Man Who Shot Wife and Escort

The $40-a-month alimony Ernest Cole, 27 years old, of 912 Delafield place northwest, pays his wife, Florence, 25, may keep him from being prosecuted on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Mrs. Cole was shot over her heart Sunday night at the home in Hyattsville, Gerald Maher, 22 ytars old, of 1669 Columbia road northwest, was shot three times, twice in the face. Both are at Providence Hospital in a serious condition. Cole is being held at the Marlboro Jail.

Yesterday Mrs. Cole told Chief of Police C. M. Blanchard of Hyattsville, Md., she was undecided whether to prosecute her husband or to forgive him and forget.

If Mrs. Cole prosecutes her husband he will be menaced by a long term in the penitentiary. He will lose his job at the navy yard, where he is employed as a glassworker, if convicted, and Mrs. Cole will therefore lose her $40 a month alimony. And she said she does not want to lose the money, according to Chief Blanchard.

Meanwhile, while Mrs. Cole is fighting for her life, Cole is being held without bond in the jail at Marlboro. He waived preliminary hearings yesterday when taken to Hyattsville and was committed on two charges of assault with intent to kill. Cole, police said, admitted both shootings, which, he said, were committed in a "fit of anger."

700 STUDENTS JURORS AT SCIENTIFIC LECTURE

Device Proves Its Effectiveness, Even When Windows Are Opened.

Special to The Washington Post.

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—Emile Berliner, noted Washington inventor, scored another triumph today when a practical test of his latest invention, the acoustic wall cell, in the Drexel Institute, of this city, was acclaimed by professors of science as a distinct advance in the solution of the problem of overcoming acoustic defects of large halls.

For more than a generation professors and students of Drexel Institute have struggled to be heard and understood in the institution's auditorium. Noted scientists eminent for their work in the field of acoustics were consulted. Various methods for improving the apparently hopeless defects of the auditorium were tried, but all failed to effect a satisfactory improvement in conditions which made the hall almost useless.

Berliner, who has interested himself in the study of sound since his invention of the telephone transmitter 51 years ago offered to install his device to prove that a situation that was despaired of was not altogether hopeless. The cells were imbedded beneath the surface of the side and rear walls and plastered over as is the customary treatment. This work was finished nearly two weeks ago and today's demonstration was arranged to provide a practical test.

First Large-Scale Test.

Already the device has transformed the board room of the District Building in Washington from a virtual bedlam into a room where speakers can be understood quite clearly. The Oyster School, of Washington, also has been provided with the device in its auditorium and success also crowned Berliner's efforts there. But today's test at the institute was the first large-scale trial carried out systematically.

In the course of his work Berliner found that by forming a hollow space under the outer surface of a wall and covering this portion with a porous cement, he could produce a pleasing resonance where annoying reverberations were formerly given off.

The test at Drexel Institute was unique. The occasion of a scientific lecture before the summer school student body was seized as an opportunity for trying out the acoustic cells. The students, 700 in number, together with many members of the faculty were impanel as a jury to sit in judgment on the invention.

Thrice Pronounced Success.

Dean R. C. Disque of the institute, who presided, faced in all directions while making his remarks preliminary to the test, so that his voice might be studied no matter how he was facing. Those in the rear had no difficulty in catching all he said. The test was begun with all windows closed and even after they were opened, with loud street noises intermingling with the voice of a speaker, nearly every word was understood quite distinctly.

That the cells produced a "wonderful improvement" in the hall's acoustics was the opinion advanced by W. R. Wagenseller, comptroller of the institute. Another who enthusiastically praised the invention was Dr. J. E. Shrader, professor of physics.

C. L. Altmaier, professor of dramatics, expressed himself as very well pleased and began at once to plan a student dramatic production, whereas, heretofore, he has been unable to use the auditorium for that purpose.

William A. Hellprin, representing the inventor, explained the invention at the beginning of the demonstration. He told of the attempt to correct the hall's acoustics made recently by an eminent authority on hall acoustics by padding the walls with hair felt. But, he stated, the deadness produced was equally unendurable.

AMERICAN MAY FLY FRIENDSHIP TO U. S.

Donald Woodward, New Owner of Earhart Plane, Rumored Planning Attempt.

Portland, Me., Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The monoplane Friendship, in which Amelia Earhart and her companions flew from this country to England, will be manned by an American crew for a return flight to America, according to information received here today.

It was announced recently that the Friendship had been purchased by Donald Woodward, wealthy aviation enthusiast of Washington, D. C. Today State Senator Arthur G. Spear said he had received a letter from a New York friend which stated that Woodward, accompanied by Captain Harry Rogers of the Rogers Air Line, had sailed abroad for the purpose of flying the Friendship back to America.

Mr. Woodward was in Washington late yesterday. His friends said Mr. Woodward is not particularly interested in aviation, and that they heard the rumor about two weeks ago that Donald Woodward, wealthy aviation enthusist, o. New York City, would purchase the Friendship.

Newspaper Thefts Take Two to Court

Mary Harrison, colored, 424 New York avenue northwest, was arraigned on the same charge and fined $10. In view of her good past record, Judge Robert E. Mattingly suspended sentence. The arrests were made by Policeman Van D. Hughes, of the Second Precinct.

Bankruptcy Petition Filed.

Creditors of the Lansburgh Interior Decorating Co., Inc., 1629 Connecticut avenue northwest, have filed a petition in the District Supreme Court to have the company adjudged bankrupt. The creditors assert that the company is insolvent and has permitted a judgment to be obtained by a New York creditor. According to the petition the company owes $11,000 and has estimated assets of $4,000. Attorneys Albert E. Steinem, Milton D. Korman and Richard D. Daniels appear for the creditors.

POLICE ENDING PAIR'S HONEYMOON

Ellis Lee Marsh, 19 years old, of 1334 W street southeast, being led to the patrol from detective headquarters by Policeman L. C. Norton after being arrested with his wife, Lillie Virginia Marsh, 15 years old, on charges of taking an automobile from Gordonsville, Va., his wife's home. They were married here yesterday.

Boy and Girl Honeymooners Arrested in Bridal Joyride

Ellis L Marsh, 19, and His Virginia Wife, 15, Who Gave Wrong Ages to License Clerk, Took Car to Reach Capital, Charge.

A pair of youthful honeymooners, whose alleged joy ride in a Ford coupe to this city brought the police hot on their trail, were separated yesterday when they were arrested on a telegraphic order from authorities at Barboursville, Va.

Ellis Lee Marsh, the bridegroom, who gave his age as 19 years, but who looks much younger, was sent to the First Precinct Station, while his 15-year-old bride, Lillie Virginia Marsh, spent the night at the House of Detention, as a result of Detective Sergeant Jett's tracing through the marriage licenses, the youth who was being sought in connection with the missing automobile.

Marsh, who lives with his father, at 1334 W street southeast, told the police that while at Cordonsville, Orange County, Va., Saturday he and the girl decided to get married. He admitted taking the automobile in which he told police that he and his bride-to-be drove as far as Staffordsville, when the gas gave out.

A motorist gave them a "lift" the next morning after a night spent in the fuelless Ford, Marsh said. They reached Washington Sunday and were married Tuesday after the girl told the marriage license clerk her age was 18 years, and Marsh declared himself to be of age, he told the police.

The Rev. H. M. Bennig, of 505 Fourth street northwest, married them and they went to the home of the boy's father, where Detectives Wolf and Jett found them. The couple will be turned over to Virginia authorities, Jett said.

Marsh told them, the police say, he was recently paroled from the National Training School. He gave his occupation as a farmeer

BISHOP ARRANGES CONVENTION PLANS

Rev. Dr. J. E. Freeman Plans to Have Cathedral Floor Ready for Sessions.

In an effort to arrange the main floor of Washington Cathedral so services of the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church may be held there in October, Bishop James E. Freeman last night left for Boston, where he and the Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, Dean of Washington, will confer with the architects.

Bishop Freeman interrupted his vacation at Sorrento, Me., to return to Washington Tuesday to inspect the work and to confer with the chairmen of the various committees arranging for the entertainment of the 20,000 or more pilgrims who are expected for the convention.

Bishop Freeman paid tribute to those who are remaining here during the summer to complete plans. He said arrangements are being handled satisfactorily, and predicted that the gathering would be one of the most notable in the history of the church.

Bigamous Marriage Charged by Wife.

Mrs. Emma L. Flattery, 703 I street southeast, filed suit in Equity Court yesterday for absolute divorce from John Francis Flattery, Chelsea, Mass. She charges that he contracted a bigamous marriage with Margaret McDonald, Dorchester, Mass., and that he has failed to support her or their child. The couple were married June 29, 1921. The wife, through her attorney, Raymond Neudecker, asks absolute divorce and alimony.

U. S. BOOK EXPLAINS NICARAGUA SITUATION

State Department Issues Pamphlet Telling Why Marines Are in That Country.

(Associated Press.)

The reason American Marines are in Nicaragua is fully and officially set forth in a brief history of the relations between the United States and that country compiled by the State Department and published yesterday in a 77-page pamphlet. Dating back to 1909, it reviews revolution after revolution and notes the constant watchfulness necessary on the part of the United States to protect its citizens and their property in the Central American country.

Details of the arrangements leading up to the request of Nicaragua that the United States supervise its presidential election this fall are fully set forth.

The carrying into effect of the Tipitapa agreement and the participation of American Marines in the work are described. In running down bandits refusing to lay down their arms in accordance with the agreement the Marines had lost 21 of their men up to April 18, this year, a resume of engagements shows.

A deep interest in the subject on the part of foreign affairs students in educational institutions who have been actively debating both sides of the question of American participation in Nicaragua's affairs had swamped the State Department with requests for official information. It was to meet these demands that the document was compiled.

Marshal Unwittingly Sells Aged Corn With Seized Car

Reminiscent of an old ditty popular in the 90's, about granny's old armchair which proved a boon legacy when the bottom fell out, Morton Levy young architectural clerk of 3105 Sixteenth street northwest, yesterday was enjoying the last laugh in response to those who cast jibes his way Tuesday when he purchased an ancient "flivver" from Uncle Sam for a high bid of $18.50.

It seems that when he lifted the seat of the "flivver" to ascertain the cause of an uncomfortable hump, after consumating his purchase, he found two glass jars of contraband corn whisky. The machine is one of a group sold by court order by Maj. Edgar C. Snyder, United States marshal, for illegal transportation of liquor, and Levy, not wishing to be charged with possession, sped home with his find.

Apparently the contraband had been overlooked by the police and prohibition agents who have had possession of the automobile since last June, and, as Levy put it, two-month-old corn is aged liquor nowadays. It is understood that the jars were empty yesterday.

Figuring that rare old two-month corn has a market value of at least $5 a quart, Levy's friends figure that he received in his dealing with Uncle Sam a total value of $20 in the two half-gallon jars of corn, with the "flivver" to boot, for his $18.50.

In contrast to Levy, Marshal Snyder was greatly perturbed yesterday when informed that he had unwittingly auctioned off the contraband.

"It seems hardly possible," he declared on being advised of the situation. "That car had been in the hands of the prohibition people and the police for months. It was up to them to search it. They must have done so thoroughly. How they could miss finding a gallon of liquor is a mystery to me. I did not search the cars which were auctioned off. My duty was to sell them."

CHINESE EMPLOYERS GRANTED INSURANCE AFTER LONG BATTLE

Wardman Agency Issues Policies When All Others in City Rebuff Pleas.

WERE KEPT ON OUTSIDE OF COMPENSATION LAW

Orientals Are Held Too Great Risks by Companies; Officials Explain Status.

Unable to see why a Chinese waiter is a greater employes' compensation risk than a Greek bus boy, or an Oriental laundryman more hazardous than the everyday-run of washwomen, the Wardman Insurance Agency, 1437 H street northwest, recently rushed in where other District underwriters feared to tread, and saved a paradoxical situation by insuring the employes of five Chinese establishments in Washington that had vainly endeavored to comply with the new workmen's compensation law.

According to the Chinese and their attorneys, with whom the Wardman agency negotiated in finally arranging the insurance, the other companies underwriting workmen's compensation insurance in the District consider the Celestials bad risks, and either refused outright or canceled previously issued policies to them.

Kept Without the Law.

In consequence, the Chinese employers were without the law, and through no fault of their own unable to comply with it.

After a worried consultation, the Canton Pagoda, the Kong Hong Low and the Han Bow Low restaurants, together with Charlie Moy and Hang Wah, laundry men, decided to pool their troubles and place their conflict with the law in the hands of an attorney.

McLanahan & Burton, at the Union Trust Building, were engaged to find a solution of their troubles.

Attorney Robert Burton said yesterday that while he is convinced that underwriters can be forced to take over risks that are offered them, he first endeavored to find a company that would write the Chinese policies voluntarily.

He found, however, that the situation was exactly as the Chinese had remonstratingly claimed, and that none of the local companies would issue them policies except the Wardman agency, with whom he finally reached an agreement.

No Explanation Offered.

The rejecting companies offer no explanation other than that they consider Chinese bad risks, Burton said, but it is believed that the fear of Tong warfare is a contributing factor.

Deputy Commissioner Robert J. Hoage stated yesterday that no complaints in regard to the Chinese had been brought to the United States Employes Compensation Commission, but declared that it could force the 5 companies which are authorized to write compensation insurance in Washington to split up all undesirable risks among themselves.

3 KILLED, 1 INJURED IN AIRPLANE CRASHES

Lieut. Walsh was taken to the hospital at Fort Eustis, Va., where physicians said he was badly crushed and in a serious condition. Lieut. Walsh, 24-year-old son of G. L. Walsh, of Farmer City, was commissioned in the Air Corps in 1927, following training at Brooks and Kelly fields, Tex. He was stationed here at Bolling Field until October when he became a member of the Second Bombardment Group at Langley Field. Under leave granted by the War Department he came to the Washington Airport June 10 and engaged in commercial aviation as an instructor and piloting passenger planes.

Walsh Rapid Teacher.

Walsh will be remembered here as the pilot who instructed Dalton E. Erwin, of 1216 Kennedy street northwest, a grocer, to fly alone after only four hours' instruction. He returned to Langley Field a week ago yesterday, his leave having expired. While in Washington he lived at 5315 Colorado avenue northwest, with Robert E. Funkhouser, president of the Washington Airport.

Sergt. Hawkins was 40 years old. He enlisted in 1908, serving consecutively in the Field Artilery, the Infantry and then in the Air Corps. He went to Langley Field in August, 1926, after long service with the headquarters company of the Twelfth Infantry. Last spring he was graduated from the Air Corps Technical School.

Associated Press dispatches said that Tavey and Bovis took off from Lunken Airport against the advice of airport officials who warned them against flying in a heavy fog with a light commercial plane not equipped with instruments for "blind flying."

Plane Had Dual Control.

Lieut. Tavey was born in Leesburg, Ohio, 33 years ago. He enlisted as a flying cadet in 1918, being commissioned in the Air Corps reserve that year. He was reappointed in 1926. In civilian life he was an automobile dealer.

Bovis also was a pilot, having been graduated at the Lunken Airport two months ago. It was not possible to determine whether he or Tavey was piloting, as the plane was equipped with dual controls. They were found dead beneath the wreckage of their plane in a cornfield.

Marine Crash Survivor Commended for Conduc

Corpl. Reeder Nichols of Florence, Ala., lone survivor of the airplane crash at Fife, Va., June 23, in which Maj. Charles A. Lutz and two members of his crew were killed, is to be commended by Maj. Gen. Lejeune, commandant of the Marine Corps.

Corpl. Nichols was the radio operator on the giant trimotored transport plane, which was flying to Nicaragua and, although seriously injured, carried out orders of the corps by reporting to his commanding officer at Quantico, Va. Gen. Lejeune said a letter was being drafted to commend Corpl. Nichols for his excellent conduct.

The board of inquiry has made its report into the accident and it was approved yesterday by the commandant, but will not be made public until Secretary Wilbur returns to Washington.
